VISITOR TO THE UNIVERSITY

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF THE PROVINCE

THIS BOOK IS RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED

f o r e w o r d

Consciousness and appreciation of the University seems to be displaced, during our four years there, by the press of present activities and the excitement of stimulated thought. It is likely that real appreciation can only arrive with retrospect, from the viewpoint of avoirdupois and later middle age. Not until then, probably, will life have calmed sufficiently for us to recall a clear-etched memory of days at University, and to roll "Alma Mater" off the tongue with contemplative relish.

While we are here, however, we are conscious of moods and sensations, later to shape our recollection. A vibrant visual impression evolves from familiar scenes—the sweep of mountains behind Union College; slanting bars of dusty sunlight across library tables; acrid fumes in labs; clatter on the caf. stairs; the infinite mood-and-colour range of late afternoon, when the most gorgeous of western sunsets leave the campus rich in afterglow.

Benefits of University Education are stoutly and untiringly maintained against the commercial point of view. We concede them all, but cherish a richer, intangible affection for the University, derived from beauty of setting and—let us call it—rareness of atmosphere.

We hope this volume will serve to recall, in later years, something of life and sensation on the campus in 1936-37.

president's message

Few readers, surely, can glance through a college Annual and not be struck by the spirit of youthful zest that pervades the whole work. Here is no story of imposed tasks, but a record of things done spontaneously and joyfully—a record that still pulses with vivid life when the reader takes up the volume many years after Graduation.

And yet there are cynical folk who have no deeper comment to make than the observation that Life—that Life with a capital “L” which presumably begins only after Graduation—is “very different from all that.” Of course it is! And no one realizes it better than those who have with such gusto engaged in or recorded such undergraduate activities.

What really matters is to preserve the zest itself, the joy in doing, the enthusiasm which is akin to faith. The years will teach how best to control and employ such a gift; look to it that the years do not rob you out of it. For though many a great work has been wrought in sadness, greater always is the noble task joyfully accepted and joyfully performed.

The 1936-37 Students' Council can receive credit from the student body for having carried on its routine duties with competence and placed before the Alma Mater Society two projects of major importance. The first of these, the Pass System, secured overwhelming student endorsement in the fall, and has finally been approved by the Board of Governors. The new system will go into effect next term, and is looked upon by many as an important advance in student finance. The second project, plans for a long-discussed permanent Stadium, will be placed before the society at its annual meeting.

Council has been fortunate this year in having the able and forceful leadership of Jay Gould. Jay brought the experience of a previous council term to his duties, and combined this with his legal knowledge and executive skill to fine advantage. He made a most efficient chairman of council meetings at all times, while his ready repartee brightened many a dreary hour of routine business.

The never ending flow of correspondence which it is the secretary's duty to attend to did not prevent Kay Scott from retaining her natural cheerfulness and demureness. Audrey Horwood, as president of W. U. S., protected the rights of femininity with vigour, and provided competent leadership for women's activities. Beth Evans, the energetic leader of women's athletics, was the butt of many a verbal onslaught by her male counterpart, and the custodian of finances; but defended her bows and arrows, intra-murals and other interests with enthusiasm.

Lyall Vine, invincible forestry student, proved the most successful and efficient treasurer in years. He protected the treasury against the raids of innumerable clubs with fairness and impartiality while council discussions always found him well informed. John Logan, as president of the L. S. E., defended the interests of non-athletic organizations in many a warm debate, and espoused the conservative point of view against the arguments of more radical members.

Scienccman John Witbeck gave firm leadership to the discipline committee, watched over the freshmen in their initial student days, settled disputes over social function dates and brought a quick tongue and elegant verbiage to council meetings. Dave Carey guided the affairs of Men's Athletics with skill and energy. His constant interest in all forms of sport, his enthusiasm in advancing out-of-doors activities, and his sound views on council questions made him an invaluable member of council and an outstanding president of the M. A. A.

The duties of junior member were ably carried out by Howie McPhee. He kept council well supplied with olives and other delicacies, supervised the assignments of rooms and dates and backed Carey in many matters of athletics with his own wide experience in sport. In general, council has completely avoided internal friction, and has received much outside co-operation essential to the successful administration of student affairs.

women's undergraduate society

This year the Women's Undergraduate Society sponsored an information booth for newcomers to the University; the Freshette supper in the form of the traditional children's party style; the Senior Freshette tea; two teas for out-of-town students. These events presented a welcome to the new recruits of the Freshette class and gave them an opportunity to become acquainted with their seniors and Big Sisters.

In the spring the annual Hi-Jinx was duly held. This is the event of the year for women students solely. In connection with this function, Phrateres was a co-sponsor.

After the home-coming Alberta-U. B. C. games, a very successful tea dance was held. Another feather in the W. U. S. cap is the Co-Ed ball, the highlight of Varsity functions. The proceeds from these two functions were put aside for the furnishings for the women's rooms in the Brock Memorial Building.

The final function of the year was the tea in honour of the members of the Faculty Women's Club.

dean of arts' message

Graduation is not the journey's end along life's intellectual way. It is one, and only one, of the summits. Along the path you have climbed you have been led to discover vistas of which some have stood out in clear relief while others may have been less distinct. But the nearer view is not always the more comprehensive. Retrace, some day, the old paths where perhaps obscurity lurked because of distance or perchance of fog. Seek new paths. You have challenged the traditions of your forerunners, but beware of too sudden finalities. Let progress continue upon the rest of the journey. May it always find you in the realm of the whatsoevers—truth, purity, loveliness and good report.

arts '37

With a record of which they may be justly proud, Arts '37 faces a world which promises a warmer welcome than that given to graduating classes of former years. Throughout its campus life, Arts '37 has shown a spirit of exceptional co-operation and enthusiasm which bodes well for the future success of its members.

Elected to Student's Council as a reward of their keen interest in student affairs, Beth Evans, Kay Scott, Molly Lock, John Logan, John Gould and Clarence Idyll have merited the honor bestowed upon them.

Arts '37 has not lacked for literary talent. Distinguished members of Players' Club are Nora Gibson, Leslie Allen, Audrey Phillips, Constance Baird and Ludlow Beamish. Active in the Musical Society were Bill Cameron, Margaret Atkinson, Pauline Patterson, William English and Walter Barss. Publications have been well managed under Zoe Browne-Clayton, Dick Elson and Ken Grant. For the Parliamentary Forum Jay Gould and Ludlow Beamish have done very creditable service.

Many class members have participated actively in Athletics. In women's sports were: basketball, Beth Evans, Margaret Porter, Margaret Haspel, Laura Nixon and Helen Parker; grass hockey, Elizabeth Houston; and badminton with Molly Lock.

Outstanding in men's sports are Art Willoughby in basketball; Paddy Colthurst on the track; Wilson McDuffee in rowing; and Joe Andrews in English rugby. Minor sports did not lack their enthusiasts. Throughout campus life, Prof. F. G. C. Wood has been an active honorary president. His inspiring address at the Wesbrook Memorial Service will long be remembered by the class.

This year's executive was: President, Wilson McDuffee; vice-president, Betty Street; secretary, Pauline Patterson; treasurer, Leslie Allen; literary representative, Lloyd Hobden; women's athletic representative, Laura Nixon; men's athletic representative, George Crosson.

Professor J. Friend Day

commerce '37

Commerce '37 found no need for organization throughout its graduating year. Stat. labs., research, and pursuit of the amenities during the term occupied most of the time available. With splendid unconcern, the bureaucracy of an executive was dismissed from thought.

Professor J. Friend Day was honorary president, by tacit understanding.

education

Professor C. B. Wood

Once again those who have chosen teaching as their life profession go out into the world filled to the brim with pedagogical theory, fully determined to mould little minds, and to set the younger generation on the paths of righteousness.

Whereas in former years we scanned the calendar, mapped courses, counted units and lecture hours, perused prospectuses and earnestly re-read those sections devoted to prizes, medals and bursaries—this year we come to the University to find that our courses are all planned out for us, and all our time allotted to lectures.

Who can forget those first few weeks of being initiated into the methods of primary teaching when we found that the humble teacher was to be a walking revised edition of the world's total knowledge? Who can forget the early morning street cars, the surprise that so many people got up early in the morning . . . the waiting in corridors for criticism . . . and the heated arguments in the Caf. over the respective merits of the various teaching methods?

These seem to be ephemeral things, yet they have served to bind the class of '36-'37 into an insoluble unit which we hope may persist as long as its various members are concerned with time-tables, curriculums, and ungraded rural schools.

The executive of this inestimable and most worthy class is as follows: Honorary president, Prof. C. B. Wood; president, Jim Bardsley; vice-president, Elza Lovitt; secretary-treasurer, Dolly Elliott; W. A. representative, Bea Hastings; M. A. representative, Dave Ellis.

Dr. Maurice Trumpour

Leslie Pearson

In his incomparable "Discovery of England," Stephen Leacock, in discovering Oxford, says that if someone were to give him money with which to found a university, the first thing he would build would be a smoking-room; then a dormitory, then a library, and, finally, if he had any money left over, he would perhaps build lecture rooms, buy text-books, and engage a few professors. The longer the writer stays on the campus, the more surely does he realize the great truth behind Leacock's statement. Each year we say farewell to brothers; each year we welcome those who are destined to become brothers. Yet, behind all this seeming flux and change, there is the abiding reality—the College; the home of the family; the place where, in contemplation of those who have occupied one's own very room in the past, one feels that one is a link with past and future; and the place where one learns that all-important part of true education, to give as well as to take. This year, five have joined the family—Ave! Atque, Vale—this year has seen us without five, some of whom had been with us for a goodly number of years; and this year will also witness the departure of yet other four. Regret at their pending departure, however, gives birth to the realization that more will come to take their place—to carry the torch one lap further.

