ELECTION RULES

"Progress Through Commerce, " according to Charlotte Christopher, executive of the Commerce Council, is a slogan that the council is putting forward this year. It is to bring a university education and the opportunities presented, "he said.

Christopher stated that the council is working towards the formation of a number of new organizations.

For instance, the council is investigating the possibility of starting a University of British Columbia Historical Society, which would be made up of all students who have studied in the departments of History and Political Science.

Christopher stated that the council is also investigating the possibility of starting a University of British Columbia Economics Society, which would be made up of all students who have studied in the departments of Economics and Business Administration.

The council is also investigating the possibility of starting a University of British Columbia Psychology Society, which would be made up of all students who have studied in the departments of Psychology and Sociology.

The council is also investigating the possibility of starting a University of British Columbia Sociology Society, which would be made up of all students who have studied in the departments of Sociology and Social Work.

Round Table Discussions Prove Popular Feature

A series of radio round-table discussions on current affairs is an enterprise initiated recently by the Parliamentary Forum, in conjunction with the University Radio Society.

The program, presently Friday night at 8:30 over CKJO, is designed to present a discussion of current topics for young University students with a University professor acting as moderator.

Vernon Forms Alumni Group

A new University of British Columbia alumni group was recently formed in Vernon. At its first meeting the alumni group presented a request to the radio station.

Some Notes on Current Events

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. J. V. Clyne, on Sunday, January 19.

Selecting Critics

The meeting has been changed to Thursday. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. J. V. Clyne, on Sunday, January 19.

Festive Party

The cast of the Vernon High School production of Shakespeare's Roméo and Julié will be invited to a New Year's Festive Party, with cash prizes for the best performances of the bard.
'Birds Down 'Cats Twice To Maintain Torrid Pace

Intercollegiate basketball returned to the campus over the weekend and it brought back a story line that could well end up as the theme for the basketball season. Or, at least, as the Birds defeated a tough UCSC squad by scores of 146-131.

Waving both concepts was the familiar and expected win in the opening game of the weekend for the Birds. The Birds opened the weekend with a win over the UCSC 'Cats, twice.

The first of the two games was a 94-89 victory over the 'Cats. This was followed by a 151-131 triumph over the 'Cats. The Birds were led by Ron Weber, who scored a total of 39 points in the two games.
