Far East Vital To World Peace

Howard Green, M.S., speaking at a meeting of the UN Club in Arts 150 room, stressed the vital importance of the Pacific area in world affairs. Mr. Green emphasized that future war America and Russia will be the countries primarily concerned.

The Far East, Mr. Green pointed out, is the strategic region, and the Far East defense area is as important as Western Europe, even for the defense center Europe is.

Washington usually bases her military strategy on the premise that the aggression of China would bring about a war between Russia and the United States. The recent success of Tientsin to incorporate Japan into this framework for a Pacific defense system seems to indicate that the United States may adopt the same policy as Mr. Green advocated.

The United States' past policies towards the Far East have been mainly defensive. In the future, the Americans should adopt a more aggressive policy to protect their interests in the Far East.

The National Security Act of 1947, which is designed to strengthen the United States' defense system, is an important step in this direction. The act provides for the establishment of the National Security Council, which will have the power to coordinate the activities of the various departments and agencies of the government.

Graduate Diploma in Criminology

A nation key forward in the field of criminology, as in a specialization diploma program, is the Criminology Studies Programme, which will be offered at the University of British Columbia. The program is designed to meet the needs of persons who wish to study criminology in a more intensive manner.

The program will consist of four courses, each worth 3 credits. The courses will be offered in the fall, spring, and summer terms. The program will be open to persons who have a college degree or equivalent in criminology or related fields.

PACIFIC DEFENSE

Canada has today the great opportunity to play a real role in the world's defense by advocating a policy that will bring about a closer union between the two nations. The example of the United States is not a bad one to follow.

In the connection the Mr. Green referred to, it is the United States which has the largest defense budget in the world. It spends about 50% of its gross national product on defense.

Redshirts Fail To Deny "Sloppiness" Charges

Despite a long and eventful history, the United States Navy has never suffered a loss of confidence. The Navy's reputation for excellence was earned through many years of hard work and dedication.

The "Sloppiness" charges are a grave matter, and the Navy must take all necessary steps to ensure that such charges are not repeated in the future. The Navy's policies and procedures must be reviewed and revised, if necessary, to ensure that all personnel are aware of the high standards expected of them.

Will cold weather hit the North Atlantic? It is unknown at this point whether cold weather will hit the North Atlantic this winter.

Cossacks, Flappers and Hula-Hula's

Highlights of ISC Masquerade Ball

Wildness bedazzled the scene at the ISC Masquerade Ball held at Vanier Hall. Flappers, Cossacks, and Hula-Hula's were among the many colorful characters who attended the event.

The ball was held in the Vanier Hall Ballroom, and was attended by a large crowd of students and faculty members. The event was hosted by the ISC student council, and was a great success.
The Liberals Have a Day

Last week UBC students had the opportunity of hearing two leaders of national parties. This was the first time in years that such events were held, and students were enthusiastic. In fact, they were so enthusiastic that a couple of times it appeared as if the room was going to burst with excitement.

Mr. Coldwell, regarding perhaps days long gone by, seemed to take it all in stride. He might have said anything he wanted to say, he might have taken it all to heart, but somehow he managed to make it seem as though he were just talking about old times.

One of the chief points in his argument was the need for a new economic rehabilitation of the country. As a result of this, he proposed the setting up of a special committee of the student body to work on the economic rehabilitation of the country. This committee, he said, would be composed of representatives from all the different faculties and would be responsible for formulating and implementing economic policies.

Mr. Coldwell’s talk was uneventful. Mr. Drew was even more so as he confined himself to anodyne remarks. The students were not interested in what he said, and it seems as though they had not come to their senses soon enough.

Two Days Later

Within a month and a day, the possibility of revising the AM S constitution was discussed. The students were not satisfied with the present constitution, and they wanted it to be revised.

A list of the key points which should be considered in the revision of the constitution includes:

1. The right to vote on all matters of importance to the students.
2. The right to appeal to higher authorities in cases of disagreement.
3. The right to form and maintain student unions.
4. The right to have a say in the selection of the administration.
5. The right to have a voice in the development of the curriculum.

The Liberals have the day.

Out On A Limb

With much failure Students' Council set up two committees at the beginning of the year. These committees were supposed to study two of the perennial problems facing the AM S: the AM S autonomy and the possibilities of revising the AM S constitution.

To date neither one of these committees has even met. The few precious weeks constituting the life span of every committee have been wasted on this term of vacillating.

The outlook for the future is not much better. The new Selection Committee is not even in existence. Its function was to select the best students to study at UBC. This committee was set up in order to ensure that the best students would be selected.

The selection of students is a matter of great concern to the University. The University is under the impression that the selection of students is a matter of great concern to the students, too.

The election of a new cabinet is a necessary part of the Ubyssey. As the Ubyssey is a newspaper, it is essential that the Ubyssey should be written by a man who is capable of writing a newspaper.

The Ubyssey is a newspaper, and a newspaper is a thing that needs to be respected. It is important that the Ubyssey should be written by a man who is capable of writing a newspaper.

Ex-Sailor Mulligan To Speak On Campus

When Ulrich Stipke comes to shape international policy in the capitals of the world, another German ISS student will be reporting it. Walter Rahn, latest arrival on the campus from Germany, is heading for a career as foreign correspondent.

Transportation difficulties delayed Walter's arrival so that he didn't get here on November 5 but his German-made television tube was brought in with him. The tube is the best material for a foreign correspondent.

One notices at once, says M. R. Mulligan, head of Vancouver police department, the absence of that feel-good personality. He is an active student in government and is looking forward to a career in the federal government.

Under the sponsorship of the University of British Columbia, another German student will be taking part in the first reports. He, too, plans to get his Ph. D. in political science.