Though small in numbers, we have fielded a soccer team on the only two occasions that opportunity has offered: the one, against our perennial opponents, Union College, who defeated us by one goal; the other against the city clergy, whom we defeated. Before this appears in print, we shall no doubt have defeated U. C. in the return match, as also in the annual inter-college track meet.

Our "At Home," held in January, passed off with the success which we are gradually coming to look upon as only natural. This year, "Cinderella—in the modern mode" was written, staged and presented (with four-piece orchestra!) by the men as entertainment for the guests. We have had several outside speakers; and, at the time of writing, we are almost on the eve of the literary event which rounds out our year's programme—the Oratorical Contest.

With the "ascending climax," remembered from distant Eng. 1 days, we record the appointment this year of our new principal, Rev. H. R. Trumpour. After serving faithfully on the staff as professor for twenty-five years, he has taken over the reins of the college he has known and loved for so long. We are approaching the end of another academic year; but it is one which has indeed marked the beginning of a new chapter in the history of the college.

The Students' Society of Union College, at the time of writing, is in the perennial whirl of track meets, soccer games, and annual meetings; but out of the confusion, indications are that the college will emerge with another successful year for its history. For three men, this is the last year of life at Union College, and to these three new ministers of the United Church in British Columbia we send our best wishes for success in their ministry.

Last November marked the second annual series of student services held in over 25 United churches in and around Vancouver. Valuable as experience to the students, these services have likewise strengthened the standing and effectiveness of the college in church life through the city.

We were fortunate this year in having as special additional lecturers Dr. J. A. Cormie, superintendent of Home Missions in Manitoba; Dr. Gordon Dickie, of this city, and Dr. Gerald Switzer, of Victoria, a recent graduate of this institution.

In addition to academic work, students enjoyed the two annual social evenings spent with the "feminine contingent."

Athletically considered, the students asserted their supremacy in soccer over the Anglicans with decided authority in both games played. Track championship between the two colleges is yet to be settled; but by virtue of past performances of Art Anderson, George Pringle and Frank Golightly, Union College has installed itself as favorite to retain the cup.

dean of science

The Totem departs from custom: Rather than demand a message of congratulation from the Dean of Applied Science, addressed to his graduating class, we extend a message of congratulation and of welcome to him on their behalf.

From Merigomish, Pictou, McGill, Dalhousie, Manitoba, and early construction work in British Columbia, Dean Finlayson has come to fill a position of prime importance in the University. With competence and understanding, he has assumed his place in University and in its relations with the city. We welcome him again, after his first year of service with us; and with every confidence that under his direction the Faculty of Applied Science will attain to the distinguished position it has known among academic circles of America.

science '37

Professor W. H. Gage

After five long years the class of Science '37 becomes labelled as mentally developed along engineering lines, and is eligible to go out into the cruel world to do or die. The examination curse has inflicted its toll of casualties to an extent a little over fifty per cent of the initial class in '33.

The scholastic standing of Science '37 has been an enviable one, the class boasting of such outstanding students as Don MacPhail, Bill Morris and Bill McLeish.

In the field of sport we are well represented by such men as Bill Morris, Bill Wolfe, Barney Boe and Clarence Taylor.

The traditional Science spirit was displayed by the class when they obtained, as a valedictory gift to the Science Faculty, a neon-lighted Science shield to be used at social functions, open-house, etc. Due credit goes to Phil Emery, who has given a great deal of time and energy as president of S. M. U. S., and who originated the idea of the shield.

The executive consists of: Honorary president, Prof. W. H. Gage; president, W. Dayton; vice-president, R. D. Hodge; secretary-treasurer, D. W. Thompson; athletic representative, W. Wolfe.

Maisie Clugston

Teaching and Supervision

Ambition and perseverance have been dominant in Maisie's character thus far. After all, a B.A. and B.A.Sc. in nursing following her training is quite an achievement. Along with these assets, her natural sophistication and sparkling personality will take her far in "this game of living."

Eleanor Gerwin

Public Health

Eleanor hails from University of Alberta. She is completing her course leading to B.Sc. specializing in Public Health. Her brilliance in study is surpassed only by the charm of her personality, which makes her a favorite with everyone. We're proud to welcome her to the nursing profession.

Evelyn Claire Maguire

Public Health

Who could resist that genuine whole-heartedness with which Evelyn meets everyone, and even her work? That's why she has succeeded so far in her career. She's now a qualified Public Health nurse, and we wish her all the success she deserves.

Elizabeth Martinovsky

Teaching and Supervision

Slender and dark with a wealth of quiet dignity and poise—that's Susie. Ambition—to find scientific facts underlying all nursing principles!

Evelyn Claire Maguire

Are you acquainted with the Nursing Department?

After all, we really are one of the most interesting groups on the campus. Why? Because we are different! The nursing group is the only group of women undergraduates who are working towards a common objective. Each of us is possessed of an ambition to reach a definite goal, to foster higher ideals, and eventually to make a worthwhile contribution to the nursing profession.

To enter the hospital to train, and having done that, to become an efficient public health nurse, or to mount the "Pedestal of Pedagogy" as a ward supervisor or instructor of student nurses—to fulfill such a purpose is surely a fine ambition for any young woman.

We are a varied group in all stages of progress. For two years at University we struggle with chemistry, physics, zoology and bacteriology. Then the next adventure begins and we become "nurses in training" at the Vancouver General Hospital. Here for the first time we come in contact with life situations and develop a sense of responsibility toward suffering humanity. During these three years a good physique, sustained effort, and a real interest in the work are essential factors for a successful completion of our training.

In addition to the six years spent in obtaining the nursing degree, a course of one year is offered to graduate nurses who wish to prepare for institutional or public health positions; these courses attract graduate nurses from all the western provinces. These students are noticeably more mature and conscious of their purpose in life. They come with a varied background of experience in such fascinating fields as pediatrics, psychiatric nursing, foreign health centres and district nursing. We hope you realize your loss if you have not made the acquaintance of such interesting persons!

Fun! Why, yes, we have had plenty! Our social parties, our teas and our dance were especially entertaining. Indeed, the nurses won first prize for their skit at Hi-Jinx! We who see our long-sought goal in sight, pass on to our younger sisters an affection for the nursing department and a realization that

dean of agriculture's message

You, members of the nineteenth graduating class of the University of British Columbia, are carrying out into the world a portion of the accumulated influence of centuries of cultural endeavor. While it is true that your University is comparatively young, it has behind it the consciousness of great traditions—traditions which have captured the minds and hearts of scholars throughout the ages.

Look to your predecessors! In these days of specialization, of necessary concentration upon the means of livelihood, it is too easy to forget that there was once a time when scholarship was a profession in its own right. The man who possessed a diversity of talents and occupations, the man who might be an architect, a musician, a farmer, according as he wished, was not always a rarity. Students of history today are amazed to find that famous painters were scientists in their spare time, or that great philosophers were also composers of music. It is too easy, I affirm, to forget that education has to do with the whole man—soul, mind and body.

If, in your years at the University, you have learned to study, you have accomplished something; if you have learned to like to study, you have opened for yourself a wide field of intellectual delights; if you have learned to select what is most worthy of study, you have assured yourself of a future that will be culturally successful. Your material success depends a great deal upon your personality, and upon the manner in which you apply your knowledge.

F. M. CLEMENT.

Professor Lloyd

This year, the class of '37 was unique in that the president and secretary were chosen, contrary to all rules and regulations, by coin-tossing. This class should properly be known as "The Unholy Sixteen," since four members are scions (Horticultural technical term) of noted ministerial families.

The class boasts a man of the world; one who has been places and has done things. This probably accounts for the ability with which he managed the position of president of the Aggie Undergraduate Society. Four members were the winning stock-judging team at the Pacific International Live-stock Exposition at Portland, in 1937. As well as some social celebrities, we have a little prairie dust sifting among us.

The class executives for the year were: Prof. E. A. Lloyd, honorary president; Walter Charles, president; Richmond LeGallais, secretary-treasurer.

Professor Thorleif Larsen

Malcolm Brown

The class of Arts '38 now finds itself one year older, with probably more wisdom, and certainly more laurels. The Junior Prom was our largest undertaking this year, and after several weeks of strenuous publicity, the night arrived with success in its train. Vote for Queen was based on the colour of hair, and brunettes proving to be popular, Peggy Fox, as representative of this class, reigned as Prom Queen for the night.

While we shone as a class, we also shone as individuals. Several of our numbers are on Council and other executives. Two athletes on Council were Dave Carey, men's athletic representative, and Howie McPhee, junior member. Though no women from the class were on Council, Jean Meredith was vice-president of the women's athletics, and Patsy Lafon was secretary.

In sports we were well represented with Dave Carey and John Bird prominent in English rugby, under the managership of Syd Walker. On the track we boast of Howie McPhee and Gordon Heron, while in the gym our basketball artists include Frank Turner, Rann Matthison and Hank Hudson. Soccer has for its senior manager Dave Kato and the following players from '38: Yeomans McBurney, Alan Croll, Art Sager, Art Chapman, and Bob Kirkpatrick. Playing Canadian rugby are Lyon Lightstone, Jack Wark and Dave Lewis, not to mention those taking part in numerous minor sports.

