President's Annual Report Urges More Student Aid

President Norman A. M. MacKenzie urges the establishment of a "comprehensive national scholarship program as imaginatively designed as was the Veterans' Educational Aid program" in his report for the 1953-54 academic year.

"To maintain the present rate of Canadian development," says the President, "Canadian Universities must meet the need for the vastly increased numbers of professionally trained and well-educated men and women that our complex society and complicated technology have made necessary. We must meet this need or slow down the rate of development."

"We are not meeting the need now," the President continues, "and we are also not yet getting all those in the high schools who are best equipped for higher education."

The report indicates that 1600 of the University of British

Columbia's 5500 students in 1953-54 shared $450,000 in prizes, scholarships, bursaries and loans supplied by industry, commerce, voluntary associations, private individuals and government.

Dr. MacKenzie emphasizes, however, that University of B.C. students are continuing the tradition of "working their way" through the University. Costs of their education plus the loss of four to six years of earning power makes the average student's total investment in education more than $10,000.

Reporting on student housing, the President points out that about half of UBC's student body comes from outside Vancouver. Present housing accommodates about 1000 students from outside the city with Fort and Acadia Camps providing places for some 870 single men and women and suites for about 180 couples and families.

Jobhunt Score Excellent For University Graduates

Personnel Department Director John F. McLean reports that the employment situation for this year's graduates is "Very good, indeed — one of the best years we have had."

Students trained in electrical engineering, chemical engineering, physics have been in the greatest demand. Young men and women holding degrees in commerce, mechanical engineering and general arts have also been quickly placed.

"The situation has been particularly good this year," said McLean, "because the number of graduates is smaller than in the past few years, when we had large 'veteran' classes." Very few 1955 graduates are still unplaced, although a few women with arts degrees are still looking for positions.

McLean also disclosed that summer employment opportunities are keeping up to the pattern of previous years. Many students are being employed in lumbering, mining, pulp and paper industries, summer resorts and in forest protection.

"We are hopeful that the majority of students who are willing to go out of town and who do not wish special types of jobs will be accommodated," McLean stated.

Two Churchmen To Be Honored

Union College will award diplomas and degrees to the young men it has trained for the United Church ministry at convocation ceremonies at 8 p.m., April 21, in Shaughnessy Heights United Church.

Dr. George Darby, Pacific Coast pioneer and medical missionary, and Rev. Kosaburo Shimizu, former minister of Vancouver's Japanese United Church, will receive honorary Doctor of Divinity degrees. Dr. Darby has devoted his life to the mission hospital at Bella Bella, and Rev. Shimizu, who now lives in Toronto, has been cited for his work with resettled Japanese-Canadians during the war.

Rev. Sir George MacLeod, founder and director of the Church of Scotland's Iona Community was a Union College visitor March 9 and 10. Now a training centre for ministers preparing to work with industrial groups, Iona Community is on the island where Christianity was first established in Scotland. It is being rebuilt as an historic sanctuary for the Protestant world.

Site Decision

Decision on a site for the School of Home Economics' new Home Management House will be made by the subcommittee early this month. Construction will begin as soon as the architects have revised the building plans to conform with the new site.

Forestry Awards

Four senior forestry students were awarded $75 cheques in the B.C. Lumberman's first annual student essay contest. Presentations were made on April 4 by Howard T. Mitchell, publisher of the B. C. Lumberman, at a Faculty Club luncheon.

Winners are E. Boyd Kelly, Vancouver; H. Dorrell Kent, Sorrento; and Laurence Hope, Fort Langley, all graduating in Forestry, and Dennis H. Patrick, Vancouver, a fourth-year Forestry Engineering student.

UBC To Be Represented At WUS Seminar in Japan

Prof. Frederick H. Soward, head of the Department of History and Director of International Studies, and two University of B.C. students, John Bossons, West Vancouver, and Maurice Copithorne, Vancouver, will participate in the biennial World University Service seminar to be held in Japan from July 17 to August 21.

