DEDICATION

TO GRADUATES—OLD AND NEW—
THIS NUMBER OF THE CHRONICLE IS INSCRIBED
EDITORIAL

THE Editorial Board regret that they must preface this number of The Chronicle with apologies for apparent tardiness in issuing it. Their good intentions of publishing this edition during the week of graduation were of no avail, as contributions did not come in early enough to permit them to do so. However, we hope that the long wait will not have caused the value of The Chronicle to be any the less than it has been in former years.

We had hoped to have had more reports of the work of the Branches to publish, as it is to the Branches we look for the extension of the programme of the Alumni Association. Strong hopes are entertained for an improvement in this section of next year’s edition of The Chronicle.

We acknowledge with thanks the contributions of material and “Personals” sent in by various loyal graduates who have been untiring in their efforts to obtain “news”. To the members of the Faculty who have so graciously given of their time and their work, and to Mr. Mathews and his staff, who are always “a very present help”, we offer our sincerest thanks.

EXTENSION ACTIVITIES OF THE UNIVERSITY

The programme of Extension lectures which was carried on so successfully during 1935-36 stimulated a demand for lectures by members of the staff of the University throughout the province. It became necessary in the fall of 1936 to charge a fee of $5.00 for each lecture, but a provision was made by which the fee for three consecutive lectures given by one lecturer was $7.50. Between the end of October and the beginning of May over 200 lectures were given at various points in the province with an estimated attendance of 12,350. The three-day course has proved very successful in those places which tried it. In Prince Rupert a very successful series was carried out under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the speakers being Professor Todd and Deans F. M. Clement, D. Buchanan and J. N. Finlayson. On the other hand in smaller centres like Nakusp three-day courses were given by Professor J. E. Morsh in Psychology and Professor W. G. Black in Education. In New Westminster and in Victoria an endeavour was made to build the lectures into a series. Co-operation with the libraries was arranged and a very interesting programme was given of periodical lectures based on "The Georgian Period, 1910-1935".

An experiment was made in the matter of evening classes. In addition to two courses given by Professor A. F. Barss in Horticulture and Professor E. A. Lloyd in Poultry Husbandry under the auspices of the Vancouver School Board, Professor E. G. Cullwick gave a course at the University in Electronics and there were no less than 181 registered in "The Modern Approach to Social Welfare" course. The course in Botany which has been so successfully operated by Professor John Davidson for many years had a very satisfactory registration and despite the unfavourable weather conditions, the attendance was admirable. Study groups have been formed at various centres in the province and some help given such groups. The members of the Faculty of Agriculture co-operated with the agricultural section of the B. C. Electric Railway in a series of Monday evening radio farm talks. As to forums, the Vancouver Institute had a successful season; the University Hill Forum, under the leadership of Professor O. J. Todd, proved a successful venture on Monday evenings, and the University co-operated with the Public Library in their Wednesday evening lectures. Some attention has been given to the popularizing of the panel discussion in Vancouver with excellent results.

This year the University Players' Club put on an excellent play, "The Brontes", which left the audience feeling that they wanted to re-read "Jane Eyre" and "Wuthering Heights". A very successful tour was undertaken by the Club, backed by the Alma Mater Society, and they played to good houses at Courtenay, Qualicum, Powell River, Duncan and West Vancouver.

As to a programme for the future, it is hoped to continue the policy of courses of lectures given by members of the staff throughout the province, with some emphasis upon the three-day consecutive courses and the periodical courses. Arrangements are also being made to offer a number of courses for evening students at the University next winter. In the matter of visual education, a lantern slide loan service will be established this summer and will be available next winter. Co-operation is being arranged with the Vancouver Branch of the National Film Society and the Visual Education Branch of the Vancouver School Board for the distribution of educational films where there are projectors.
With regard to the radio, it is realized that the University, having no station, can best influence the standard of radio broadcasting by interesting itself in the work of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The Director of Extension has, therefore, accepted the appointment of Chairman of the B. C. Regional Advisory Council under the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The Council, consisting as it does of members who have an intimate knowledge of music, the drama and of adult education, should be in a good position to relate radio programmes to the growing movement of adult education throughout the province.

As to the use of the small number of volumes in the Extension Library, it is appreciated that the libraries of the province must be the mainstay in adult education programmes. It is felt that with the limited Extension Library facilities of the University, these can best be used by boxing small collections of books for study groups. As a general principle the limited equipment of the Extension Department will be made available only to groups and not to individuals. In the library field this will assist in differentiating the functions of the ordinary library services (meeting the need of individuals) from that of the Extension Library of the University, giving a service to study-groups.

With regard to study-groups, it is felt that the University can best help the movement by endeavouring to be of service to leaders of groups. An example of this kind of course which can be developed is that being arranged in cooperation with the Parent-Teacher Association for the month of June (16-19th). This course deals with "Education—Modern Men, Methods and Curriculum" with a programme as follows: Hon. G. M. Weir, "Modern Trends in Education"; Professor H. T. J. Coleman, "John Dewey"; Professor W. G. Black, "Leaders in Education in Post-War Britain"; Mr. A. R. Lord, Principal of the Normal School, "The Teacher and His Training"; Professor J. E. Morsh, "John Broadus Watson"; Dr. H. B. King, Technical Adviser, Provincial Department of Education, "The New Curriculum in British Columbia"; Professor C. B. Wood, "Modern Schools on the Pacific Coast"; Professor J. Wyman Pilcher, "The Place of Terman in Education".

Another interesting development is the inauguration of a week-end drama school at Invermere. This district has a very lively interest in the drama and during the winter put on three plays a month. The course is being arranged for the week-end of June 11 to 13 and will be directed by Major L. Bullock-Webster and Miss Dorothy Somerset. The course will begin on the Friday evening, continue on through Saturday and on the afternoon of the Sunday in the grounds of the Lady Elizabeth Bruce hospital, "The Chester Mysteries" and two scenes from "Julius Caesar" will be performed.

In the matter of music, the University has been fortunate in securing a set of gramophone records of standard classical music through the Carnegie Corporation. It is hoped to make arrangements by which this can be used through the radio and in other ways for the stimulation of music appreciation.

With regard to handicrafts, as a result of the work being done by Mrs. J. T. McCay of the Vancouver Folk Festival, the organizers plan to open a shop for the sale of genuine artistic handicraft and to form a branch of the Canadian Handicraft Guild.

As to workers' education, during the past winter Mr. Morgan, M.A., of the University Book Store, has directed a very successful class. A series of lectures was given by members of the staff of the University to a number of working men at 666 Homer Street. As a result of the visit of Mr. E. A. Corbett, Director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, and Mr. Drummond Wren of the Workers' Educational Association of Canada, a committee has been formed by the trade unions to explore the possibilities of organizing a branch of the Workers' Educational Association. It is hoped that classes will be established under this organization next winter.

