Bread Lines A Thing of The Past

Cafeteria Remodeled to Speed up
Service.

No more bread lines—no more hasty meals—no more rapid retreats from the cafeteria to the lecture room! For during the summer months great improvements have been going under the able supervision of Miss Hansford, who superintends the entire work of the Cafeteria. To avoid congestion while returning trays, the side shelf has been lengthened. Not only has the "luncheon room" been kalsomined and made spotlessly clean, but it now has curtains and electrical fixtures in the University colors. As usual the 25 cents lunch will be served from 11.30 to 1.30, and afternoon tea,—when one may order toasted crumpets, cakes, jam, from 3 to 5.30. There will also be cigarettes, candy and glacier bars in abundance. And for the benefit of late risers, it has been rumored that there is a possibility that there need be no more breakfastless 9 o'clock lectures.

U.B.C. Grads in Fire at Berkeley

Miss Jean Straus Loses Belongings.

The recent fire at Berkeley is of special interest to students of the University of British Columbia on account of eight Varsity graduates having their residence there. These were: Mrs. Urquhart, Arts '20, having a teaching fellowship in Chemistry; Miss Marion Wilcox, Arts '23, taking post graduate work in Palaeontology; Miss Jean Straus, Arts '23, pursuing work towards a Master's degree in History; Harry Cassidy, Arts '23; Les. Fournier, Arts '21; and Allan Peebles, Arts '21, all having teaching fellowships in Economics; Geoff. Coope and Lionel Stevenson, Arts '22, also taking post graduate work.

According to a letter received by Miss McInnes from Lionel Stevenson this week, Miss Straus was the only U. B. C. student to lose her belongings in the disaster. The campus of Berkeley College is still piled high with furniture from the various Frat. houses and residences. The ruins are being searched in a last effort to salvage, if possible, some of the valuable data compiled by the University faculty.

The sincere sympathy of the University of British Columbia is extended to that of California.

PRESIDENT KLINCK AND JACK GRANT WELCOME ASSEMBLING STUDENTS

President of University and President of Alma Mater Society Issue Address to Student Body

PRES. KLINCK'S ADDRESS.

Dr. L. S. Klinck, president of the University, on behalf of the faculty and governing bodies of the U. B. C., wishes to extend a hearty welcome to the student body as a whole, and to the first year students in particular.

The growth of the University in numbers and prestige is due in no small measure to the interest which the undergraduate body has always shown in every phase of the University's activities, according to Dr. Klinck.

The relations between the faculty and student body have always been of a most cordial nature, and the president is confident that equally happy relations will characterize the year upon which the College is just entering.

"I heartily congratulate you as students upon the opportunity of obtaining a university education in this province," said President Klinck, in speaking of the advantages of a college training, and added: "The terms are short; the years are few. Form habits of work, not from a sense of duty but from instinctive pleasure. Find out for yourselves when you can work best, how long you can work continuously with full vigor, and then around these fixed points group your social life, your leisure, your amusements.

"Play the games you enjoy; participate in the student activities you like; make honest friends; lay up a store of kindly recollections."

JACK GRANT'S ADDRESS.

At the beginning of the ninth session of the University of British Columbia it gives me sincere pleasure to express a message of greeting to fellow-students, and at the same time to welcome the incoming class of '27.

I feel that at this period in the history of our Alma Mater no more fitting watchword can be found for the coming session than our own "Tuum est," and, to understand its special significance now, we should translate it into the vernacular: "It's up to you." Every student should keep this watchword before him during the present year at least.

The present session should prove just as important to ourselves and to our Alma Mater as that of the past year, even though I am sure we all agree that last term is sure to go down as one of the greatest in University history. Perhaps in the coming year we will have no occasion to pledge ourselves to our Alma Mater in as outward a manner as last year necessitated. With University construction at Point Grey well under way, it is unlikely that there will be need of a campaign, of an organized effort to place the University on a sure road to existence. Its existence is assured; its future worth and greatness are now of prime importance to us all. The future is "Up to you."