In other activities, Arts '38 also took a lead. As journalistic men we have in our fold Kemp Edmonds, Ubyssy senior editor; Jim Beveridge, Totem editor, and Frank Turner, assistant sports editor. To complete the versatility of the class are debaters, actors, singers and musicians . . . what more could be desired?

Our energetic and hard-working executive was guided by the sound advice of our honorary president, Prof. Thorleif Larsen, and Prof. Frederick Brand.

Executive included: President, Malcolm Brown; vice-president, Beverley Cunningham; secretary, Helen Crosby; treasurer, Ron Andrews; W. A. representative, Mary Craig; M. A. representative, John Bird; Lit. representative, Dave Lewis.

Dr. T. C. Hebb

This year the class of Science '38 has carried on its work in traditional style. No one was unfortunate enough to have to be deleted at Christmas, and we are looking forward with optimism to our final year.

In the athletic field the class has excelled itself, being represented by such men as Bill Swan, Jim McCammon, Ron Upward, etc. Inter-class sports have always been our specialty, and still are, since our class, after a good start, is still in the running for the honours.

On the present council the class is represented by Lyall Vine, while other members are contending for executive positions for next year.

The class executive consists of: Honorary president, Dr. T. C. Hebb; president, Gordon Snelling; vice-president, Jack Harris; secretary-treasurer, Bob Peebles; athletic representative, Jim McCammon.

"What a lovely day, just reminds me of the time we ploughed Varsity's Boulevard" . . . a sigh ensues. Idly we turned the pages of the Aggie '38 Family Album. On the page of distinction is the portrait of Honorary President Prof. T. A. Boving, just as benevolent as ever.

Next follow in logical order:

Paul Trussell: Just a little phantom president . . .

Neil Hockin: Vice-pres. . . . sec.-treas. . . . office boy . . . etc.

Kyle Berry: Basketball beauty or . . .

Gerald Bowering: "Lend me two-bits till the end of the week."

Donald Ken: . . . school bored . . . by himself.

Tong Louie: Driver of the B. C. Electric's mammoth competitor, the "Shanghai Express."

Glenn Mason: "Trail, Trail, the gang's all here" . . .

Cecil Morgan: "Lend me the notes, I came in late."

Joan McTaggart-Cowan: North Van's farmerette who wields a mean plough.

Harvey Ozard: Clark Cable Stand-in.

Wilfred Pendray: The cinderman . . . just see his dust.

Ross Robinson: "The artist's model."

Anna Rogozinsky: The Manchurian delegate to Aggie '38.

Philip Salisbury: "Paging LeGallais."

Maurice Welch: Lost—a Botany 6 book, German 1, Chem. 3 text, etc.

Yes, they were a pretty good crowd, fifteen perfect Aggies and one little Arts stooge who was camera-shy. Ho, hum! Grand specimens everyone . . . even Rosalind's twins.

arts '39

During this academic year the students of Arts '39 developed into a fine sophomore class. The co-operative spirit was undoubtedly a factor in putting the class on top. This co-active force facilitated the holding of a Pep meeting with Bob Lyons, and a class party on October 28th at the Commodore. About the only function of this kind to be held on such a large scale, it was socially and financially successful. The substantial surplus became our initial contribution to the Valedictory Fund.

In sports, however, the sophomores have especially excelled. In intra-mural sports the girls have exhibited much enthusiasm and enterprise. In the first term they defeated all the other classes at badminton, the team consisting of Peggy McLeod, who plays for Varsity; Audrey Chowne, Janet Seldon, Polly Brand, Marian Vance and Peggy Thomson. They were also victorious in volleyball, and have high hopes of winning the basketball this term. At the Ice Carnival the class skated away with valuable prizes. In grass hockey we had notable representatives, such as Myrne Nevison, Margaret Evans, Anne Carter and Molly Field.

No less successful were the men of Arts '39. They, too, won the inter-class race at the Rotary Carnival, and have been consistent winners in intra-mural basketball. The volleyball team, however, proved to be the strongest that the class had seen for some years. At the time of writing, such stars as Elmer Jones, Bruce and Moir McLagan, Arthur Clarke, Walter Robertson, Jack McLaren and Bill Watson, have put us in top place for the intra-mural cup. The class had also good reason to expect a victory in the Arts Twenty relay with runners Walt Stewart, Robert Smith, Norman Renwick and Alex Lucas.

Nor has the literary field been neglected. Douglas Ford, Charles Locke, Graham Darling and Alec McDonald are a few of our brilliant representatives in the Musical Society, Players' Club and Parliamentary Forum.

This admirable class was supported by the following judicious committee: Honorary president, Dr. Gordon Shrum; president, Robert Smith; vice-president, Miriam Cosens; secretary, Peggy Thomson; treasurer, Philip Griffin; literary representative, Robert McDougall; athletic representatives, Polly Brand and Harry Lumsden.

arts '40

The Freshman class of '36-'37 was formally welcomed by President L. S. Klinck at the commencement of the term. Before a few days had passed this wonder class had fused itself into the life of the University—both scholastically and athletically. Initiation—always a period of intense interest, if not of fear and trembling, for the Frosh, was a most varied programme of events, regulations and rules, all compiled by the master mind of John Witbeck, who acted as junior member in the absence of Howie McPhee. As a result of the schemes and plans for initiation, the campus was dotted with green-nailed, placarded Frosh—the men carrying a jaunty Glengarry bonnet, and the women wearing a coy Holland cap.

Many a noon-hour battle centred around the "shoe-shine stand" in the Quad, and many an unsuspecting spectator received a portion of the tomatoes, eggs, or spray from the firehose, that were used as weapons.

Other features on the programme were the smoker for the men, children's party for the women, and as a climax, the Frosh reception. At this function the Frosh discarded their green finery and entered the symbolic arch of the student body of the Alma Mater.

Under the chairmanship of Howie McPhee, the election of the executive took place in November. The results were as follows: Honorary president, Dr. William Ure; president, John Pearson; vice-president, Mary Covernton; secretary, Bunty Butters; treasurer, Peter Mathewson; men's athletic representative, Albert McDowell; women's athletic representative, Pauline Scott; literary representative, Dick Montgomery.

The last formal function of the year for Arts '40 was the Frosh Frolic, which took place at the Commodore. Preceding the Frolic a draw for partners was held with Dr. Ure, honorary president officiating at the boxes. This revival of an old-time custom—of making the Frosh function a take-your-chance affair—added to the frivolity of the event. A hard-working committee decorated the Commodore for the Frolic, and this, combined with the dreamy music of Bob Lyons and his orchestra made the evening a memorable one for all. Patrons for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. William Ure.

In conclusion, Arts '40, the largest freshman class in the history of the University, has made, has shown a class spirit and loyal enthusiasm that is hard to beat. With these qualities it ought to go down in the epics of campus life as the perfect class . . . Tuum est.

science '39

Professor Finlay

Despite a year fraught with dangers (physical, climatic and academic), Science '39 has come through with flying colours. Very few degrees of B.A.C. were granted this year, and we have struggled along, finding  $\frac{Wa}{g}$  and E. M. F. of dzygocrinus with a certain amount of success.

In the athletic field we were represented by Strat Leggat, star of the English rugby team; "Spud" Davis, a crack sharpshooter of the basketball team, and last, but not least, Maurice "Crooner" Lambert, on the hockey team that beat Washington. Many other members of the class, too numerous to mention, have starred in minor sports, covering everything from track to ping-pong.

Our social life has also been very successful. A grand time was had by all at the class party in November and at the Science Ball in February, while quite a large percentage of the class was present at the Co-ed. The class has been well represented at every major event of the year, with the possible exception of Hi-Jinx.

The thoughtful nature of the class was noticeable during January, when we were careful to avoid breaking windows in the Arts building, breaking only windows in our own building. The only weakness apparent was in the production of a Pep meeting.

The executive, which was well supported by the class in everything it undertook, consisted of: Honorary president, Major Finlay; president, Jack Davis; vice-president, Peter Leckie-Ewing; secretary-treasurer, Bud Killam; athletic representative, Dan Burnett.

science '40

The class of Science '40, to whom has been entrusted, or rather upon whose shoulders has fallen, the task of keeping the University spirit alive (take note Arts '39) have had, as was to be expected, a very successful year.

The Arts faculty offered no resistance to the assertion of Science '40 that they were the greatest kindlers of that flame which is the spirit of the University. The rest of Science, however, quite justly deserving a share of the credit, contested the claim of their brethren of '40, and were convinced only after the success of the gigantic Pep meet put on by the students of Science '40.

In the field of sport, Science '40 is proud to state that they have yet to lose their first basketball and volleyball games; this, coupled with their success in the Arts '30 road race, makes them the leading contenders for the Governor-General's Cup. Their nearest competitor being Arts '39, they are a "cinch to win."

In basketball, Canadian football, track, ski-ing and hockey, Science '40 is represented by Mitchell, Stradiotti, Burden, Pogue, and Shea, each a star in his own field, and each proud to say that he is a member of this class.

Professor Barss

Kla-how-ya, Class of '37! We, the members of Agriculture '39, extend congratulations to the graduating classes, and wish them luck in succeeding years. Although the original fifteen have dwindled down to five, with four new recruits this year, the kind of energy that makes things hum is very abundant in our midst. We claim the distinction of being the smallest class in the University.