In the matter of Extension, the University is faced with a very difficult problem owing to the distances to the outlying centres of population, but the Faculty of Agriculture, and the Departments of Geology, Mining and Metallurgy, Forestry and Zoology are doing a great deal in keeping the University in contact with the agricultural, mining, forest and fishing industries. The pleasantness of the physical environment on Vancouver Island and Vancouver obscures the very pioneer character of the scattered settlements throughout this province. To carry on extension work involves a great deal of organization if the internal work of the University is not to be disrupted by the absence of members of the staff for long periods. Yet there is great value in bringing members of the staff into contact with the people in outlying communities. "Adult education" is a very bad name for the activities which one has in mind as constituting self-development. Sometimes the word "education" scares a great many people, but it is gradually becoming clear that unless our interests are vital and significant, our lives are cramped. Education is a form of emancipation from prejudice, narrow views and hasty generalization. The University can do little more than provide avenues of opportunity along which people can march more confidently to a better future.

R. E. ENGLAND.

FAIRBRIDGE FARM SCHOOLS

"We should waste nothing of our flesh and blood nor of the Imperial soil from which we spring".

"MONEY given to the education of our destitute children is not wasted; what we give we have. We are to build up passionately the brain and heart and soul of the children of the Empire, however laborious and unheroic the task". So wrote Kingsley Fairbridge in the year after the Great War when he was appealing for support for his Farm School at Pinjarra, Western Australia—a school which he had founded in 1912 and by his own undaunted will and heroic, unselfish efforts had kept going through the difficult years of the war.

From early boyhood it was the ardent desire of this young South African to help the poor boys and girls of Great Britain from the thickly overcrowded centres of the old land into useful, constructive careers in the overseas Dominions. "I think that my Motherland (meaning England) is well able to turn those of her little citizens, who are unable to help themselves, from inmates of workhouses into workers, and from a state of ignorant antipathy to everything that seems more fortunate than themselves into that of happy and prosperous co-operators with all classes". He believed that life on a farm with training in the theory and practice of farming and of the domestic arts, added to the ordinary school education as given to all children in our public schools, furnished the most useful medium for the realization of his desire.

"There are numbers of vocations for which we might train our destitute children," he wrote "but none of them seem to offer the same opportunities for health, hope, understanding and freedom as life on the land . . . What vocation is there that is more essential to the human life of the whole world?"

It was with these ideas in mind that Kingsley Fairbridge spent his time at Exeter College, Oxford, where he enjoyed the benefits of a Rhodes Scholarship, in the years 1908-1911, trying to interest everyone with whom he came in contact in his plans to found a Farm School. And he gave the following thirteen years of his life to the rigorous and unremitting prosecution of his plans. When, worn out with hard work and recurrent attacks of malaria, he died in 1924 at the comparatively early age of thirty-seven years, he had succeeded in creating one of the most interesting and important instruments of human betterment and Imperial settlement. Today, in Western Australia, there are over one thousand British boys and girls, young men and women, happy in their new environment, who owe their chance at life and achievement to the persistent idealism of this one man. The results of Fairbridge training are seen in the fact that in the year 1935 when forty boys and girls were ready to go from the Farm School at Pinjarra to employment, more than one thousand five hundred requests for their employment were received by the principal.

The success of this endeavour, extending over a period of twenty-five years, encouraged the London Committee to extend the benefits of Fairbridge. In 1934 property was secured near Duncan, Vancouver Island, and the first children were sent out to prepared quarters in September, 1935. The buildings at this Farm School now comprise, in addition to farm buildings necessary to the running of a thousand-acre farm, seven individual homes, each housing fourteen children, a hospital, a four-room day school and auditorium-gymnasium, and a spacious dining hall. Forty-one girls and fifty-seven boys are being trained here as young Canadian citizens. Fifty-six more children will be sent to this farm school in the autumn. The children are comfortably housed and clothed and every possible attention is given to their education and training for the Canadian countryside. It was one of the axioms of the founder to give Fairbridge children the best possible chance at life, within the means of the Society. "Personally", he wrote "I object only to those methods of bringing up and educating destitute children which claim to be 'cheap' or which seem to admit the possibility of exploiting the children or which do not aim at turning out citizens to whom has been given the chance of realising the best that it was in them to become."

More recently a third Fairbridge Farm School has been started in New South Wales, at Molong, where children will be sent in September this year. This will differ from the other Farm Schools in the fact that most of the money for its founding has been collected in Sydney, among citizens of New South Wales, whereas both in Western Australia and in our own province the great bulk of the capital required has been raised in England. Other Farm Schools are talked of elsewhere. A fourth school, on Fairbridge lines and supplied with children by the Fairbridge Society, was founded a year ago in the State of Victoria, Australia, under the will of the late Lady Northcote, who left a generous legacy for the purpose.

Children carefully selected by officers of the Society in England from poor homes and passed through the Dominions Immigration offices with medical and other examinations, are sent, at an average age of ten to eleven, to a Farm School in a Dominion. Here they remain till the age of fifteen to sixteen, receiving the public school education required for all children, and, in addition, undergoing training in domestic arts (for the girls) and general farming (for the boys). At age fifteen to sixteen they are placed in work. After-care officers of Fairbridge keep in touch with them, helping them in all their problems. One half of all they earn is sent by the employer to the Farm School principal to be put into savings accounts and kept for them until they come of age. The Farm School is their home to which they may return at any time, for holidays or when misfortune overtakes them. They are trained in work and in play, to play the game always. At the Farm School they become life members of a Society of which they are proud and which exists to serve them in every sort of way throughout their lives.

So this humanitarian and imperial movement, begun in the brain of a twelve-year-old boy on the South African veldt forty years ago, is today accelerating with astonishing speed and is certain to influence widely not only the method and practice of Empire migration but also the problems of child training confronting many communities of the Dominions themselves.

U. B. C. IN LONDON

It is proverbial that Canadians, like Scotsmen, take London by storm. And while it is too early yet for U.B.C. graduates to have risen to the peerage, still there are a number who have done distinguished work in a short time.

I don't know how many alumni are now in London. I met several and heard of others, and one lively Saturday night last summer a group of us held a sort of reunion in Odenino's. The party was not complete by any means since several who might have come were out of town, but they were present in spirit and we had a gay evening. Unluckily President Klinck and Dean Clement, who arrived a few days later from Cambridge, were not there in time to join the party.

Perhaps the two most noted alumni now in London are Leslie Brown, who is Junior Dominion Government trade commissioner with headquarters in Canada House, and Count Robert Keyserling, the "boy wonder", who, after a varied career, became assistant European manager of the United Press. I understand that he has left that desirable post to take a position with a business firm; but he was flourishing on aeroplane trips and diplomatic intrigue when last seen.

Those who remember Les Brown's suave and nonchalant manner when he was president of the Alma Mater Society in 1927-28 would find him not a great deal changed after his years in Mexico City and London. His gifts are admirably adapted to the social and diplomatic duties of a trade commissioner and he has made a deserved success of his difficult, if pleasant, job.

In somewhat similar work is John Berto, who is an agent of the British Columbia government in promoting the sale of lumber. His headquarters are in B.C. House.

It is open to argument whether Gladstone Murray is, technically, a graduate of U.B.C. or of McGill, or both. If we can legitimately claim him he was, until lately, our most distinguished alumnus in Great Britain. As comptroller of programmes for the B.B.C., he was in active control of the most powerful broadcasting company in the world. He was my cordial host on more than one occasion, in Broadcast House and outside it, and the knowledge I gained of his character then has made me his most devoted supporter since in his new position as general manager of Canadian radio.

