Biographical Sketch

William Edmund (Bill) Messenger was a professor of English at UBC from 1966 to 1988. He was born in Independence, Missouri on February 1931 to Edmund Earl Messenger and Inga Therese Messenger (nee Enger). He attended elementary schools in Kansas City, Missouri; Kansas City, Kansas; Merriam, Kansas; and finally, Everett, Washington. He spent two years at Everett Junior College and majored in Architectural Engineering. From there he began working at the Boeing Aircraft Company in Seattle. While working at Boeing, he entered the United States Air Force where he learned and taught electronics for four years. After leaving the Air Force, he went back to Boeing. In 1955, Messenger entered the University of Washington Seattle and completed a BA in English in 1956. In September 1957, he began graduate work Cornell University as a National Woodrow Wilson Fellow and continued on a Cornell University Junior Graduate Fellowship in 1958 and 1959. At Cornell, Messenger met Ann Parshall who was also a student of English. After graduation, he taught at Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania. In 1960, Bill and Ann were married in Ann's hometown Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. In the early 1960's, Messenger began post-graduate studies at the University of California, Berkeley. In 1968, Messenger received his doctoral degree from Berkley and became an Assistant Professor at UBC in 1969, moving to the rank of Associate Professor in 1982. His areas of special interest were nineteenth and twentieth-century British and American fiction and the works of writer Joseph Conrad.

William Messenger co-authored and co-edited several works during his career at UBC, including the Canadian Writer's Handbook (1980, 1986, and 1995), Active Voice (1980, 1996, 1991), Literature in English (1993), and Elements of Writing: A Process Rhetoric for Canadian Students (1984). Messenger was also active in the academic literary community. He served as the Canadian National Editor for the editorial board of the international literary journal Conradiana from 1969 to 1980, contributed several papers and reviews on the topics of Conrad and Melville for various other academic literary journals, and was a member of numerous professional and learned societies. Messenger's personal pursuits included the creation of games and word puzzles and he contributed a regular puzzle column called "Triple Ploy" to Western Living Magazine in the 1970's and 1980's. Messenger also enjoyed cooking, gardening, and produced two works of fiction: a sea-themed novel entitled "The Last Horizon," as well as a murder mystery called "A Necessary End" that he co-wrote with Ann Parshall Messenger under the pseudonym Edmond Carey; both of which remained unpublished.

In 1988, Messenger retired and spent the next eight years caring for his wife. Ann Parshall Messenger died in Vancouver, Canada on February 1996 of multiple cancer. After his wife's death, William Messenger donated part of his personal collection of books to the University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University Libraries. He also provided endowments to UBC for the Ann and William Messenger Fellowship in Graduate Education and the Ann and William Messenger Graduate Fellowship. William Messenger died on June 15, 2003 in Vancouver, Canada, from pneumonia and complications related to Alzheimer's Disease.

Sous-fonds Description

Ann Parshall Messenger sous-fonds. – 1934-1996.

12 cm of textual records.

2 portraits (photocopies).

Ann Parshall Messenger was born on May 31, 1933 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Ann Messenger finished her BA from Oberlin College, Ohio in 1955 and another BA from Oxford, England in 1957. She was a Snell Scholar at Oberlin and a Fulbright Scholar at Oxford. She completed her MA from Somerville College (Oxford) in 1961 and her Ph.D. from Cornell University in 1964. It was at Cornell that Ann met William Messenger, who was also a student in English. Both were married in 1960 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Ann Messenger taught at Bucknell University, UCLA at Berkeley, and San Francisco State College in California. In 1966, Ann and William Messenger moved to Vancouver, British Columbia and both taught at the UBC Department of English as lecturers. In 1968, Ann Messenger moved to Simon Fraser University (SFU) where she rose to the rank of full Professor. Forced to leave her teaching career in 1988 because of a physically debilitating illness, Ann Messenger directed her intellectual energies towards research on nearly forgotten 18th century women poets. Ann Messenger's writings include His and Hers: Essays in Restoration and Eighteenth Century Literature (1986), Gender at Work: Four Women Writers of three Eighteenth Century (1990), Dinarbas (Early Women Writers, 1650-1800) - Ellis Cornelia Knight (1992), Woman and Poet in the Eighteenth Century: The Life of Mary Whateley Darwall, and Pastoral Tradition and the Female Talent, the last two which were published after her death. In 1993, she set up the Aphra Behn Endowment Fund at SFU which was renamed the Anne Messenger Graduate Endowment Fund in 1996, after her death on February 1, 1996 from multiple cancer.

The sous-fonds consists of correspondence, clippings, student records, student notebooks and papers, yearbook, poetry, cookbook manuscript, portraits, obituary notices and tributes. The Biographical Series is the only series in the sous-fonds.
