Title: Women's International League for Peace and Freedom fonds

Dates of Creation: 1917-2006 (predominant 1969-2006)

Physical Description: 67.5 cm of printed material; 3 photographs; 2 cm of ephemera

Administrative History:

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (W.I.L.P.F.) was founded in 1915 at The Hague by women active in the suffrage movements in Europe and America who wished to end the First World War and to insure that no further wars occurred. The League began its work in Canada in 1920 in Vancouver, led by Dorothy Steeves and Laura Jamieson, with Lucy Woodsworth, Agnes McPhail and Violet McNaughton among its members. The League's work has been to promote peace education and to campaign for disarmament and anti-militarism. During World War II it opposed the introduction of military cadet training in schools and it has investigated textbooks which glorified war. In 2001, the Vancouver branch joined with the Toronto branch to start a Canadian section.

Scope and Content:

The fonds consists of correspondence, much of it by Sheila Young or addressed to her, concerning various international issues; among the addressees are Prime Minister Trudeau and various cabinet ministers and other politicians, newspapers, commissions and organizations, government departments and agencies, and businesses. The records of the 11th, 13th-18th, and 20th International Congresses of the W.I.L.P.F. are also included, as well as printed material on military expenditures, the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, peace, and the polar regions. It also includes photographs of a 1956 garden party.

An accession was added in 2007 containing printed material, minutes, correspondence from 1988-1997, financial and other operations records, ephemera, and records relating to the creation of the Canadian section and the drafting of its constitution. For a description of the series in this accession, see the addendum on 25.