We have, as yet, no one to set beside Lord Greenwood, Lord Beaverbrook, Sir Edward Peacock, Sir Francis Stuart, Raymond Massey, Sarah Fischer, Beverley Baxter, or a number of other Canadians who have risen to the top flight in British life. But we have some young ones who may catch up with them before many years.

There is, for instance, Sydney Risk, who has quite definite gifts both as playwright and actor. He has found London a tough nut to crack, which is what he expected, but after considerable adversity he is beginning to get results. He is established in a film company and in a position now to follow either of two promising roads—scenario writing or acting. Marjorie Ellis, another Players' Club graduate, has also been seeking a place in the theatre life there. She has played a variety of roles, in all senses of the phrase, including B.B.C. broadcasts, and when I saw her last she was beginning with the company at the Windmill Theatre.

A number of alumni are in academic or research posts, either in London or not far away, and among these are Lyle Streight, who is in the Lancashire laboratory of General Chemicals Ltd., Ralph Stedman, who is a professor at University College in Wales, Roy Vol- lum, a fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford; Gerald Jackson, who is on the staff of the Imperial College of Science in London. Donald Hutchison is said to be in his native Edinburgh but no one seems to know what he is doing. Laurence Meredith, who was once literary editor of The Odyssey, is now on the writing staff of the British United Press.

EDGAR N. BROWN.

A UNIVERSITY CITY

C ANADA was the first foreign country to establish in France a home for its students at the University of Paris. The example has been followed by seventeen other countries and each has erected a building in the big quadrangle in University City, in a park in the south of Paris on the site of the old city fortifications.

Although the University of Paris is the largest and the third oldest university in the world, it was, until recently, notorious for the absence of living quarters for the students. Lecture halls and libraries are scattered over the Latin Quarter on the left bank and the 40,000 undergraduates lived in hotels, boarding houses or small apartments. Their conditions were in the opposite extreme from the pleasant life which Oxford and Cambridge students enjoy.

So the authorities took possession of the only remaining open space in the city (except for the parks) and appropriated the ancient wall fortifications. A wealthy French industrialist, M. Deutsch de la Meurthe, started the ball rolling by endowing the first house, a series of dormitories and clubrooms for French students. Then Mr. Philippe Roy, the Canadian minister plenipotentiary, became active and through his co-operation Senator J. M. Wilson of Montreal and others provided the money for a Canadian House. It is a handsome four-storey building, flanked by two wings, containing forty bedrooms and extremely comfortable lounges and reading rooms. When I was there a year ago there were sixteen Canadians in residence (none of whom were from British Columbia) and the remainder of the rooms were rented to students of other nationalities.

The house was opened by a brilliant international group in 1926. The inauguration was performed jointly by the Duke of Windsor (then Prince of Wales) and the President of the French Republic, assisted by Mr. Roy. Great Britain was also represented by her ambassador in Paris, the Marquis of Crewe, and the Earl of Derby. Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Paris, the late Raymond Poincare and Aristide Briand, the late Marshals Foch and Fayolle were among others present.

Since that time the Boulevard Jour- dan and the spaces around the park have been occupied by successive foreign houses. Those of Belgium and Cuba are among the finest. That belonging to the United States is one of the largest. The red brick and far-from-beautiful house of Great Britain has recently been completed. Others are being planned. Altogether, counting the French and Canadian houses, there are now nineteen.

Although the park and gardens are not yet completed, University City is even now one of the sights of Paris. One of the most interesting things about it is the different styles of architecture. Each country, in building its house, carried out its own distinctive motif. Thus the Canadian house looks like a wealthy home in the suburbs of almost any large Canadian city. The Japanese house has pagoda turrets and lanterns. The Swiss house looks a little like a sanatorium. The Spanish house is in the style of modern architecture now seen all over Spain. The Indo-Chinese house is, I suppose, typical of Indo-China but, not having seen that country, I can only say that it is extraordinarily different.

The houses are grouped more or less around an open field, which was left vacant because John D. Rockefeller intimated that he might do something with it. Three years ago he set aside 80,000,000 francs and had International House built as a central point for the various residences. It has no bedrooms but there are dining rooms, halls, reading rooms, a ballroom and a swimming pool. It is really a large club. The hope is that it will provide a medium for friendship between the nationals of all countries and become a social centre for the City. It is a magnificent building and a magnificent gesture and everyone hopes that it will fulfil its object.

In University City, as everywhere in Paris and France, I found that Canadians are regarded with warm cordiality. The French professors and students regard them as first cousins and treat them accordingly. Part of the reason, no doubt, lies in the historical kinship between the two races, but part also is due to the extraordinarily good records which successive waves of Canadian students have established in Paris. It is safe to say that no other country, in proportion to the number of students, has established such an excellent record.

If, until lately, students at the University of Paris had poor living quarters, they also had compensations which are lacking here. In that city a student is an individual—like a doctor or a grave-digger—not just a young thing getting some more education. The student has a position and a status—and also some rights. For instance, no policeman is allowed to enter the gates of a faculty without first getting a written request for his presence from the dean. If a policeman did "trespass" there would be an uproar, for the students are jealous of their ancient privileges.

They also take politics and life generally more seriously than is the case in Canada. They are older, usually, and of course their lives are more closely affected by politics, especially international politics.

There was an amusing example of this during the Abyssinian crisis. Professor Jeze, in the faculty of law, has large classes. He is one of the greatest living authorities on international law and he is frequently consulted by foreign governments. When Abyssinia got into difficulties, Haile Selassie appointed Dr. Jeze his spokesman at the League of Nations. The professor argued eloquently and logically in favor of the imposition of sanctions against Italy. He had frequent verbal clashes with the French Government delegates but it was recognized that he was, as it were, the attorney in the case, and there were no hard feelings.

The students in the faculty of law, however, thought differently. Here was their professor, a supposedly loyal Frenchman, publicly advocating a policy which might have thrown their country into war with Italy. Worse still, his own students would have been among the first to be called to the colors. So the students boycotted the professor—they imposed sanctions on him. They went on strike. When a few members of the class appeared for his lectures, the crowd outside drowned out his voice and threw rotten eggs at him. When he persisted there were riots. Not mild disturbances, but serious riots involving thousands of students and which taxed the strength of police reserves. Time and again, Dr. Jeze attempted to deliver his lectures and each time the riots became more serious.

In the end the students won. They laid down their terms and the faculty were forced to accept them. The professor could lecture, they said, and any students who wished to hear him could do so, provided he chose a hall outside University property. So Dr. Jeze was compelled to find a vacant hall and continue his lectures to the faithful.

It might be added in conclusion that Mr. Rockefeller’s International house of good friendship had not been opened at that time.

THE LIBRARY

WITHIN recent months the University Library has received something over $11,000 in donated material.

The two largest gifts have come from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The first is a collection of books on art, together with some 2,200 photographs, or colored illustrations, specially selected to illustrate developments in architecture, sculpture, painting, and the minor arts of tapestry, working in metals, enamel, etc. All of these show the progress in art from primitive times to the present. They cover all races and countries, as they do all periods of time.

The collection was organized under the supervision of a special committee of distinguished scholars, who secured the co-operation of directors and professors in many schools of art in America and Europe. The compilation and accumulation of the material took over three years. The value of this collection is $6,000.