Seminar topic will be "University Responsibility in the World of Today." Opening session will be an orientation program from July 17-21 at Koyasan, a Buddhist monastery near Osaka. The August 1-21 study program will probably be held at Tsuda College. Work projects, tours and visits to Japanese universities will also be included in the summer program.

Professor Soward is one of two Canadian University professors asked to participate in the seminar. Bossons and Copithorne will join 18 other students from Canadian universities and seven from U.S. colleges in the study tour.

Bossons was chairman of this year's University Week celebration held from Feb. 28 to March 5. An honor student in Economics, he is president of the UBC Economics Society and president-elect of the United Nations Club.

Copithorne has been president of the University's debating society, Parliamentary Forum; chairman of the campus Political Council and chairman of the campus branch of the World University Service. He is a member of Sigma Tau Chi, men's honorary fraternity.

MacKay to Study MacKenzie Delta

Dr. J. Ross Mackay, Associate Professor of Geography at the University, will continue studies of the Mackenzie River delta in B.C. this summer for a report to the Federal Geographic Branch in Ottawa. He will leave Vancouver in June.

Dr. Mackay's findings will be used as a sample for interpreting conditions in similar areas across Canada. He will work from air photos of the Mackenzie River delta, moving east of the section he mapped last summer, and making a full study of the physiography of this northern lowland area.

Anglican College Convocation Set

Anglican Theological College has scheduled its annual convocation for 8 p.m., April 26, in Brock Hall.

The Rev. Dr. W. A. Ferguson, Professor of New Testament Studies at the College, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity and will deliver the convocation address. Dr. Ferguson was principal of Anglican College from 1952 to 1954.

Because the theological course has been extended to three years, only three students will be graduated this month. Fred Lapham, who received his B.A. at St. David's College, Lampeter, Wales, will be awarded the Licentiate in Theology.

Bachelor of Divinity degrees will go to H. Bernard Barrett, Steveston, and Grant E. Dale, Princeton, B.C. Both were awarded the B.A. and the Licentiate in Theology, from the University of British Columbia and Anglican Theological College.

The Archbishop of British Columbia, the Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, D.D. will preside during the ceremonies. The Bishop of New Westminster, the Rt. Rev. G. P. Gower, will read the citation for Dr. Ferguson.

Concert Is Set

University of British Columbia music students will give their final concert of the session at 12:30 p.m., April 13, in Physics 200.

Barbara Pentland's advanced "Materials of Music" students will play their own compositions, and members of the "Music Appreciation" class will sing a cantata by Erik Satie.

To Attend UBC

Four students who enrolled in the University's annual eight-week Youth Training School for young people from rural areas are making plans to enter the Faculty of Agriculture at the University next fall.

They are Derek Styles, 28, of Terrace; Marina Parker, 20, Armstrong; Jack Burdge, 23 and Jim Selfe, 21, both of Victoria. Miss Parker has already arranged her courses for her freshman year entry in October.

Over 800 graduates of the Extension Department's Youth Training School are now taking leading roles in communities all over B.C.

Getting underway on a four-week teaching assignment for the Fisheries Service of the Department of Extension, is Captain James F. Patrick, Vancouver, a veteran of 48 years at sea. Captain Patrick served as an officer aboard each of CPR's famed Empress ships and has been master of both the Empress of Canada and the Empress of Russia.

Veteran Skipper Teaching In Fisheries Extension

A veteran of 48 years on square-rigged sailing ships, tramp steamers and liners, Captain James F. Patrick, retired, has never lost his love of the sea and ships. He was up bright and early Monday morning, April 4, for another trip north to the B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island settlements — to teach navigation to camps of Indian fishermen.

On this trip Capt. Patrick is visiting Bella-Bella, Alert Bay and Quathiaski Cove, returning to Vancouver at the end of the month. His pupils in navigation and seamanship—and he stresses "rules of the road" for mariners—are nearly all Indian fishermen, who work from camps on the coast and on the west side of Vancouver Island.