We helped build a University of stone. We must strive now, not only

REPORTERS' CONTEST

Reporters for The Ubysssey will be chosen again this year by means of a contest to be held in connection with the first regular issue of the college paper. A meeting will be held Friday noon in room Z, at which instructions regarding the contest will be issued and it is hoped that every freshman, sophomore, junior and senior, who is inclined towards journalism will be present.

Those in charge of the paper have stated that all that is required for a tryout is willingness, ambition and a fair knowledge of the English language. The contest is not a sham and those who are judged capable will receive the appointments. Women reporters are needed as well as men and the editorial staff will be pleased to see them interested as this is the only student publication in the college with the exception of the Annual which is also handled by the Publications Board.

Freshmen need have no fear of discrimination in the reporters' contest when it is announced that last year a freshette led those entering the competition. Experienced reporters are wanted as well as beginners and those doing sport or general stories for the Vancouver or outside papers are asked to get in touch with members of the staff at once.

Several of the students working on the college paper last year were given positions on the editorial staffs of the local publications this summer and some of these have been admitted to the B. C. Journalists' Institute which includes newspaper men and women from the whole province. There is no school of journalism connected with the U. B. C. but the college paper affords an opportunity for practical experience.

Glory must not be expected in journalism, according to some of its leaders, but for an excellent training to go along with a degree the work in connection with a college paper is desirable. The medium of journalistic work brings the student into close cooperation with the University life without which a college course loses much of its value.

Registrations and Faculty Appointments

Popular Grads and Undergrads
Given Positions on Staff.

The following re-appointments were made to the University staff at a meeting of the Board of Governors on Monday, Sept. 24:

Hasn't Flunked Yet!

WHETHER it is a thesis that has to be ready the next day—or a steady job on lecture notes—Corona never flunks.

Getting things done is the really big result of using Corona.

In college, school or office the papers that come in on time, neatly Coronatyped, get the highest grades.

You can't evade that truth without sticking your head in the sand.

EDITORIAL WELCOME.

This special early issue of The Ubyssy enables us to join the chorus of welcome which greets the students at this time. We are a little late it is true, but we hope our greetings will be none the less acceptable. It is especially to those entering the University for the first time that we extend a hearty welcome, and we also take the liberty of addressing to them a few words of advice and warning.

Remember that you are individual members of the student body and as such have a place to fill in the various activities, academic and otherwise, that comprise the University proper. From your ranks will be recruited the future leaders of student life; your Alma Mater needs your ideas, enthusiasm, and ideals; but you must take the first step,—you must begin now to participate in the form of activity to which you are adapted. Associate yourself with any organization that interests you by attending the meetings of that society. Don't wait to be asked. Watch the notice boards for notices of meetings that concern you, and attend the first meeting.

And now a word of warning. Remember that however absorbing student activities may be, and however necessary if one is to get the highest returns for time spent at college, your studies must come first. Don't let the secondary part of your University work eclipse the primary and more important part. In short, don't be a Christmas graduate.

NECESSITY OF CO-OPERATION.

As we begin another year of publication we naturally wonder if the coming session will be one of success for The Ubyssy. This depends in a large measure upon the support given to us by the student body,—support rendered chiefly in two ways: first, a spirit of good-will toward the paper, and second, co-operation of a more active, definite nature. The good-will and indulgence of all is requested for the early part of the year in particular, as the task of organization has been an exceptionally difficult one. This friendly attitude will effect a considerable lightening of our task, but more than this is required if the paper is to be a representative organ. Many of our best literary contributors have left us to pursue their studies elsewhere, and their place must be taken by others; the Business Staff has been re-organized and men are needed to work with the Business Manager and his assistants; on another page notice is given of a contest to be held immediately by which we expect to obtain a number of reporters; and we ask that as many students as possible co-operate with the Publications Board along these three lines. We do not expect trained men and women, nor geniuses, if you are willing to try, that is qualification enough. Remember that The Ubyssy can have no true success, nor can it fulfil the assurances inherent in its very name if it is the product merely of the Editorial and Business Staffs of the Publications Board.

COUNCIL MEMBER IN HOSPITAL.