The second gift from the Carnegie Corporation covers the field of music as thoroughly as the one just described does the field of art. It consists of a specially designed electrical phonograph, together with a loud speaker. In volume and in fidelity of tone this pair of specially designed instruments represents an approach to perfection in acoustical reproduction. Sound volume is controllable, from the softest pianissimo, to an output that will fill Carnegie Hall in New York. At three-quarters of its possible volume it will make the University Auditorium reverberate, while the nuances and overtones, usually lost in an ordinary machine, are preserved with faithful accuracy.

Accompanying these two instruments is a collection of 945 specially selected records. These illustrate every aspect of musical composition. Vocal music is illustrated by chants and folk songs from aboriginal Australia, from Madagascar, from China and Burma, and every country in Europe. There are even some of the songs of the British Columbia Indians in the collection. Ranging from these primitive chants, the collection has every variety of solo and concerted vocal music. In sacred music the illustrations range from the Gregorian chant and the Plain-song, to the great Masses of Bach, and the Oratorios of Handel and Mendelssohn. The instrumental selections have represented solos on strings and wood, with concerted music ranging from the duet or quartette, up to the biggest and most famous orchestra.

Included in the collection is a library of nearly 200 miniature or full-sized orchestral scores, and about 100 volumes of biography and musical appreciation.

President Klinck has appointed a special committee to administer this notable gift. It is probable that invitations will be issued to a special inaugural recital about the time the University reconvenes for its Autumn Session.

There have been two noted acquisitions to the Library within recent months as a result of the personal efforts of the Librarian, and the generosity of a number of the Library’s friends. The first is the acquisition of Curtis’ "Indians of North America"—20 octavo volumes and 20 large folios. This great work marked a milestone in American book publishing. It was printed on vellum, and bound in Levant. It was limited to 500 sets, and the subscription prices, in the two editions, were $3,500 and $4,500. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan contributed $500,000 as a fund to the Smithsonian Institution of Washington to carry out the ethnological and linguistic researches embodied in the work. He purchased 25 sets for presentation to institutions in which he was interested, or to personal friends, but died before the distribution was completed. The undistributed sets were secured by a firm in Boston, and offered at less than one-third of the publication price. The Librarian solicited from friends of the Library subscriptions amounting to $930, and acquired one of the sets. There are only two others in Canada, one at the Library of Parliament, the other at McGill.

Another notable acquisition, likewise secured through the generosity of the Library's friends, is the seven-volume set of Audubon's "Birds of America". The lowest quotation the Librarian remembers within the past ten years has been $700 or $800. An opportunity arose, however, to secure a set for $300, and three of the Library's friends each subscribed $100 towards its purchase. The set is in absolutely mint condition, though it was published in from 1841 to 1846. It contains hundreds of superb colored plates, and will be a joy to every bird lover.

An interesting and valuable item is the gift of Dr. John C. Ferguson of Peiping, China, obtained through the kindness of Mrs. Boyle, a member of the Provincial Library Commission. This is "Noted Porcelains of Successive Dynasties, with Comments and Illustrations" by Hsiang Yuan-pien, revised by Dr. Ferguson.

Dr. Ferguson was a young American school teacher who went to China 52 years ago. Before leaving, he was married to a young lady at Belleville, Ontario, and Mrs. Boyle was bridesmaid at the wedding. The Ferguson school developed until it became a University with over 9,000 students, Dr. Ferguson being its President. He resigned 15 years ago to make way for a Chinese scholar.

In addition to being an eminent educator, Dr. Ferguson is the oldest and the most trusted of all the foreign advisers to successive Chinese governments. His personal collection of porcelain is among the finest in private hands, ranging from 400 B.C., through all the Chinese dynasties.

The book he has presented to the Library consists of illustrations, in color, of samples from his own collection. It is printed on paper made from green bamboo, guaranteed to last a thousand years. Its cover is made in three sections, and the volume is fastened by ivory clasps. The price of the single volume is £36.0.0—$180. It was presented to the Library by Dr. Ferguson, at the suggestion of Mrs. Boyle, as a gesture of International and scholarly good will.

Space will not permit fuller description of other interesting gifts which, within the space of about a year, have enriched the University's book collection. The following list gives the names of the principal donors.

- Miss Van Steenwyk
- Mr. John E. Eagles
- Carnegie Endowment
- W. R. Cryer
- Mrs. W. H. Harrison
- M. Andre Honnorat
- Carnegie Corporation of New York

No comment on recent additions to the Library should fail to include, however, the notable gift made by the Library of Congress—the Depository Catalogue. This consists of more than 1,500,000 printed cards, and constitutes the most useful general bibliography extant. The value of the cards is $65,000, and the cabinets and equipment cost a further $6,000, provided by the Board of Governors. The work of filing the cards is about half completed, more than three-quarters of a million having been filed.

There are some 40 sets of the Depository Catalogue in various parts of the United States. France has one, England two, Russia one, Italy two, and there are a few others located at important bibliographical centers throughout the world. In Canada, only three Depository sets are available—at McGill, the University of Toronto, and now, in the University of British Columbia.

The possession of this invaluable collection will, in future years, make our University a center of bibliographical research, and its acquisition has already done much to enhance the reputation of the Library among Canadian and American scholars.

The readers of this "Chronicle" will be interested to know that the University Library now possesses about 108,000 volumes, and between 15,000 and 20,000 pamphlets.

BROCK MEMORIAL

The following report has been received from Mr. Sherwood Lett:

Approximately $32,000.00 has been actually subscribed and received. In addition, the students authorized a bond issue of $10,000.00, which is not included in the above figure. This makes a total of approximately $42,000.00 available. A contingent subscription of $3500.00 from the C.O.T.C. has also been promised, subject to certain conditions. This sum is not included in the $42,000.00 figure given above.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Sports have played a glorious part in the record of the year 1936-37. The English Rugby teams won both the Millar and McKechnie cups. The Men's Basketball team won the Dominion Basketball Championship, defeating the Fords three games in a five-game series. It is safe to say that all Grads in Vancouver who were not present in the Arena were glued to their radios. To Varsity fell the honours in the Inter-Collegiate Ski Championships and the C.O.T.C. proved themselves first-class marksmen by winning the Inter-University Canadian rifle competition.

In the realm of music, Varsity proved itself worthy of the high standards of former years. The sparkling operetta "Robin Hood", produced by the Musical Society, was acclaimed as the most delightful the Society had staged for many years.

The Players' Club also receive high praise for their production of "The Brontës", a play by Alfred Sangster. Those of you who remember the excellent production of "Hedda Gabler", two years ago, will realize the excellence of this year's production, since critics have ranked the two as equal in outstanding merit.

A new society of interest has been formed—the Film Society. This society has been responsible for securing many French and German films for the delectation of the student body. The work this club is doing should prove of inestimable value in the future as it has proven in this past year.

The debating society has been as active as in the past. Debates have been held against Canadian, Imperial, American teams.

To Mr. Allard Ridder, gifted conductor of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, the student body has been indebted for his fine series of lectures on music.

A new system of Student Passes has been inaugurated, to come into effect at the beginning of the 1937-38 term. Each student will pay an additional $3.00 on his Alma Mater fees, but in return for this sum he will receive a pass to many University games, dances, debates, plays and like student activities. It is hoped that this "pass" system will do much to increase the University spirit on the campus.