Jack Campbell and Dick Cousins distinguish themselves playing intermediate basketball for ye olde Alma Mater; our president, Bill Johnston, forms a hefty part of the stage crew in the Players' Club; and Jack Gray belongs to the publicity end of the Musical Society. Though suffering from an infatuation, Miss Josephine Staniforth, our "Farmer Jo," manages to attend her lectures, often with a faraway look in her eye. Frank Hardy, an outstanding member of our class, is a former student at Ontario Agricultural College, and calls Ocean Falls his home town. That exclusive air, which comes only from Victoria, is lent by Bert Saunders, the class Don Juan. We are represented among the debaters of the University by Bob Parkinson. After several years of teaching, Jim Campbell has returned from the Okanagan to pursue his horticultural aspirations. The second feminine member of Aggie '39, Odetta Hicks, is a popular member of the Badminton Club, and is a young lady who can talk on any agricultural topic with authority, and ad infinitum on Experimental Farms. (You see, she comes from Agassiz.)

The Creed of Aggie '39:

We plow the fields and scatter seeds,
And dominate the lesser breeds;
By this we mean the Artsmen low

And Sciencemen who puff and blow.
We know our Faculty supreme,
And for its future plan and dream.

The executive: Honorary president, Dr. A. F. Barss; president, Bill Johnston; vice-president, Dick Cousins; secretary-treasurer, Odetta Hicks; sports representative, Jack Campbell; press representative, Jack Gray.

agriculture '40

Variety, as far as courses are concerned, is the keynote of Aggie '40. Upstanding members of this aggregation absorb, it is hoped, splatterings of soil technology, agronomy, animal husbandry, dairying, poultry husbandry and horticulture. By the end of the academic year we should glitter with the above social accomplishments.

This year Aggie '40 boasts the largest registration recorded in freshman classes. We are thirty. Women are represented in numbers equal to those of the entire faculty in previous years.

The class has taken an active part in the Agriculture Discussion Club. We anticipate with pleasure the scheduled trip to the Dominion Experimental Farm at Agassiz. This event, held in early spring, takes us to a grand location, and is keenly enjoyed. Mr. W. H. Hicks, superintendent, makes each and every freshman feel entirely welcome.

Our class executive comprises: Honorary president, Professor Blythe Eagles; president, Len Zink; vice-president, Les Steele, and last, though hardly least, secretary-treasurer, Kathleen Harris.

the ubyssey

Amid smoke, superlatives, overdue library books, discussions of life, re-armament, erotica, movies and proletarian poetry, the Bohemian personnel of the Pub. office compiles and edits 40 issues of that strapping student publication—The Ubysey.

Each Monday and Thursday throughout the term typewriters crackle, reporters scurry, editors devise strange new heads, phones buzz as mats, cuts, ads, dummies, and other sundries are ordered or traced. This feverish action heralds the arrival on the subsequent day of the paper aforementioned.

The 1936-37 Ubysey has been characterized by newer and fresher make-up, an initial fourteen-page edition, a terrific volume of advertising copy (Ah there, Council), controversy, and splendid efficiency. Presided over by the vast organizing and directing genius of Zoe Browne-Clayton as editor-in-chief, a sound business and editorial policy has been maintained. Senior editors were Kemp Edmonds and Dorwin Baird, both of whom indulged whole-heartedly in experiment as regards make-up and editorial tone.

Dick Elson, distinguished by his casual and airy regard for his sports page, entrusted it to the capable hands and volatile brains of Associate Sports Editors Frank Perry and Frank Turner, while he compiled Totem sport in the grand manner with fine, sweeping efficiency.

Associate editors on general have been Ken Grant and Dorothy Cummings, both competent and conscientious journalists. Peggy Higgs, who achieved her professed ambition of reporter on a downtown paper during the spring term, was awarded associate editorship for her continuous and enthusiastic work on the Ubysey.

Assistant editors Bill Sibley, Dave Smith, Monty Fotheringham and Jack Mair all strove to retain order and decorum within the Pub. The numbers of bubbling reporters included: Rosemary Collins, Beverley McCorkell, Doris Tobin, Annette Smith, Kay Mann, Stewart McDaniel, Bob Knox, Bob Nelson, Emil Bjarnson, Hugh Shirreff, John Crowhurst, John Bartholomew, Irene Eedy, Norah Sibley, Myrne Nevison, Art Jones and Frank Van Perry.

Columnists Student Prince, Darby and (in October) Campus Crab, have commented crisply and brightly on current campus phenomena and foibles. Exchange editor Jim McFarlane, writing in characteristic deft and brittle vein, drew interesting comparisons with college life elsewhere from the 50-odd collegian publications received weekly at the Pub, and mailed U. B. C. news through the Western Intercollegiate Press Union with the assistance of Bill Knox.

All in all, '36-'37 has proved wholly enjoyable in the Pub. office. Murals grace the room, sport glosses line the west wall, conversation flows fast and free. Journalistic bonhomie, consolidated by the November jaunt to Seattle for the purpose of editing the University of Washington daily, by two select teas, one explosive party, and dinners at press, has generated a successful year of Ubysey publication.

the totem

The Totem staff, homeless stepchild of the Pub., has this year, in spite of a varied and hectic career, managed to put out the finest and biggest year-book ever seen in the Canadian West.

This great achievement has been due almost entirely to the initiative and foresight of editor Jim Beveridge. Single-handed, he encountered numberless photographers, printers and engravers, at the same time collecting eight hundred waivers from reluctant students and energetically laying plans for a completely revolutionary Totem. The results of his work were graying hair, symptoms of telephone voice, and this splendid blue and gold record of 1937.

The editor was handicapped in his great work by an extremely variable and elusive staff. Early in October, enthusiastic freshmen were marshalled under the Totem banner, but before January contact had dissolved in little flurries of postponement and vagueness. Unperturbed, Jim set about assimilating a new staff.

Ubysey sports editor Dick Elson came to the rescue of the sport sections of the book, and for the second year handled teams, athletic managers and sports write-ups with experience, aplomb, and the aid of Ron Andrews and Lee Straight.

David Crawley, associate editor, with the assistance of Morva Longfellow, performed the hitherto untried task of collecting the Greek Letter organizations into the Totem. David also doubled for Jim at the phone occasionally, and regimented vast amounts of detail with unenthusiastic efficiency.

The class and club write-ups were overseen by Dorothy Cummings, Jean MacLeod and Irene Eedy, all of whom put in long and devotional sessions at the typewriter.

The new pictorial sections, such a prominent feature of the 1937 Totem, were made possible by the Contax camera and continuous application of Stewart Calvert, which took scores of candid shots about the campus; and by the Exacta camera of Jim Collins, responsible for most of the Science scrap pages as well as many of the scenic shots.

The proofreading of layouts was done by the sole remaining member of the original freshman staff, Ken Kahn.

the surrealist to his love

This glittering literary fragment, that could have emerged only from such a cultural hothouse as the Pub., was printed in several Canadian university journals and in the Daily Province. It was inspired by a report of the New York exhibition of Surrealist art last winter, at which a lady fainted.

Roots groping from my chest
Are thoughts of you,
Small red canoes your lips,
Teeth sheets upon a line,
Eyes basins of cold water
Grey with soap.
Dainty pink cornflakes
Fill your antiseptic skull,
But plum juice
Is your kiss . . .
Roots groping from my chest
Are thoughts of you.
Hasten, Jason, the basin. . .

In classified sections;
Or poured in Volumes I and II
On dusty shelves . . .
Here are the moons of a thousand nights,
The clouds of a thousand days;
Here is my breath on the wind.
"His life was sped to the click
Of a million heel beats";
"Fifty thousand cups of coffee
And his spirit passed gently
In a cloud of cigarette smoke."
I who have felt my footsteps,
Firm as becomes a hero,
Spurn the mountains—
To speed my life on whirring tires
Across a million miles of paved highway . . .
"Lies here in a chromium-plated coffin (guaranteed)."
Oh, I should like to feel in sleep
The coolness of green things, twining about me.

"Epitaph," crystallized out of the rarer atmosphere of the Letters Club, displays none the less a literary kinship with its neighbour. Both manifest an undergraduate intensity and sensitivity which a gross world, unhappily, seldom suspects.

men's athletic executive

The faculty members on the executive for the past year have been Dr. Shrum and Dr. Clement. The responsibility of co-ordinating and directing athletic activities lay with President Dave Carey.

Inter-collegiate competition was somewhat less active this year, but, as ever, the future looks brighter, especially concerning sports on the campus. Intra-mural sports functioned well and, with Mr. Van Vliet's physical training classes, were a source of healthful enjoyment for many students.

Remaining members of the executive are: Vice-President, Bob Wilson; secretary, Dave Lewis.

Mrs. T. A. Boving

women's athletic executive

For the year 1936-37 the Women's Athletic executive was in the capable hands of President Beth Evans. Members of the executive included: Jean Meredith, vice-president; Patsy Lafon, secretary-treasurer; Margot Martin, badminton; Betty Street, outdoors; Marg. Evans, grass hockey; Peggy Higgs, swimming; Laura Nixon, May Craig, Polly Brind and Pauline Scott, class representatives. Honorary president was Mrs. Boving.

The executive was most successful this year in helping Athletic Instructor Miss Moore, especially in the intra-murals.

men's awards committee

The Awards Committee, a branch of the Men's Athletic Association, is entrusted with the task of making awards to those individuals whose performance in athletics during the year is considered outstanding.