Doris Shorney, President of Women's Athletics, is in the isolation hospital suffering from scarlet fever. During the summer months she has been supervising the children at the Kitsilano playground, the youngsters under her care winning high honors in the sports held recently in connection with the playground training. Her classmates and fellow-members on the Council unite with the members of The Ubyssy staff in wishing Doris the speediest possible recovery.

LIBRARY DONATION.

The University is indebted to the members of Arts '26 for supplying a long-felt need in the library. At the close of last session a voluntary gift of sixty dollars was made to the University by this class, Dr. Sedgewick and Prof. Soward being in charge of its expenditure. As a result there are now on the library shelves forty of the best books of modern fiction.

JACK GRANT'S MESSAGE.

to preserve glorious traditions of the past, but even to establish still greater ones, so that the cold stonework at Point Grey, in years to come, may be mellowed by the spirit of a great and real University.

"It's up to you" to see that the traditions of the past year are not forgotten. The lessons of solidarity, of unity within the student body, some sense of what our collective will can accomplish, a vivid recollection of the college spirit of the campaign—all must be preserved.

The spirit of clean sportsmanship on the athletic field, the achievements of our debaters, and, perhaps most important of all, the already fully established tradition of scholarship must be maintained. Great traditions are behind us, still greater ones are before us. They cannot be established except by a serious and thoughtful application to the problems within the University. Such must be our course this year. "It's up to you."

The Bunk

(A Muckitorial)

And so, after several months' absence, each and every one of us has returned to lend his bulk to the mighty throngs that cram the dim aisles of our beloved University. And so, dear readers, it has come about that even Mr. Muck has returned to these haunts of learning. It has been with a tender heart that he has greeted all those old associates who labored so diligently with him on the Muck-a-Muck staff last year. Then, too, dear readers, it is with tears in his eyes that Mr. Muck picks up again his trusty old quill and settles back to the old task of slinging mud. Kind friends, his evocation during the summer has finely fitted him for that. He worked in a gravel quarry. On Saturday afternoons he went to the horse-races and lost the money he made in the gravel quarry, so you see, Mr. Muck's horse-play too, will be of the very finest variety. Indeed you may rest assured that, as a result of his summer studies the humour on this page will be a well-balanced combination of the two aforesaid arts.

And now, dear readers, Mr. Muck is going to give you his candid opinion on something that is none of his business. Just think. But first let him explain. We will suppose that you have heard about the new Editorial Board (so new in fact that the shine isn't worn off), new Editor-in-Chief, Associate Editors and all the rest of them. In two words, they're "The Bunk." Why are they "the bunk"? Just look at this Bullrush Freshman edition and disdain to make the query. And now having criticised, Mr. Muck will suggest a plan, which, if followed in the future, will make this publication one of the finest college papers on the continent. Just look about you at this moment and notice with what long serious faces the people about you are perusing the contents of the Muck-a-Muck page. Now, look again, and see with what hilarious laughter others are devouring the more serious parts of the paper. Here is the plan. Mr. Muck will manufacture his humorous material and place it in the Editorial and News Columns; and the new Editorial Staff will do it's damndest and put it in the Muck-a-Muck columns. Result—everything that a College paper should be.

M. MUCK,
Editor of "Muck-a-Muck."

SATANIC SALLIES

Hello, there—er-er-er, glad to see you back again.

By the dust on their books you shall know them.

"Woman, you make me see red," said the youth as he gazed at her cheeks and lips.

Just the other day one of the guests at Oakala, a studious fellow, told us that the longest sentence he ever heard was "Imprisonment for life."

Somewhere in our college perambulations we have heard that one reason why a ship is called a "she" is because it requires so much painting.

A DIRGE

(1923-24)

Broke, broke, broke,
Flat on the rocks, am I,
With tender thoughts of the cash I've spent,
Now that I'm high and dry.

Ah, well for the lad with a job
As he labors, doing well,
Ah, well for the lad with the tin
That he takes his queen to the Belle.

And the college world rolls on,
With never a thought for me,
While I comfort myself with the thought
Of the sport I'd like to be.

Broke, broke, broke,
Elephant stepped on my purse,
But I comfort myself with the thought,
That I can't be any worse.

Sport News

(By the Sporting Editor).