The students also decided to float a bond issue in order to allow for the construction of the stadium and thus fill a long-felt want. As the debt on the gymnasium was finally paid off the students felt that they were able to face the necessary cost of construction.
THE 22nd Annual Meeting of Convocation held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver on May 6th, introduced at least one innovation previously, we believe, unheard of. This consisted in calling upon the Speaker of the evening, the Hon. and Rev. H. J. Cody, M.A., D.D., LL.D., President of the University of Toronto, immediately after the soup course. The Speaker discussed "Some Tendencies in Modern University Education", and the newer graduates listened to the excellent address with an interest undimmed by several days of speech making. It is to be feared, however, that some of the older graduates surveyed the meat course growing cold before them with longing looks and some were observed surreptitiously snatching a bite from time to time.

Johnny Burnett and several other members of the Alumni conceived the excellent idea of broadcasting the address of the main speaker, and arrangements were accordingly made with station CRCV. Alumni groups met all over the province for dinner that evening and listened by means of the radio to the address. Our time on the air was from 8:00 to 8:30, and due to the lateness of Congregation the dinner did not start until 7:45. It was therefore necessary to call upon the speaker before he had fortified himself to any extent with the dinner provided, but it was generally agreed, nevertheless, that the address was well worth hearing.

Before the end of the meeting telegrams were received from different Alumni Branches advising that the address had come through very well and was much enjoyed. It was, we think, an excellent idea, and Johnny Burnett and his assistants deserved congratulations for their arrangements.

During the course of the meeting the following officers were elected:

Treasurer, Mr. Mark Collins; auditors, Messrs. W. O. Banfield & T. W. Berry; secretary, Mr. Milton Owen.

To replace the retiring members of the Executive Council the following were elected: Miss Myrtle Beattie, Messrs. A. D. Lord, H. Barrett, Roy McConachie and Gordon Morris.

A musical program and toast list was carried out and a most successful meeting was brought to a conclusion about 10 o'clock with the singing of "O Canada".

We notice in a recent edition of the McGill Bulletin" that Stephen Leacock had remarked that the graduates of McGill, Queens, and Toronto seemed to take care of the graduates of those colleges very well. Apparently after the medicine of the McGill doctor had had its effect, the Ministers from Queens bury the poor grad and the Toronto lawyers divide up his estate amongst the three. It appears that certain members of Arts '23 can offer just as complete a service to the remaining graduates of that class. We have Doctors Gordie Kirkpatrick, Frank Turnbull and Hugh McKechnie to inflict the medicine and Messrs. Allen, Fleming and Dr. Switzer to assist their departure to their spiritual home and Jack Clyne, Tommy Ellis and Hugo Ray to divide up whatever estate they may have managed to amass since graduation among the lot of them. This advertisement is not published nor has it even been approved by the Medical Association, Ministerial Association or Law Society of B.C.

An excerpt from a letter from Kalervo Oberg, now resident at Bonhill Cottage, Crouch, Kent, so intrigued us with its "travel" flavour that we could not resist printing it in longer form than a "personal" would permit.

"Since leaving the University of British Columbia, I have continued my academic training in various parts of the world. I took my Master's in Economics at the University of Pittsburgh, after which I branched into Anthropology. I completed my Ph.D. work at the University of Chicago in 1933 under Radcliffe-Brown and Professor Cooper-Cole. I then came to the London School of Economics where I took a year with Malinowski, and later a summer course with Professor Westermann at the University of Berlin. We have now returned from a two years' anthropological field trip in Uganda, Africa. While there we made a study of the Banyankole tribe, particularly from the point of view of culture change. At present we are settled in Kent, where I am writing a book on the Banyankole and getting my Alaskan material ready for publication. The University of Chicago financed me during my work there, and since I have been in England I have received fellowships from the Social Science Research Council in New York and from the International Institute of African Language and Cultures in London. I am now receiving one from the last named institute for the purpose of writing up my African material."

CLASS OF '26

SOME eleven years ago when we were young and full of illusions a great deal was said to us concerning the battle of life upon which we were entering, and since that time we have learned to our sorrow that a great many of those remarks were quite true. We have been engaged in that battle more or less successfully for a considerable period. Some have been drafted to distant theatres of the war. It would be impossible to name them all as, as in all wars, information from the troops closely engaged is slow in coming to hand. However, in distant China Lorimer Baker is in charge of an outpost at Kuling. Ruth and Les Brown are liaison officers with the Canadian Trade Commissioners office in London, England. Barbara and Brit Brock patrol sunny lands with the Geological section in distant Africa. Abe Makano reports the progress of the war for the Japan Times in Tokyo.

In almost every State of the Union, in every Province of Canada, and in all parts of British Columbia our outposts may be found. We have had our casualties; names have been erased from our rolls leaving only the memories of those whom the fates allowed to battle for such a pitifully short space of time. Many have gone missing, their names still appearing on our lists but their whereabouts being unknown.

A great number of the Amazon battalions have joined the masculine regiments and recruiting for the classes of future years goes briskly forward.

We have fought under rather adverse circumstances during the last few years but our record speaks more of success than of failure. It would be impossible to interview each officer and soldier and we can only spot a few over a widely extended front from our reconnaissance plane. Bill Bain, that one-time exponent of the joys of bachelorhood, is now a proud father and directs his well-trained battalions from his engineering post at Woodfibre.

We have looked for but been unable to spot the red heat of Earle Birnie. Possibly he is fighting with the government troops in Spain, or again may be arousing the fury of the Common People in our midst. In any case if you meet him he will be pleased to have a glass of beer with you and inform you why, as a capitalist, you should and will be liquidated.

Marion Bullock-Webster remains at her post in the stately old fort at Victoria, where, we understand, she is with the Communications Branch and hammers a typewriter.

Virginia Eaton has finally deserted the ranks of the spinsters and now resides in Calais, State of Maine, where in her spare time she conducts farming operations.

Freda Edgett has each summer for some time been in training for the Cavalry on a certain ranch in the Cariboo. Standing at a safe distance, ask her about that well-known cowboy, Chicago, then duck.

Charlie Farrand is with the Advocate-Generals Branch, practising his profession of law in Vancouver.

Dave Verchere also belongs to this Branch and is practising in the same city. He has recently become a father and is, we understand, in somewhat of a quandary as to whether to keep the child or his motor car, he having come to the conclusion that one or other of them is a useless luxury.

Maurice Freeman is advising upon the financial side of operations from the Department of Economics at the Ohio State University.

"Hank" Gartshore enlightens Berkeley, California, with his presence and doubtless with his famous poems upon subjects of a somewhat doubtful nature.

Jean Falkner, now Jean Hunt, resides in Eastern Canada and knowingly discourses upon the ghastly mysteries of the medical profession of which her husband is a distinguished member.

"Brud" Letson is with the Ordnance Corps carrying on his operations at his foundry in Vancouver.

Tommy Louden represents the Transportation Section, being with the Engineering Department of the C.N.R.

D'Arcy Marsh is War Correspondent reporting daily to "The Albertan" in Calgary.

Marion Mitchell still feels that the answer to all tactical problems is to be found in the books of history, which she peruses and discourses upon at Lindwood College, St. Charles, Missouri.