The committee for 1936-37 was composed of Dr. Hutchinson, faculty representative; Dr. Ure, alumni representative; Bardsley, basketball; Boe, football; Thurber, soccer; McCammon, track; Carey, rugby and men's athletics (two votes).

men's big block club

The Men's Big Block Club continued its policy this year of acting as a general service organization on the campus.

They mostly confined themselves to their one main aim: to cultivate a spirit of comradeship between the outstanding athletes on the campus.

Strat Leggat, prominent English rugby player, acted in the capacity of president.

men's physical director

"Maurie" Van Vliet, the man who has never yet been beaten at chink and will take on anyone else. Besides taking on the coaching of the Senior "A" basketball, which has done so well, Maurie looks after all the men's work in the gym. He supervises regular classes of boxing, tumbling, wrestling, etc., of which more students every week are taking advantage. He also directs men's intra-murals, which need more support—however, they are definitely "catching on."

women's big block club

The Women's Big Block Club altered its policy somewhat last fall in handing many of its duties to the Women's Athletic executive. The nomination of the awards committee and the maintenance of standards of different awards is now out of their hands entirely, leaving the club with more time for social activities.

This year's executive are: Honorary president, Dr. Pilcher; president, Marjorie Mellish; secretary, Peggy McLeod.

women's physical director

Miss Moore, a graduate of the Margaret Eaton College, has been of inestimable value during the past year. Filled with an unlimited vitality, Miss Moore has made her gymnasium classes very popular, and has been a great help to the W. A. E. with her many useful suggestions.

Their first year back in the folds of Canadian football after an experimental sojourn with American football was not very successful for the Senior Football squad. With very few of last year's squad returning, "Doc" Burke and Maurie Van Vliet had a green squad to work with, and thus had an inauspicious showing for the year. Playing three games in the Big Four League, the men of the gridiron finished in last place.

In the three games against Meralomas, North Shore and V. A. C. the students scored two points with 26 scored against them. But, as in former years, they lacked none of the spirit which characterizes college teams, and thus were never out of the fight.

The high-light of the season was the Hardy Cup game against University of Saskatchewan, when Varsity came from behind in the second half to tie it up, only to lose the game in the dying moments. It was the big day for Varsity, including a Pep meet and a snake parade through town to the park.

F/O/O/T/B/A/L/L

In spite of the unsuccessful showing of the students this year it looks like a big season next year. With only one of the squad leaving school this term, Van Vliet will have a wealth of material to work with. In addition to this, a series has been arranged with the prairie colleges for a real schedule for the Hardy Cup. In all probability the squad will travel to the prairies to play, with return games at the coast.

There will also be floodlights installed on the upper field to do away with early morning practices, thus allowing a greater percentage of the students to get out.

Much credit is due for the fight the boys displayed, including that put up by a very promising group of freshmen, who will be out with us for four more years.

Among the players during the season are: ap Roberts, Williams, Orr, Straight, McDowell, Pearson, Horwood, Angus, Guiget, Boe, McIvor, McHugh, Wark, Lewis.

"Doc" Burke, Maurie Van Vliet and Bill Morrow were the coaches for the year, while Barney Boe was their very able captain. Gord Grant was manager.

ENGLISH

The Senior English Rugby squad, playing in both the McKechnie and Miller Cup play-downs, has probably had the most successful season that it has enjoyed for many years. Dubbed the "miracle team" by the publicity boys, the ruggers went out and showed everyone that they were deserving of the name. The squad played two games for the McKechnie Cup against Vancouver and Victoria Rep to pile up a total of 30 points with none scored against them. The students went out determined to bring the mug back home, and had little trouble in doing so.

For the third consecutive year the prized Miller Cup, emblematic of city honours, will rest in the Varsity Trophy Case. The long awaited game, after being postponed several times, was finally played late in the spring term, with the Varsity team outfighting North Shore All Blacks to win by a score of 8 to 3.

RUGBY

The ruggers were undoubtedly lucky to have such an array of material on the campus from last year's squad with also a few very likely recruits from the High Schools. Jim Hamer and Harry Lumsden were the rookies of the team, and showed everyone just how rookies should act in their first year in "big time." Art Willoughby and Bill Swan were also out doing their stuff for their "Alma Mammy" after a year out of school, and showed the advantage of a year away from the books.

From last year's team the following boys got into the fight: Ron Upward, Jim Pyle, Ed Maguire, John Bird, Dave Carey, Bill Watson, Lyle Wilson, Strat Leggat, Jim McCammon, Joe Andrews.

With practically the whole squad returning next year, everything points to another big year for the ruggers, which we hope will be a repetition of this year. The squad, captained by Dave Carey, was handled very ably by Captain Dobbie, who spent a great deal of time with the boys.

SENIOR-A.

Led by six Varsity stars who have returned to school after a year's lay-off, the Senior "A" squad has been riding high all year. Art Willoughby, Jim Bardsley, Ralph Henderson, Rann Matthison, Bill Swan and Ed Armstrong were the returning prodigals who, together with the remnants of last year's team, grabbed second place in the league standings. In the league play-offs the Thunderbirds took Forsts in two games to enter the finals with Province. After losing the first game to the Giants, Varsity came back to beat Province in three stirring games. At the time of writing, the team has just defeated the highly touted Victoria Dominces in the first two games of the Provincial play-offs.

Before Christmas, the team was without the services of Swan, Willoughby, Henderson and Armstrong, and at the holiday lay-off the boys were in third place. Following the holidays, the squad really went to town and avenged the defeats they took at the hands of Adanacs and Province before Christmas by handing their arch-rivals two sweet defeats. All set to grab the bye into the play-off, the lads struck a snag when they were handed their second defeat by Forsts. The loss came unexpectedly, and gave Province the bye into the finals.

BASKETBALL

In the league schedule the college squad won eleven and lost eight games, making it three straight over Munros and Ryerson, taking two out of three from Adanacs and Province, and dropping the odd game of three to Forsts.

The squad this year was under the very able coaching hands of Maurie Van Vliet, who took on the job when "Doc" Montgomery decided to concentrate his efforts with the girls alone. Maurie got right in the fight, and is bringing the squad through a very successful year. Jim Bardsley, returning for his teacher's degree, was the captain of the squad.

The team showed up very well in the individual scoring race, with Matthison, Pringle and Bardsley placing right up among the leaders.

Following is the gang who did their stuff for their Alma Mater throughout the year: Bardsley, Henderson, Willoughby, Matthison, Pringle, Armstrong, Swan, Turner, Davis, Mitchell, Hudson, Berry, Cross, Detwiller, Hayman. Manager was Art Clarke.

TRACK

With one of the best aggregates of cinder men in the last five years, 'Varsity's blue and gold track team finished the year very successfully. Up to the time of writing, the cinder men have participated in one major meet, avenging the defeat of last year against the Victoria "Y" squad. Although handicapped by the absence of Howie McPhee, who was on the 'flu list at the time, they defeated the Island boys by two points.

Before Christmas, the 'Varsity-Frosh meet was won by 'Varsity by a wide margin in one of the most thrilling meets that has been witnessed for some time.

The Arts '30 relay also proved a great drawing card for the students, who turned out to see the bunion men do their stuff. Vance McComber, freshman, led the boys in, and was closely followed by Wilf Pendray, of Aggie '39. Science '40 led the classes in points for the Governor's Cup, grabbing 108. Arts '39 were close behind with 102.

TRACK

The team has still two big meets to run off. They meet College of Puget Sound at home and the New Westminster squad at the Royal City.

Although greatly hampered by weather conditions, the track men were able to keep in fair shape by means of practices in the gym under their coach and trainer, Maurie Van Vliet.

The squad was very ably managed by Manager Joe Rita, and Jim McCammon was the choice for captain of the team.

Following are a few of the outstanding men who took part in the year's meets:

Alex Lucas, high point man of the season; Jack Harvey, holder of the Western Inter-Collegiate record for the hurdles; Howie McPhee, Olympic sprint ace; Jim McCammon, perennial winner of the field events; Wilf Pendray, freshman and outstanding 880 man; Vance McComber and Paddy Colthurst, milers of merit.

SOCCER

Soccer this year has suffered from lack of support on the campus, with the inevitable result of a poor season. Notwithstanding the excellence of individual players, and the intensity of training, the Soccer Club was forced to drop out of the V. and D. League. A large proportion of the lack of success is directly attributable to the attitude of the high schools towards this time-honoured game. Very few men coming to the University from secondary schools know anything at all about the game, and recruits to the ranks of soccer-playing men here are exceptionally rare.

The junior division, playing in the G. V. A. A. League, met with a greater degree of success, and at the time of going to press was in second place. It might have been possible to take men from this team for the senior group, but Manager Dave Kato felt that it would rob the second team of their due honour.

SIOICER

Hampered by lack of experienced material and placed in a league a little above their head, Varsity senior soccer team had a very unsuccessful year. Throughout the year they were the victims of bad weather and bad breaks. Finally, with the coming of the snow, the students were forced to cut out one-quarter of their season.

They were forced to play in the Vancouver and District League against some of the best teams in the city, thus cutting down their chances for any kind of success. However, in spite of the bad breaks, they turned and fought every game with the best of Varsity spirit.

Versatile Alan Croll, goal-tending fullback; Gerry Sutherland, Bish Thurber and Art Chapman were the outstanding men on the squad, acting as the backbone for the less experienced players.

