Fonds Description

Faculty of Education fonds. – 1928-1999.

13.79 m of textual records and other material

Administrative History

The Faculty of Education at UBC began under the direction of Dean Neville Scarfe in 1956 with the registration of 905 students. This new Faculty of Education consolidated the UBC School of Education and the publicly-funded Provincial Normal School, which had previously trained teachers in BC. In 1962, UBC opened the Education Building, now known as the Neville Scarfe Building. Over the years the Faculty welcomed innovative new initiatives and additions, such as the inclusion of the School of Kinesiology, the creation of the Native Indian Teacher Education Program (now called the Indigenous Teacher Education Program) in 1970, and the development of the Centre for the Study of Curriculum and Instruction in 1976.

The Faculty of Education has grown to become one of the leading faculties of education in the world. Indeed, since 1956, over 49,000 individuals have graduated from the Faculty of Education at UBC. Today, approximately half of elementary teachers and a majority of secondary school teachers within British Columbia have received instruction from the Faculty.

The Office of the Dean at the Faculty of Education provides both leadership and administrative direction to the Faculty. The office includes the Dean and the Senior Leadership team as well as a number of committees such as the Dean's Advisory Committee and the Faculty Meetings.

The Dean's Office began with the appointment of Dean Neville Scarfe in 1956. In 1973, upon the retirement of Dean Neville Scarfe, Prof. J.M. Andrews was appointed Dean. Dean J.M. Andrews served as Dean until 1979 and subsequently as Professor until his retirement in 1985. It was Dean Andrews who, citing the growth of the Faculty, suggested that the role of Dean should concentrate on policy and external relations and the Associate Dean on internal matters. In 1979, Dean Andrews decided not to seek a second term and Prof. Roy Bentley was appointed Acting Dean. The appointment was originally to be pro tempore but ended up lasting for two years. In 1981, Prof. Daniel R. Birch became the Dean of Education. In 1987, Dean Nancy M. Sheenan took on this role. In 2000 Prof. Robert Tierney was appointed Dean of Education and remained in the role until 2010 when Dean Jon Shapiro was appointed (pro tempore). In 2011, Prof. Blye Frank became Dean of UBC's Faculty of Education.

They pertain specifically to different types of education, such as "Art Education", "Counselling Psychology", and "Reading Education" and includes records from 1971-1980. The documents include letters and memos addressed to and from Dean Neville Scarfe, Dean John H. M. Andrews, and Acting Dean Roy Bentley during their respective roles as Dean or Acting Dean of the Faculty of Education during the 1970s and into 1980.

1.53 m of textual material.

Series consists of minutes, reports, and other documentation from the Joint Board of Teacher Education from 1963-1983. By 1964, representatives from the University of Victoria and Simon Fraser University joined representatives from UBC, the Provincial Department of Education, the B.C. School Trustees' Association, and the B.C. Teachers' Federation to form the Joint Board of Teacher Education. The series has been re-organized in roughly chronological order. Please note that minutes and other materials relating to the Joint Board of Teacher Education can be found in the Senate fonds within the UBC Archives. For further information, please consult the finding aid which can be found at: http://www.library.ubc.ca/archives/u_arch/senate.pdf.

Also note that the Joint Board of Teacher Education was preceded by the Joint Board of the College of Education, which met for the first time 1955. Originally, the Joint Board of the College of Education included representatives from UBC, the Provincial Department of Education, Victoria College (which later became the University of Victoria), the B.C. School Trustees' Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation. Much of its early mandate dealt with the formation of the new Faculty of Education at UBC and the concurrent cessation of the Provincial Normal School. More information on the Joint Board of the College of Education can be found in the Senate fonds within the UBC Archives. For further information, please consult the finding aid which can be found at: http://www.library.ubc.ca/archives/u_arch/senate.pdf.

Although often the members of this committee, which was originally called the “Tri-ed Group” standing for “Tri-education Group”, also were members of the Joint Board of Teacher Education, these two Committees were distinct. The Tri-Ed Committee, according to minutes from the first meeting in August of 1966, was created for the purposes of keeping members in touch with one another about developments at their respective universities. The series has been re-organized in roughly chronological order.