Hilton Moore represents the financial giants on Wall St. and, we trust, is not profiteering more than necessary as a result of the struggle.

Bruce Macdonald is a Liaison Officer in China, being Junior Trade Commissioner in Shanghai.

Aileen MacDonald holds up the political end, being her father's most ardent campaigner in provincial elections.

Gordon Telford is endeavouring to become philosophical about it all with the Department of Philosophy at Harvard University. In due course of time we hope to hear from him many profound utterances which will tend to smooth the rocky path we follow.

George Vincent, our "Gaston", is, we understand, practically the sole literary support of the B.B.C. in London and naturally is an outstanding member of the Propaganda Brigade.

These are only a few of the troops in our thin red line but we trust that when another year rolls around, and the heat of battle is not quite so intense, we shall have reports from many fronts which will advise us of battles won and medals earned, so that we may give you a much larger collection of names and facts in the Chronicle of '38.

would have a complete reunion of our Council. The realization of that dream seemed at times a practical impossibility, when one considered how widely the paths of those nine people had diverged since Graduation in 1933. True, several were still in Vancouver; Dorothy Thompson, President of the Women's Undergraduate Society, is now secretary to H. N. McCorkindale, superintendent of Vancouver schools; Ruth Whitbeck, president of women's athletics, is organizer for the Junior Red Cross, and although she covers a goodly portion of B. C. in the course of a year, is often in Vancouver; Rosemary Winslow, secretary, works in the Credit Department of Cassidy's Limited, wholesalers in china and crockery. Mark Collins, treasurer, is a statistician for the B. C. Packers Limited; Bob Osborne, president of men's athletics, now teaches at Byng High School; and Milt Owen, junior member, is a rising lawyer. Six of us, then, are relatively accessible; but consider the plight of Vic Rogers, president of men's undergrad, in far-away Island Falls, Sask. (near Flin Flon), where he is progressing rapidly with a large power company; or Bill Whimster, our genial president, of somewhat migratory habits, whose present occupation is insurance-selling in Nelson, B. C.; or Neil Perry, president of the L.S.E., who has graduated from teaching to a position with Dr. Carrothers' Economic Council at Victoria.

However, in spite of our difficulties, it was arranged that the 1932-33 Student Council, in toto, should foregather on the evening of January 23, 1937. Vic was to be in town on his holidays, Bill was passing through that week-end, and Neil arranged to come over from Victoria for the occasion. Between them, Ruth Whitbeck and Milt Owen completed the arrangements, and then Ruth had the misfortune to contract flu so badly that she could not possibly be with us, so our dream of an absolutely complete reunion failed at the last moment to materialize.

Nevertheless, the spirit of our campus days was recaptured with extraordinary vividness and completeness, and the four intervening years seemed as nothing. Old wise-cracks, old arguments, old idiosyncrasies, seemed as fresh as yesterday.

As a preliminary we went to see the exhibition basketball game between the Harlem Globe-Trotters and the Province, in which our own Bob "Tony" Osborne was starring. Then we drove for foggy miles over the snow to Milt Owen's Burnaby home, where such a repast awaited us as the Caf, Heaven bless it, never afforded. A bona fide meeting was held over the supper-table, complete with the minute book from our former meetings. Perhaps the motions were slightly informal, perhaps more than one speaker occasionally held the floor, and doubtless Roberts' Rules would have curled up and died at the spectacle, but we felt as if we were back at College, and finished by resolving to have our next reunion at the home of the first of our number to forsake the state of single blessedness in which we were all, surprisingly enough, still rejoicing.

SECRETARY'S REPORT, 1936-1937

The main work of the Alumni Association for the year 1936-1937 has been in maintaining and further extending the branch organization put into effect in the preceding year. New branches have been formed and the older branches have been drawn closer together by means of various activities sponsored by the Association.

The Annual Meeting held on November 2nd, 1936, adopted in toto the Constitution which had been in use previously for the preceding year with certain amendments that had been added from time to time, and which provided for the organization of the branch system wherever possible. At this Annual Meeting also the provision of the Constitution for the appointment as Honorary Life Members of our Association any persons who had given outstanding service to education in general, or to the University, was put into effect when motion was duly passed by the meeting that Mr. Chris Spencer, Mr. W. H. Malkin, and His Honour Judge Ellis be the first three recipients of this honorary membership.

One of the first steps taken by the Executive was to approach Professor Robert England, head of the new Department of Adult Extension Lectures, with a view to offering our services and co-operation in any way possible in the organization of his lectures throughout the province, by means of our branch organizations. It is needless to say that our offer was gratefully accepted and the Association has been promised the opportunity of having one of its members on Professor England's committee for the coming year. In this way it is hoped that the effect will be two-fold. In the first place we will be able to contribute some substantial service to our Alma Mater, first of all by recommendations from the branches as to what type of address would be most suited to the needs of the community, and secondly by assisting in the organization of these lectures. In the second place our participation in this work should also be of immense benefit to our Association because it will give us a service object—a much needed impetus for any organization such as ours.

The branches will be approached early in the Fall for their suggestions in this regard.

The Christmas Dance of the Association was held in the Commodore Cabaret on December 29th and was a most successful function both financially and socially. The Association netted the sum of $111.77 from the function and approximately 900 graduates were in attendance. The Christmas Dance has definitely come to stay as an institution as far as the Alumni Association is concerned. Most of the thanks for the organization of this dance must go to the special committee appointed by the Executive for that purpose which included the Misses Dorothy Thompson and Dorothy Myers and Messrs. Ted Baynes and Ken Beckett.

The Homecoming Day Rugby game was held in the Fall term in co-operation with the Alma Mater Society at the University. This feature consisted of a combined English rugby game between the Varsity Senior team and the Occasionals Ex-Varsity Rugby Club, and a Canadian rugby game consisting of a playoff between the University Senior team and the University of Saskatchewan Senior team for the Hardy Cup, emblematic of Western Canadian Inter-collegiate Football supremacy. Approximately 5,000 people attended this combined game, which was started off by an immense parade of some 200 cars which proceeded from the University and made a tour of the city before the game. It is hoped that this Home-coming Day will be extended into a real University Home-coming programme this coming year with the addition of a permanent seating structure at the Stadium at the University this Summer.

During the Christmas holidays the Ex-
The executive council consisting of the general executive and representatives from the branches held a meeting and discussed the policy and activities of the Association and made several suggestions thereon. There were five branches represented at this meeting and the most important items of business discussed were: (1) Our co-operation in the Adult Extension Lectures; (2) Over-crowding at the University and what steps we could take in the connection thereto; (3) The report on the Brock Memorial Campaign.

The secretary of the Brock Memorial Campaign, Mr. Sherwood Lett, in reporting to the Association on the results of this campaign estimated that the sum of $40,000 had been collected to date. It was pointed out further that the aforesaid committee would advise us further in the near future as to what steps would be suggested for the carrying on of this campaign in order to complete our objective. Your executive appointed a committee to investigate over-crowded conditions at the University consisting of Mr. Tom Ellis, Mr. John Burnett and Mr. D. M. Owen. This committee has held several interviews with President Klinck and with various members of the Board of Governors and has ascertained the immediate needs of the University in this connection. The branches will be canvassed shortly concerning their views on what steps should be taken. One of the proposed plans is that members of the Government in each constituency should be approached in turn with a view to obtaining their support on our programme. It is hoped in this way that our Association can be of some very material benefit to the University.