Charlie Hitchens was coach for the year, and in his untiring methods was greatly liked by the whole squad. Dave Kato was the very able manager.

WOMEN'S SENIOR A. BASKETBALL

The hard luck team of the year, the girls' senior "A" basketball squad turned in an excellent performance in the City League, but rallied too late to try for championship honours. Although they won most of their games this spring, the wins of last fall were too few to gain a play-off berth. Next year, however, Coach "Doc" Montgomery has high hopes of a Canadian championship quintet.

Three outside trips were planned: Chilliwack, Cloverdale and Nanaimo. No cars, no money, and bad weather have as yet prevented these outings, but they still hope.

Anyway, next year keep a weather eye open for the senior "A's"—they'll show you how basketball should be played.

After three years of competition with the University of Washington, Varsity succeeded this year in winning the inter-university title. The Blue and Gold won the series in two straight games.

The team was markedly strengthened this year by Jim Harmer, Hugh Shirreff, Jack Stevenson and the Guiget brothers, Charles and Marcel. Clarence Taylor, Jim Ussher, Paul Trussell, Frank Perry, Framp Price, Angie Provenzano and Maury Lambert make up the rest of the team.

Because of the definite improvement shown over previous years there are prospects of a league next year to include Idaho, Montana State, Oregon State, Washington State, Washington and U. B. C.

This year's club executive is composed of: President, Maury Lambert; vice-president, Jim Ussher; secretary-treasurer, Frank Perry, and manager, Erman Fiorillo.

McDuffee

In their first year as a sub-major sport, the Varsity Rowing Club had many setbacks, all because of inclement weather. The traditional Arts-Science race had to be called off for this reason. However, the turnout has been good, especially by the three faithful coaches, Mr. Tom Brown, Professor Fred Brand, and Professor R. West. Two important regattas lie ahead of the club; the triangle meet between U. B. C., Oregon State and University of Washington, and the annual contest with Vancouver Rowing Club.

Erection of a still-water float on the campus has been the club's big project this year. Materialization of these plans will, it is hoped, increase interest in rowing.

grass hockey

Varsity is entered in the Mainland Grass Hockey League. Although most of the players have learned their hockey since coming to University, with a little more practice, they have a good chance of regaining the Allen Cup.

The executive consists of: President, Peter Bremner; vice-president, Francis Cook; captain, Norman Soul; secretary, Gavin Mouat; treasurer, Michael Crickmay; coach, Dr. Black.

golf

Under the leadership of Gordon Livingston, prominent city golfer, the Varsity Golf Club had a fairly successful year. Ward Allen, another Vancouver golfer of note, won the annual U. B. C. championship in the fall. Because of unusual weather conditions the club was inactive during the winter months. However, a tour of northwest colleges is planned for this spring following exams.

swimming

This year has not been one of great activity in swimming. The Swimming Club has only taken part in three meets, all of them during the fall term. The next meet was somewhat of a blow to the club's hopes, since they took a beating from an unexpectedly strong Victoria Y. M. C. A. team. In the last meet, our two lone entries, Archie Byers and Bruce Millar, tied for second place in the fifty yards free-style event.

u.b.c. grass hockey

The U. B. C. Grass Hockey team enjoyed a successful year, although they had no coach. All the players turned in good performances, while Margaret Evans, president of the club, and Bea Hastings were rated so high that they were chosen to play on the Lower Mainland "rep" team.

Grass hockey has just got under way again, and with the increased interest shown, there is every chance that the team will do even better this spring.

badminton

The Varsity Badminton Club team is entered in the "B" League of the Vancouver Badminton Association, and has had a very successful year in competition.

The executive is composed of: President, Margot Martin; vice-president, Helen Westby; secretary, Stan Hayden.

Those on the team are: Peggy MacLeod, Betty Fleck, Jacqueline MacLeod, Molly Lock, Oliver Lacey, Dave Wad-del, Alex MacDonald and Stan Hayden.

varsity grass hockey

The Varsity eleven did quite well this season in spite of the fact they had no coach. Kay Curtis was captain and Frances Mair, high scorer. Many excellent players were discovered, and will prove valuable additions to the U. B. C. team next year.

Because of the loss of most of last year's team, who moved up to the U. B. C. squad, the Varsity eleven was undecided in many ways as to who should be played in the games, but with the start of the spring season, all their troubles have been smoothed over, and the girls should prove a real threat in their league.

minor sports

rugby teams

This year, Varsity, due to a very gratifying rally to the cause of English rugby, was able to field three teams in the Second Division in addition to their McKechnie cup team—an all-time record.

Of these three teams, "B" team, captained by Bob Smith, was the most successful. Nothing dismayed by the three losses, they pushed through and defeated the league leaders, ending the season in second place.

The "A" team commenced the season in very promising style, but, due to a lack of enthusiastic co-operation, they did not finish the season as they had started.

On the other hand, "C" team turned in a very creditable record of performances, considering the choice of material that was at their disposal.

junior soccer

The Junior Soccer Club is having one of its better years. At the time the Totem is going to press the team is in second place in the G. V. A. A. League, and if the fine co-operation of the players is any indication, they should take and hold the lead.

There is still time to win the league, although practices will have to be cancelled because of the exams.

senior "b" basketball

Entered in the Community League, the Senior "B's" got away to a slow start. They lost six of their ten league games, although Art Willoughby, Bill Swan and Jack Davis, all Senior "A" men, played on the team. They played consistently smart ball, and were always a threat.

Leading lights on the team were John Lafon and Aser Rothstein.

The team: Lafon, Love, Jones, Rothstein, Copp, Martin, McKeown, Hardwick, Wright, Bacon, Hayman.

intermediate "a" basketball

The Intermediates had a more successful year and have turned out some good future material for the higher teams. Lack of practising time told on record of games won, but the boys did beat the top team of the league, showing that with this much-needed practice, they will be a threat at all times.

The team was managed by Alastair Grant and coached by George Crosson.

intermediate "a" basketball

Owing to unusually stiff competition the team gained only third place in the league. The players were unable to turn out regularly, and so there were rarely many substitutes. However, under the competent coaching of Ian McLeod, the girls gained valuable experience for next year. Adrienne and Rosemary Collins were the team's high scorers.

Players: Pauline Scott, guard; Adrienne Collins, guard; Mary Ryan, guard; Peggy Jones, guard; Rosemary Collins, forward; Margaret Porter, forward; Margaret Ralph, forward; Lilian Johanson, centre.

pep club

Braving sophomore lunch papers, engineer yells, and the barbed shafts of the English department, the Pep Club concluded another successful season in its effort to bring noon-hour entertainment down to the level of the undergraduate mind. Contrary to public belief, however, the club has other functions less spectacular, including ticket sales, advertising campaigns and noon-hour announcements.

The executive for the 1936-37 term was: President, Malcolm Chapin; vice-president, Alan Walsh; secretary, Stewart DeVitt; treasurer and publicity man, Ken Grant.

OUTDOORS

outdoors club

With the spring term drawing to a close, the Outdoors Club looks back upon another very successful year, and to a further step forward in its development.

Attended by fine clear weather, the fall trip up Howe Sound was an unqualified success. Some sixteen members of the whole party succeeded in scaling the West Lion, while others spent an interesting day upon Mount Haney. To Art Moir and Cam Stewart goes the credit for climbing the East Lion.

Work hikes were accomplished with more than average enthusiasm, and thirty new members were accepted and welcomed into the club at the fall party held at Killarney.

The cabin was the scene of the New Year's turkey dinner, in which twenty-five hardy enthusiasts indulged. Since then every week-end has seen its quota of skiers at the cabin.

This year a cup for ladies' ski-ing was presented by H. Davidson. The men are industriously polishing up on the fine points of ski-ing. Their goal is the Kerr Shield—just the thing for the cabin.

As a result of much work, several improvements have been accomplished at the cabin, including a penthouse to accommodate the more bird-minded males.

On February 3, at Killarney, more than sixty members donned colourful array for the annual spring party. To say the least, everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

All considered, it has been a great year . . . not even the complaint that there was a lack of snow.

the canadian officers' training corps

In all respects the year 1936-37 has been one of progress and achievement for the University of B. C. contingent of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps. The enrolment has been increased, greater efficiency inculcated in all ranks in drill, musketry and technical courses, and a revival experienced in "esprit de corps."

Owing, probably, to a timely change of public opinion on the question of national defence, an unusually large number of recruits were enlisted in the fall. Regimental re-organization into permanent sections with an active efficiency contest in operation resulted in much intensive work on the part of the members, with gratifying results.

Musketry practice, favored by unusually fine weather, resulted in some remarkable scores, the range record on Blair Range being equalled by two members during the inter-university contest, which the unit won with the high score of 803 out of 840, so bringing the Dominion title west of Winnipeg for the first time.

For the first time in several years the unit took part in public parades in 1936 and 1937, appearing in the King George V memorial parade, the Armistice Day parade, and in February, 1937, holding its first church parade at Union College, with Captain the Rev. George C. Pringle, D.D., delivering the sermon. President Klinck and other Faculty members were the guests of the contingent on this occasion. Much favorable comment on the smartness of the contingent was in evidence at all three parades.

The regimental dance was held in the Jericho Country Club on March 9, and the best traditions of the British forces were nobly upheld by all ranks on this momentous occasion.

