Fonds Description

Charles E. Borden fonds. – 1905-1978.

8.63 m of textual records and other materials.

Biographical Sketch

Charles E. Borden, the grandfather of British Columbia archaeology, was born in New York City on May 15, 1905. Shortly after that, he accompanied his widowed mother to her family home in Germany, where he was raised. At the age of 22, after accidentally discovering he was an American citizen, Borden returned to the United States. He enrolled at the University of California at Los Angeles from which he received his A.B. for German Literature in 1932. He continued his German studies at the Berkeley campus of the University of California. He later secured an M.A. in 1933 and a Ph.D. in 1937. He held a brief teaching assignment at Reed College in Portland, Oregon. Borden joined the faculty of the Department of German at the University of British Columbia in 1939 and remained a member until his retirement.

As a result of a variety of circumstances, including the difficulty of securing research materials from Germany during World War II and the post-war period, Borden became increasingly more interested in a subject closer to home, the archaeology of British Columbia. Borden began his archaeological career with a small privately funded dig in the Point Grey area in 1945. He gradually expanded the scope of his archaeological research to include major surveys throughout the province, salvage archaeology and in-depth studies of the Fraser Canyon and Delta areas. In 1949 he was appointed Lecturer in Archaeology in the Department of Sociology and Archaeology at the University of British Columbia while retaining his responsibilities in the German Department.

Throughout the balance of his career, from 1949 to 1978, Borden established a highly respected and internationally visible presence in archaeology as an instructor, an author, an editor, a researcher and a spokesman for his chosen discipline. His publications reflect his principal interest in archaeology, cultural-historical synthesis. He developed the Uniform Site Designation Scheme, which has been adopted in most of Canada. In addition to his academic contributions to archaeology, Borden also devoted considerable energy to securing provincial legislation to protect archaeological sites. In conjunction with Wilson Duff, he was responsible for the passage in British Columbia of the 1960 Archaeological and Historic Sites Protection Act and the creation of the Archaeological sites Advisory Board. Borden married Alice Victoria Witkin in 1931. They had two sons, John Harvey and Richard Keith. Alice Borden pioneered in the development of numerous new techniques in the field of pre-school education throughout the 1950s and 1960s. Her papers are available at the University of British Columbia Archives. Alice Borden predeceased her husband in 1971. In 1976, Borden married his second wife, Hala. Charles E. Borden died Christmas afternoon 1978, having that morning completed editing a chapter in a book on the prehistory of Northwest Coast art.

Scope and Content

Fonds contains three series: Archaeology, German and Personal. Within each series, the material has been organized into subseries such as correspondence, subject files, manuscripts, papers and reports. Considerable attempts have been made to ensure that Borden's notions of relationships have been preserved. As a result, the correspondence subseries contains material "in, out, and about" an individual or subject in the same file, as this was Borden's method. Similarly, material by an individual may be found in both the file under their name and in a file under the name of the institution, they represented.

Notes

Researchers are strongly advised to check with the University Archives regarding permission to publish or otherwise use materials from this fonds.

Those portions of the fonds not requiring standard archival storage have been removed to other more appropriate areas such as the photographic section of the University of British Columbia Archives, the pamphlet collection of the Special Collections Division of the Main Library, and the Archaeology Laboratory.

Charles E. Borden willed the papers to the University of British Columbia Archives. They have been organized for researchers with the help of a grant from the Koerner Foundation, which also supported several of the archaeological digs undertaken by Charles Borden.

Includes: 813 photographs, 7 prints, 1 watercolour, 62 maps, 3 audio reels, 17 microfilm reels.

The maps inventory can be accessed in paper form only at UBC Archives. Selected photographs can be accessed through the UBC Archives Historical Photograph Database (UBC 26.1).

Some restrictions may apply.

The term "Indian" is now outdated and is considered by many Indigenous Peoples to be offensive. However, it is retained in some places in this inventory as part of a proper organizational name or a publication title.