With a view to keeping the existence of our Association before the undergraduate students at the University and also to procure the support of this year’s Graduating Class, Mr. Ellis and Mr. Owen spoke to the members of the Graduating Class of 1937 at one of their meetings at the University and took the opportunity to outline the work of the Association and also obtain at that time a list of pledges of all those who desired to become members of the Association after graduation. This gesture was so successful that it is intended to repeat this each year.

The Convocation Dinner which will be held on May 6th, of this year, during Graduation Week, will be noted for a special feature which the Association has organized. Canon Cody of the University of Toronto will be giving the main address of the evening and it has been arranged with CRCV Radio Station that 25 minutes will be given over the air in which Canon Cody will be given the opportunity of addressing not only the Convocation Dinner but regular meetings held by various branches of the Association throughout the province on the same night. This is a new feature entirely in our work and it is hoped by this means that the member branches will be brought closer together. There are approximately some 20 branches of the Association in existence at the present time and these are spread throughout the province and across the Dominion. Many other centers have loose organizations, and still others are in the process of formation at the present time.

There is no question about it that the Alumni Association has at last a strong organization and our efforts now should be directed toward strengthening the organization still further so that we may be of continual assistance to our University of British Columbia, and at the same time obtain a great deal of personal pleasure in the maintenance of those lifelong friendships and associations formed during University days.

D. Milton Owen,
Secretary.

REPORTS ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE BRANCHES

VICTORIA BRANCH

Upon various occasions during past years efforts have been made to establish an Alumni Branch in Victoria. These attempts were not outstandingly successful until the past year when a branch was duly organized. Looking back on the activities of the year we feel more than justified for the effort, for our branch has been a most active organization. Now that we have made a beginning we are sure that, because of the great interest shown by graduates in the city, each succeeding year will show larger membership and greater enthusiasm than the last. There are more than two hundred graduates in the city, all potential active members. At each of our functions between eighty and one hundred have been present. Among our members are seven life members of the Alumni Association.

Even before there was an organized association here we held one of our most enjoyable affairs. This was the dinner held last May in celebration of the Coming of Age Anniversary of the University. It was held in Empress Hotel and was attended by graduates from 1916 to 1936. President Klinck had kindly come over from Vancouver to speak to us. The other speaker of the evening was Dr. H. E. Young who has been associated with the University for so many years. At that dinner a committee was empowered to proceed in the fall with plans for the organization of a branch of the Provincial Association.

With this in view a tea was arranged for Sunday afternoon, November 1st, in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel. There many old acquaintances and friendships were renewed, and following tea officers were elected for the coming year. These are:

Honorary President, Dr. H. E. Young; President, Dr. Allan Peebles; Vice-president, Patricia Hamilton-Smith; Secretary, Muriel MacKay; Treasurer, Neil Perry; Membership Secretary, Donald
A most enjoyable dinner was held at Spencer's on the evening of December 8th, when Professor Robert England of the University Extension Department spoke to us entertainingly and informingly on the future of Adult Education in British Columbia, challenging us, as graduates, to take part in this important work. Subsequent executive meetings discussed activities along this line, particularly in connection with the formation of study and discussion groups among Alumni. A committee conferred with Professor England and brought in an excellent report on Book Reading groups. This report was tabled by the executive and will be acted upon early next fall. Members of the Alumni acted as official representatives on a Victoria committee to found a branch here of the National Film Society of Canada. The Alumni branch participated actively in its sponsorship and it shows every indication of being a worthwhile activity. We were approached by the University Players' Club with a request to sponsor a showing in the Capital City of the Annual Spring play. We were wholeheartedly in favour of assisting the Players' Club, but we felt that our resources were too limited at the present time to undertake such a project.

Harking back to University days when we were all very young and gay we organized an evening of Hi-Jinks at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on April 9th. This affair, however, broke with tradition, and instead of being for the sole pleasure of women under-graduates, catered to the lighter nature of both men and women graduates. The entertainment took the form of a miniature Monte Carlo and entire fortunes of bogus money were lost and won during the evening. Dancing followed, interspersed with a floor show of amusing skits presented by some of our most serious members who had light-heartedly cast aside all semblance of post-University dignity.

There is still another affair planned for the year. This will be the Annual Spring Dinner, which, we hope, will become a well-established function. This year it will be held on the same evening as the Convocation Dinner in Vancouver, and that evening we shall join with Alumni groups all over Canada and in various parts of the world in renewing our pledge of loyalty to the Alma Mater.

OKANAGAN VALLEY ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The first Reunion of Okanagan Valley graduates and associates of the University of British Columbia, was held in Vernon, November, 1927, at the Kalamalka Hotel. About thirty attended. After a gay and friendly dinner we were invited to dance at a home at which James Craig was host. Everyone enjoyed the gathering so much that it was decided to hold a reunion banquet annually.

The next four years the Reunion was held at the Eldorado Arms, Kelowna. About 4 o'clock the crowd would gather for an informal cup of tea. Then at 7:00 p.m. there was the banquet, followed by toasts, speeches, sing-songs and finally a dance. In 1931 Dr. Sedgwick was present and greatly enjoyed.

Vernon, in 1932, again entertained at the Country Club, where a good crowd met.

Since then the reunions have been held at the Royal Anne Hotel, Kelowna, as it seems to be the most central. In 1934, Mr. T. R. Hall gave a most interesting address. The following year we were honored by the company of both Dr. Sedgwick and Professor Soward, who gave really inspirational talks. At a business meeting an executive for the whole valley was elected as follows:

President, Kenneth Caple, Summerland; vice-president, Alan Hurst, Revelstoke; secretary, Marie Chapin, Kelowna; North representative, Edith Sturdy, Revelstoke; South representative, Harley Hatfield, Penticton.
In October, 1936, a crowd of ninety assembled at the Royal Anne Hotel to a banquet, with Kenneth Caple as master of ceremonies. Our honoured guests, Dr. Kaye Lamb, Mr. Ira Dilworth, and Mr. T. L. Hall, delighted us with speeches, lively and interesting.

CHILLIWACK BRANCH

A BRANCH of the Alumni Association has just been formed in Chilliwack. The officers are as follows:

President, Fred K. Grimmett ('32); secretary-treasurer, Rev. M. C. Humphrey ('33).

We find there are about 15 graduates in the district and we hope finally to have them all in the Branch. To further this, we are planning a dinner meeting for April 9th.

M. C. HUMPHREY.

TORONTO BRANCH

THE first meeting of the Toronto branch of the U.B.C. Alumni Association took the form of a dinner-dance late in October. At a brief business meeting the following executive was elected:

President, Maxwell A. Cameron; Hon. President, Mr. N. E. W. Michener; Secretary-Treasurer, Emma Wilson; Social Committee: Chairman, Bunny Pound; committee, Isobel Arthur, Frank Miller, Alistair Campbell, Jack Duncan.

An enjoyable dance, at which many old friendships were renewed rounded off the evening.

The Association met next at an informal Sunday tea on February 14, over forty members attending.

The group is co-operating with the Toronto Alumni of the Universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta in a dance on February 27th. The year's activities will conclude with a tea which Mrs. N. E. W. Michener has graciously invited the British Columbia Alumni in Toronto to attend at her home on the afternoon of Sunday, April 4th.