During the year the contingent lost its popular commander, Lieut.-Col. H. F. G. Letson, M.C., who was promoted to command Brigade, but gained an equally well-liked O. C. in the person of Lieut.-Col. G. M. Shrum, M.M., who assumed command in February, 1937.

Quartermaster-Sergeant Instructor A. A. Smith, P.P.C.L.I., of the instructional cadre continued to be the much respected and appreciated Permanent Force warrant officer in charge of the unit's training. One serious loss was inflicted on the corps early in 1937 by the death from influenza of Regimental Quartermaster-Sergeant G. R. L. Kenwick. Although of a retiring and unobtrusive nature, R. Q. M. S. Kenwick had, by his unselfish, modest and friendly disposition, won himself the respect and affection of the entire contingent, and was noted for his strict and unfailing fulfilment of his duties. By his death the contingent was deprived of a gentleman and a true comrade.

During the year, eight commissions were won by members of the unit, Sergeants McGinn, Logan and Fawley, Company Quartermaster-Sergeants Layard, Holland and Dickie, Regimental Sergeant-Major McDonald and Staff-Sergeant Morley becoming second lieutenants. Second lieutenants Hill and Godard were promoted to lieutenants.

At Christmas more than 40 members of the contingent devoted their holidays to training at Work Point Barracks, Esquimalt.

c.o.t.c. rifle association

This association enters teams in both outdoor and indoor competitions under the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and the Vancouver and District Rifle Association.

During the fall of each year the members of this association go through a course of instruction in the use of the service rifle. On November 15, 1936, the inter-university match was fired at Blair Range, in North Vancouver, and the score made was one of the highest turned in by any university in several years. Lieut. R. F. Ohlson and Cpl. A. Daunt equalled the range record of 104 out of 105, and the total score was 803 out of 840.

Throughout the winter, practice is carried on every week in the very excellent rifle range situated in the basement of the Arts Building. On this range are fired the Inter-University and Vancouver Garrison small bore competitions. Shields, cups and engraved spoons are awarded as prizes in these competitions.

film society

Leslie Allen

This newest society has filled a place long vacant in student organization. It has brought within the reach of all students films they could never see otherwise—opera, documentary, propaganda and controversial films—this is the fare served. A division of the Vancouver branch of the NFS, the campus organization has grown from a modest one hundred in October to four hundred in January. Four shows have already been presented, and two more are definitely billed, the entire year's programme being financed by membership fees.

The executive feel that the interest shown in the films have justified their choice. Beyond a doubt "Thunder Over Mexico" was the best film presented and received. "Fra Diavolo" gave us all a taste of Italian opera with Tina Pattiera of the Scala de Milano in the leading role. Another film of great interest was "The Plow That Broke the Plains," filmed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Those who know our own prairies felt the urgency of that film, and can realize the devastation portrayed. George Pals' colour cartoon, "Ali Baba," was a great relief after an overdose of Mickey Mouse—the Gasparcolour is a colour process unknown to American art. Besides presenting these films, the society has undertaken the rather large task of compiling a film guide for Vancouver theatre-goers. This guide contains reviews, by competent critics, of the current films showing in the city. It will be published monthly and distributed on the campus, in the city and throughout the province.

The executive: Honorary president, Dr. D. O. Evans; president, Leslie Allen; vice-president, Lloyd Hobden; secretary-treasurer, Helen Parker; committee, Mary Moxon, Allan Walsh, Graham Darling, Donald F. W. Munro.

players' club

Professor Gage

A familiar scene involving a controversy between Sir Peter and Lady Teazle ushered in a host of new and enthusiastic members, as it did the twenty-second year of the Players' Club's existence. A year of great activity and progress in all the varied departments of its activity, 1936-37 likewise saw new student talent tested and enlisted with the annual Christmas plays.

Eugene O'Neill melodrama, A. P. Herbert farce, Renaissance costume comedy, all figured in the Christmas play programme. The club continued its policy of staging scenes from Shakespeare by including the poetic garden scene from the "Merchant of Venice."

Mr. Walter Gage, new honorary president, was assisted in his directoral policy by Miss Dorothy Somerset, Professor Dilworth, Miss Jefferd, Miss Margaret Powlett, Mr. Bill Buckingham and Dr. Duff, comprising the Players' Club advisory board. Stoutly maintaining the choice of plays with real artistic and intellectual content for spring production, they chose Alfred Sangster's recent London success, "The Brontes." This drama, a study of the lives of the famous literary family, was directed by Miss Dorothy Somerset, producer of three former Players' Club successes.

Audrey Phillips, after consistent good work in "Hedda Gabler" and "She Stoops to Conquer," assumed the lead and stardom in her role of Charlotte. The cast, uniformly intelligent and thorough in their interpretations, included: Arthur Sager, Graham Darling, Beth Gillanders, Mary McLeod, Edith Spencer, Adelia Thurber, Ludlow Beamish, Don Cameron, Charles Locke, Bob McCormick, Bob McDougall, George Shiles, Lorraine Johnstone, Les Sugarman and Lois Still. Costumes were designed and made on the campus, and make-up done by girls in the club. All members were absorbed in spring play committees.

Mime classes and play-reading groups are two other features of Club activity. Mime work, combined with choral speaking, was directed by Miss Somerset and offered valuable dramatic training.

The executive: President, Eleanor Gibson; vice-president, Pat Larsen; secretary, Hazel Merten; treasurer, Hazel Wright; committee, Ellen Boving, Ludlow Beamish, Graham Darling; business manager, Leslie Allen; stage manager, John Davidson.

musical society

Once more the Musical Society has completed a year that can be termed highly successful, not only in furthering musical appreciation amongst its own members, but also amongst the whole student body on the campus. This work was accomplished by means of recitals, lectures and the annual production of a light opera. In carrying out these plans the executive was given the full co-operation of the faculty as represented by Dr. W. L. MacDonald and Prof. W. H. Gage.

In the fall term, Mr. Ira Swartz gave a pianoforte recital under the auspices of the society. A similar feature was presented by the Symphony String Quartette. These recitals were open to the public and were held in the University Auditorium.

On November 6th the annual party was held at the Marine Drive and Country Golf Club, to welcome new members into the society.

A studio group was formed in the spring term, and was composed of a limited number of senior members. The object of this group is to study and analyze both classical and modern music. At the first meeting, Dr. A. F. B. Clark was both host and speaker. His topic was modern music and he supported his opinions by recordings from Ravel, Delius, Sibelius and Debussy.

As a climax to the season's activities, the society presented Reginald de Koven's operetta "Robin Hood" in the University theatre on the evenings of February 17, 18, 19 and 20. Mr. C. Haydn Williams was the musical director; Mr. E. V. Young, dramatic director; Dr. W. L. MacDonald, assistant musical director; Prof. W. H. Gage, assistant dramatic director, and Miss G. Moore, dance director.

parliamentary forum

The Parliamentary Forum has concluded another year under the splendid guidance of its honorary president, Professor J. Friend Day. For many years Professor Day has been associated with Forum activities, and the club is again indebted to the unstinted time and labour he has given it.

In the above set of pictures there is an unfortunate omission—that of Alf Carson. Because of a breakdown in his health after returning from a debating tour in Saskatchewan, Alf was forced to resign his position as secretary, and leave the university.

The aims of this organization have been two-fold—to make debating a more popular activity on the campus and to emphasize the advantages to be gained from constant practice in public speaking. Although our inter-collegiate debates have been little more successful than in past years in bringing decisions back to the campus, debating activities within the University have been given a great impetus.

Several innovations of policy were introduced with marked success. Former evening debates were superseded by noon-hour meetings, bringing regular attendance that ranged from sixty-five to two hundred. Outside speakers were also invited to air their opinions on the platform. In addition, Professor Angus and Dr. Sedgewick kindly consented to debate the merits of the League of Nations. The meeting took place in January, and was attended by capacity audience.

In November, Jay Gould and Dorwin Baird represented the University against the visiting Imperial team, two speakers from the University of Edinburgh and the London School of Economics. A split decision favored the Britishers. Also in November, Tom Marshall and Alex McDonald defeated John Conway and Hugh Palmer, both U. B. C. alumni, representing the Vancouver Law School. In the McGoun cup debates held in January, a home team comprised of Len Martin and Alex McDonald, brought a unanimous decision to U. B. C. from Alberta. Alfred Carlsen and Tom Marshall, travelling to Saskatoon, were less successful, losing out to University of Saskatchewan.

B. C.'s entry in the Western Canada Radio Series again proved unsuccessful, Ludlow Beamish and Leslie Allen losing against the University of Manitoba in the first round of a knock-out series.

A novel feature of the year's activities was the debate against the Women's Literary Forum, when Jim McDonald and Bill Sibley met the ladies in verbal battle.

Altogether, the year has been notable for successful innovation and range of activity. Forum hopes that through experience gained last year, the incoming executive will be able to extend still further the interest in this major student organization.

phrateres

First organized in 1924 at the University of California, Phrateres has founded chapters in Pacific Coast universities from New Mexico to Canada. Theta, founded at the University of B. C. in May, 1935, is the most recent. Founder of the society on our campus was Clare M. Brown, the President of Women's Undergrad. First president was Mary McGeer, now active president of the Alumnae Association.

The purpose of the organization is to extend a spirit of good will and friendliness to all women students on the campus. There are over two hundred and fifty initiated members on the campus as well as the Alumnae Association. The chapter is divided into six sub-chapters, each with its own executive to carry on its work.