Last season Varsity finished with a fine array of trophies to its credit, notably the Mainland Cup, emblematic of the Mainland Soccer Championship, and the McKechnie Cup, the goal of rigger enthusiasts of the Pacific Coast. This year we are going to do better still, and you can yourself judge our chances from the tabulated list below. But—a word of warning first. In the past our soccer and intermediate rugby games have had practically no encouragement at all as regards the support of the Varsity student (at the games.) If Arts '27 will turn out in a body to the soccer games at Con Jones' park on Saturday, between Varsity and North Vancouver Elks, they will set an example and prove that they possess the real Varsity spirit. The following short notes will suffice to show our position this season:

Soccer.

Soccer is going to boom this season. If you know anything of last year's team, read the following list of names and then figure out what a wonderful opportunity we have. The probable line-up is: Mosher, Crute, Baker, Buckley, Phillips, Jackson, Ternan, Deans, Lundie, Emery and Wilkinson. Ternan and Wilkinson will not be on hand for the first game. Our second team is still in the process of making, and at the present time there is very little data on it. Will all Freshmen who are interested in soccer and have played before, please send their names in to the Sporting Editor of this paper.

Rugby.

The members of last year's McKechnie Cup squad have been widely scattered. Amongst those listed as "missing" are Greig, Hodson, McVittie, Cameron, Scott, Penwill and Purdy. Members of the Miller Cup squad will fill these vacancies. Our strong competitor, however, the "Rep" has suffered many serious losses, a few being Stewart, Marshall and Lord. Our chances are not as good in this series as last year, but in the Miller Cup and intermediate series should be better than ever. Will Freshmen who have played rugby, either see the editor at this office or W. McKee.

Basketball.

The outlook for this branch of sport is very good. There is enough good basketball players in the Freshman year to fill two or even three intermediate teams. A Senior A and Senior B team will again be entered this year.

Track.

The Students' Council at their meeting Tuesday afternoon, gave their consent to the proposal put forward by the Men's Athletic, that four track stars be sent from this University to compete at the Western Collegiate Athletic meet, to be held at Saskatoon, Sask., on October 13. The eliminations will be held shortly, the representative being not yet chosen.

Literary Corner

ESSE EST PERCIPI.

Ghost-branches on the moonlit swards,
Rose petals on the lawn;
And sunset down remembered roads
And silver skies at dawn.

When we have seen the light recede,
Have sickened with the pain
Of concepts, suddenly unkeyed,
Shrivelling in the brain.

This hoarded loveliness we hold
Shall wither in the dark,
As shadows of a taper's gold
Close in upon the spark.

—G. B.

LITERARY NOTES

The purpose of the Literary Corner is to draw out undiscovered literary talent among the students. It seeks to encourage those undergraduates who write either prose or verse. Each week one contribution appears in this column. All contributions should be addressed to the Literary Editor, "Ubyssy."

COUNCIL NOTES

All students are requested to read the minutes of the Students' Council meetings which will be posted regularly on the notice boards. The Ubyssy will publish each week certain items of common interest, but this will not furnish sufficient information for those interested in the student government of the University.

The first meeting was held on Tuesday, September 25, at 2.30 p.m.

Miss Betty Somerset was appointed Vice-president of the Alma Mater.

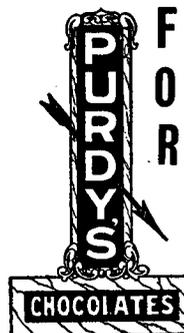

The first Alma Mater meeting will be held at noon on Tuesday, October 2.

WOMEN'S UNDERGRAD.

Juniors and Seniors who wish any particular freshettes assigned to them are asked to hand in their own names and those of the freshettes to the secretary, Miss Lucy Ingram, before Friday, September 28. Each prefect will be assigned three freshettes. Prefects will please get in touch with their freshettes before the Prefect Tea, which will be held in the Auditorium on October 6, from 3 to 6.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

This is a special four-page edition of The Ubyssy. The first regular issue for the 1923-24 session will be published next Thursday, and will be the usual eight page paper as printed last year by the Publications Board. Considerable difficulty has been experienced in arranging for a rushed extra and a four page sheet was all that could be prepared in the limited space of time since the college opened.