NEW WESTMINSTER

OFFICERS for present year: President, R. Fournier; Hon. President, Judge F. W. Howay, LL.D., F.R.S.C.; vice-president, Janet Gilley; secretary, G. R. McQuarrie; recording secretary, Maizie MacKenzie; treasurer, Dave Turner.

Last meeting was held on January 27th, 1937, at the Gingham Tea Rooms. Thirty members present.

Doctor Blythe Eagles gave an up to date review of the work done on vitamins.

Throughout the past year the Alumni meetings have been in the nature of discussion gatherings, following dinner meetings. Selected speakers have spoken on topics of general interest to Alumni members. The executive have felt that dinner meetings of this nature have been a successful method of bringing the members together.

Another such meeting to be held soon.

VERNON BRANCH

THE Vernon Branch of the U.B.C. Alumni Association was organized in September, 1936. The following officers were elected:

President, Fergus Mutrie; vice-president, Geo. Rowland; secretary, Jean Adam; treasurer, Page Robinson.

Other members include: Anna Fulton, Kay Coles, Mrs. G. Rowland, Mrs. F. Mutrie, Mr. and Mrs. Parkes, Mrs. J. McCulloch, Marjorie Dimock, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mclean, Elinor Richards, Dick Locke, Marjorie Bulman, Frances Simms, Dick Pritchard, Hilda Cryderman, Elsie Mercer, Margaret Mossey, Jack Fox, Anne Bowman, Larry Lang, Larry Mars, Bill Osborn.

The main work of the group this year was to sponsor the University extension lectures.

Marjorie Dimock receives her M.A. in psychology this year.

Frances Simms has been teaching in Lumby since Christmas.

The Vernon High School has now four U.B.C. Grads on the staff: Jean Adams, formerly of Port Haney; Marjorie Dimock, formerly of Prince Rupert; Anna Fulton, formerly of Kelowna, and Johnnie McLean, formerly of Oliver.
Twenty-six

Engaged—Bill Osborn to June Tryon, of Parksville.

ON WITH THE DANCE

Another Alumni tradition in the making! Christmas holiday season was again chosen for the grand reunion dance at the Commodore, and from far and wide to honour the occasion came Grads in festive mood (for even the most staid doff their dignity once in a while).

From distant Haney came the gallant Jim Hodgkiss to lead us in some old college songs, while Tommy Berto roused us in some vigorous yells. Dear old Alma Mater. Some of us even felt sentimental!

The ballroom was in party dress too, streamers and balloons a colourful background for the lovely frocks of the female dancers. Bachelors (eligible and otherwise); husbands and wives; (and one new-born father without his wife)—all had a "large" evening. The committee really had no worries about the success of the affair, nevertheless, "honour to whom honour is due", so we take off our caps for another wonderful dance to Dorothy Myers, Dorothy Thompson, Milt Owen, Ted Baynes and Ken Beckett, also to our gracious patrons: Dean Bollert, President and Mrs. Klinck, Dean and Mrs. Buchanan, Dean and Mrs. Finlayson.

GRADUATE HISTORICAL SOC'Y.

Readers of the Graduate Chronicle of 1936 will remember that the Graduate Historical Society follows a dual purpose of providing a gathering place for graduates in history, and of endowing a prize for the most meritorious student in the graduating class in history.

The topics of this year's discussions centered round the theme "Modern Canadian Problems", to which the following members and guest speakers contributed:

Professor W. A. Carrothers: "The Economic Position of British Columbia in the Canadian Federation."

Mr. L. A. Wrinch: "Canadian-American Relations."

Miss Beth Dow, Miss Kaete Thiessen, Miss Patricia Johnson: "Canadian Race Problems."

Mr. Archie McKie: "Canadian Railway Problems."

Professor A. C. Cooke and Mr. Jack Lort: "Canadian Culture."

At the annual dinner held on March 20th, Professor F. H. Soward chose as his subject: "Canada and the League of Nations, 1919-1937." This address, which was fully in keeping with the general theme of the year, was enthusiastically received by the many members and friends who attended the meeting.

Plans for the year 1937-1938 have not yet been definitely decided, but the topics will probably deal with the Orient. This field should prove interesting to many graduates, and all those who majored in history at U.B.C. are invited to join the society.

The executive for the year 1936-1937 included:

Faculty representative: W. N. Sage, Esq., M.A., Ph.D., F. R. Hist. Soc., F.R.S.C.

President: Mr. Francis H. Hardwick, M.A. (1931).

Vice-president: Mr. John Conway, B.A. (1935).

Recording secretary: Miss Helen Boutilier, M.A. (1931).

Corresponding secretary: Miss Eleanor Mercer, B.A. (1933).

GRADUATE LETTERS CLUB,
SEASON 1936-1937

The Graduate Letters' Club is now five years old. It was organized in the spring of 1932 and began its regular meetings in the fall of that year. Affairs this season have been under the direction of Mr. John Oliver, president; Mrs.
Elsie Davies, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. J. H. Livsey, recording secretary and treasurer.

The October meeting was in lighter vein, given up to a paper by Mrs. Livsey on “The Detective Novel”. In November the club became more serious over the work of C. E. Montague, discussed by Mr. John Oliver. One evening each year is devoted to reviews of three or four outstanding new books and so was spent the December meeting. The books selected were: “Eyeless in Gaza”, by Aldous Huxley, reviewed by Mr. Saunders; “Education Before Verdun”, by Arnold Zweig, reviewed by Mr. Yeo, and “South Riding”, by Winifred Holtby, reviewed by Miss Boyles. The club rose triumphant over the winter’s bombardment of ice, snow and ‘flu. There was excellent attendance in January, when Mrs. Angus gave an informal talk on plays she had seen during the summer in New York and London, and in February several staunch souls went so far as to gather for the Original Contributions evening. The March meeting was held as usual in conjunction with the University Letters’ Club at the University. The subject was “The Short Story in England and America”. Papers were read by both clubs, that of the Graduates being prepared by Miss Rosemary Winslow and Miss Jean Skelton, and read by the latter. The season closed in April with an Anthology evening to which each member brought some favorite reading of prose or poetry.

The programme has been, then, varied and interesting, with plenty of material for brain exercising, particularly on the evenings devoted to New Books, Original Contributions and Anthology. It is the aim of the club to avoid formality or any suggestion of the classroom and in that and other respects this year has been most successful.

STUDIO CLUB

The Alumni Studio Club has become the Studio Club. We dropped the word “Alumni” to enable the club to include non-alumni who are excellent performers and who are interested in music. Thus some of the younger performers have the opportunity to play or sing before audiences before giving recitals—and, of course, they benefit thereby. However, the majority of our members are Alumni.

The purpose of our club is to enable members to perform before one another. We are singers, violinists, pianists, etc., and we even boast of one trumpeter. We read and discuss topics of musical interest. I may say that this last year has certainly been a lively one. We had the privilege of having Paul de Marky, pianist, at a private recital.

If any of the Alumni who are solo performers would care to join the Studio Club, please send your applications to Miss Flo. Foellmer, secretary, at 2734 Dunbar Street, Vancouver, B.C.

The membership is limited to twenty.