Capt. Patrick's "classes" in navigation are co-sponsored by the University Extension Department and B.C. Packers. He taught elementary navigation courses to fisheries students at the annual Youth Training School held on campus from January to early March.

APPRENTICED EARLY

The veteran mariner began his sea career at 15, when he was apprenticed for four years.

He left the sea 48 years later as a master mariner who had commanded the plush Empress of Canada and the Empress of Russia.

He served as an officer aboard the Empress of Asia, the Empress of Japan, the Empress of Australia and the Empress of France. In his early days he and his crew were shipwrecked off Cape Horn for 42 days.

For nine years after his retirement Capt. Patrick acted as an examiner for the Federal Department of Transport, which issues Masters' and Mates' certificates. He is still called into marine enquiries as a nautical assessor when the government wishes to determine the cause of a ship collision.

Family Camping

If you would like to participate in three or four meetings in order to learn about family camping procedures, write to the Family Life and Group Development Service, Department of Extension, University of British Columbia.

Beekeeping Course Ends

The first resident short course for British Columbia beekeepers was held from March 14 to March 22 at the Youth Training Centre on the University campus. The classes were co-sponsored by the University's Department of Extension and the Apiary Branch of the B.C. Department of Agriculture.

The course was attended by 26 beekeepers from Kamloops, Enderby, Vancouver, North Burnaby, Mission City, New Westminster, Vernon, Cloverdale, Penticton, Victoria, Kelowna, Vedder Crossing, Salt Spring Island, Chilliwack and South Burnaby.

Instruction covered management of colonies; disease and its control; processing, grading and marketing of honey; history, anatomy and physiology of bees; construction and assembling of beehive equipment; honey plants; beekeeping equipment and grading regulations.

Students who passed the final examination qualify for the B. C. Beemasters' "A" class certificate.

April 13 Institute For Audio-Visual

A professor of psychology from the University of Toronto, Dr. Everett Bovard, will be guest speaker at the second annual Audio-Visual Institute to be held on campus April 13. The Institute is sponsored by the University Extension Department and the Industrial Film Council of B.C.

The one-day workshop has been planned as an aid for training of personnel, and as a guide for public relations officers, advertising personnel, lecturers and speakers. Subjects ranging from filming to discussion techniques will be covered.

Dr. Bovard will speak on "An Effective Method of Discussion" at a luncheon meeting of the Institute. Classes will be held from early morning until late in the afternoon. A summary of the day's work will round out the Institute.

New Films Added

Four new films and 24 filmstrips were added to the film library in Audio-Visual in March. The filmstrips are in color, and cover religious subjects.

New films include "Rocky Mountain Trout," a 15 minute story in color of fishing in the Rockies; "Longhouse People," a 23 minute film on Iriquois life; "Mother of Parliaments," showing the re-opening of the House of Commons in Britain in 1950, and "Gateway to Health," a 20 minute color show on dental care.

Diplomas Go To B.C. Men

Nearly two hundred British Columbia businessmen completed University of British Columbia School of Commerce extension courses in March and received certificates from Prof. Earle D. MacPhee.

On March 16 students in the Vancouver Sales Management Course received their diplomas. Twenty-two third-year students were awarded diplomas. First and second-year certificates went to 85 students.

Victoria Sales Management first-year certificates were awarded on March 17 to 52 students. These men will continue the three-year course in the fall.

Nanaimo Business Management students received their first-year certificates on March 23. The 35 enrollees have completed the first section of their course on Marketing, and have two more years before they are awarded diplomas.

European Trip Set for Summer

Dean and Mrs. George F. Curtis leave after Congregation for two months of travel abroad.

Dean Curtis will attend the July 13-16 meeting of the United Kingdom Society of Public Teachers of Law in Edinburgh. He will also represent the Law Society of British Columbia and the Canadian Bar Association at the Commonwealth Law Conference in London, July 20-27. He has been asked to give a paper on legal reform at this meeting and will lecture to members of the English Speaking Union.
