Salt Spring Island Historical Society

Key personality at a recent meeting of the society was John Patton Booth, first elected to the B.C. Legislature in 1871. He failed to gain a seat in subsequent elections until in 1900 he held the office of Speaker of the House, which lasted until his death in February 1902. Booth was also a farmer on Salt Spring Island.

He was of course played by an actor but the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the early pioneers were real. He introduced several who gave interesting stories of their forbears at a time when logging and farming were the principal activities, deer hunting supplied meat for the table, and cougars were a pest.

The organizers were lucky to find some half-dozen direct descendants of the pioneer settlers of Salt Spring Island still living on the island. Their ages ranged from 20 to 80.

The event was co-sponsored by the Farmers' Institute, which was celebrating its 110th anniversary and offered its spacious hall for the performance. Around 200 people from both organizations attended.

The Land Conservancy Purchases Historic Property

The Land Conservancy of BC are official owners of the Historic Joy Kogawa House in Marpole. Thanks to 550 donors from around the globe and one last minute donation of about $500,000 dollars from an anonymous corporate donor, the cultural landmark will be saved as part of Canada's history for future generations.