A philanthropic programme was carried out by sub-chapters during the Christmas holidays. It consisted of a number of hampers being sent out, and several parties for under-privileged children.

The All-Phrateres schedule for the year included annual initiation ceremony and banquet, the Faculty tea, and a variety of smaller parties.

Dean M. L. Bollert is honorary president, and has given wonderful assistance to the chapter.

salisbury lodge

This year some forty U. B. C. students have realized a campus dream of long standing. In Salisbury Lodge they have laid the cornerstone of student residence at this University, and the idea has proved to be as good in practice as it was in theory.

Fall activities included two dances, one at the Commodore and a second at La Fonda, both of which exhibited the congenial spirit abroad amongst the lodgers.

A road race was held on Armistice Day when Bobby Ohlson splashed in through the rain for a close win over Maurice Lambert.

Early in the spring term a very successful party was held at the Peter Pan, where John Wood distinguished himself as a superb master of ceremonies. Another dance and possibly a baseball game with Union College will round out the year.

Management of the house has been in the capable hands of Mrs. M. Hassel, the owner; while organization and regulations have been under the jurisdiction of a committee of seven headed by Allan Fawley.

Life within the house is given added interest by a well-equipped lounge room, where those who wish may read, play bridge or checkers, or just enjoy the music. Checkers and cribbage keep up the enthusiasm, while between supper and breakfast a holy silence reigns when those who would study can do so without disturbance.

With the first year drawing to a close, the future of co-operative housing system seems assured, while the cheerful countenances of its members speak well for the success of Salisbury Lodge.

Executive Committee is as follows: President, Allan Fawley; vice-president, Bill Tater; recreation committee, John Wood, B. Neary; house committee, T. Jackson, H. Alexander, G. Turner.

the biological discussion club

This year the Biological Discussion Club has enjoyed a successful year with a record membership. The programme has been both varied and interesting. The first meeting of the autumn term consisted of a social evening held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. McLean Fraser. At later meetings during this term, papers were given by Alice Gerow and Janet Baillie on "The History of Biology," and D. B. Quayle on "Oyster Culture in British Columbia." The final meeting of the term was devoted to "Biological Observations" by the members of the club.

The programme arranged for the spring term consisted of the following papers: "Caste Differentiation in Termites," presented by J. K. Jacob; "The Scope of Palaeobotany," presented by Dr. R. Graham; "A Symposium on Parasitism," "Pioneer Botanists in British Columbia," presented by Colin Curtis, and "International Commission on the Halibut Industry," presented by Clarence Idyll.

The executive for the year was as follows: Honorary president, Dr. C. McLean Fraser; president, Hugh J. MacKay; vice-president, Alice Gerow; secretary-treasurer, Janet M. Baillie; curator, John B. Poole.

chemistry society

The activities of the Chemistry Society were highly successful during the past year. Both "open" and "closed" meetings were very well attended and a large number of exceedingly interesting and instructive papers and talks were given. The speakers at the "closed" meetings were Bob Walker, Art Eastman, G. Hartley, John Light, Howard MacMahon, Gordon Fields, Ray Bell, Rupert Ross, R. Shipton, Bob Bianco and Tom Brock.

At the fall "open" meeting, Mr. Brackenbach, of the B. C. Sugar Refinery, gave a talk on "Diatomaceous Earths." Dr. Chalmers, a graduate of U. B. C., now of Western Chemical Industries Limited also addressed an "open" meeting of the society, his topic being "High Polymers." In his lecture, Dr. Chalmers pointed out the commercial possibilities of polymerization. There was also a combined meeting of the Chemistry and Physics societies, which was addressed by Dr. G. M. Shrum.

The executive for the year consisted of: President, Arnold Ames; vice-president, John Light; secretary, Agnes Schroeder

chinese students' association

To our Alma Mater on her twenty-second anniversary we extend felicitations and congratulations.

Founded in 1930 by eight Chinese students then attending the University, the membership of our club has grown to the number of twenty-three active and fourteen associate members. Last term, when the organization asked for recognition on the campus, the Alma Mater Society readily granted acceptance.

The purposes of this group are to promote, first, friendly and closer relations among the Chinese students, and, secondly, international good will among the various campus organizations. To accomplish these purposes, many meetings both cultural and social, are conducted during the academic year. To illustrate concisely the extent of the accomplishments of this association, the following highlights of our activities for the current year are given.

The club has had addresses by such prominent men as Dr. T. Z. Koo, on "Recent Trends in China"; Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu, on "Chinese Culture"; General J. M. Feng, on "Sino-Japanese Relations"; and Professor H. F. Angus, on "The Chinese in B. C."

Other important functions are the graduation banquet, the freshmen's reception, the Christmas party, joint meeting with the Historical Society, and the first International Dance on the campus, in which we co-operated in convening.

In the past, two notable contributions have been made by our club to its Alma Mater. During 1931, when the students were campaigning for the Stadium Fund, the very few members of the then existing Chinese Students' Association carried an energetic project in the Chinese community and brought back a large sum of money. Last year, when the drive for the Brock Memorial Fund was being conducted, our group repeated the good work done in the Stadium Fund project by raising more than its quota. Incidentally, our group was the first to bring in their fund, which was also the highest contribution on a per capita basis.

Now that the club has been fully recognized as a campus organization, we hope that in the future more intercourse with other societies on the campus may be had, to carry out more fully the original intentions of the association.

The executive and the members wish all other societies and members of the staff the best of luck and success.

The officers: President, Quon H. Wong; vice-president, Lin K. Lee; secretary in English, Daniel L. Lee; secretary in Chinese, T. Kwong Lee; treasurer, Tong Louie; social convenor, James W. Chin.

g. m. dawson club

This club affords the members an opportunity to become acquainted with their professors in an informal manner, and also enables them to meet men prominent in the professions in which they themselves later hope to enter.

Following the practice of former years, meetings were held every alternate week, and speakers, both students of engineering and professional men, were invited to present papers.

Dr. C. O. Swanson, first president of the club, was guest speaker at the first meeting when he discussed "The Iron Ore Deposits of the Lake Superior Region." Dr. Desmond Kidd showed some very interesting motion pictures to illustrate his topic, "Mine Development in the North-West Territories." Dr. Victor Dolmage presented the highlights in the work of a Consulting Geologist. Before the end of the year Mr. H. M. Richmond and Mr. C. M. Campbell will also give lectures.

The traditional banquet will be held again this year as a climax to an enjoyable and successful season. Officers for the year were: Honorary president, Mr. J. M. Turnbull; president, Noel Hendry; vice-president, G. Morris; secretary-treasurer, R. M. Porter.

german club

The German Club has completed a wholly successful year. Though few in number, the meetings have been instructive and at the same time educational.

Meetings have included talks by Dr. Hallamore on University Life in Heidelberg, by Mrs. Roys on Dutch and German painters, and by Dr. A. F. B. Clark on Wagner's music, supplemented by music from his library of records.

Conversation at the meetings is in German, providing valuable practice and considerable amusement to members. Plans for a final German dinner are still under discussion.

Executive: Honorary president, Dr. MacInnis; honorary vice-president, Dr. Hallamore; president, Allen Walsh; vice-president, Clymene Dickie; secretary-treasurer, Louise Fitzgerald.

historical society

It has been the custom of the Historical Society to choose each year some one particular country or period of history on which to centre its discussions. This year the country chosen was China, the aim of the papers presented during the autumn term being to give some slight understanding of the background of the Chinese people. With this as a foundation, the spring term papers were devoted to events in the growth of modern China.

During November a joint meeting was held with the Chinese Students' Club. Through their kind co-operation the meeting took the form of a dinner at the Mandarin Gardens, followed by an address by Miss Frances Higgenbottam, B.A., and a display of some of her Chinese treasures. It was well attended, and all those present showed their ability with chopsticks, though sometimes not without a little instruction.

At the beginning of March the society received a very generous invitation from Mrs. Clark, of the Pagoda Shop, to pay a visit to her South Granville Street store, where a special Chinese exhibit had been arranged. A unique feature of the exhibit was the way in which each dynasty was marked by some common object connected with it, such as the compass, tea, or paper. Thus the double purpose was served of giving a significance to the name of the dynasty and an aid in remembering it, and also of setting the period of the article's discovery.

Though the subject chosen for this year was one with which the members were perhaps not quite so familiar as with some others, nevertheless discussions were carried on with the usual vigour and interest. The executive for 1936-37 consisted of: Honorary president, Professor Cooke; president, Geoffrey Smith; vice-president, Fronia Snyder; secretary-treasurer, Joan Pinhorn.

international relations club

During the year 1936-37 the International Relations Club has enjoyed many an excellent meeting.

One of the highlights of the term was the spring conference of the North-West, which was held in Victoria on March 12 and 13. Representatives from the campus included Betty Leslie, Claire St. John, Alfred Carter, Paul Volpe, Jim Colbert, Wilfred Calvin, Margaret Smith, Dick McTaggart, Bob Melville and Alex Charters.

Many interesting speakers were included on the year's programme. Dr. W. N. Sage gave a short talk, the topic being the "British Cabinet." An illustrated lecture on "A Trip to Vimy Ridge" was presented by Col. W. W. Foster, Chief of Police. Col. Foster had visited Vimy Ridge in the last pilgrimage, and was able to recount his own impressions, which proved most interesting. Prof. Ira Dilworth spoke on "International Poetry" and Monsieur Pierre Auge gave a short talk on "The Rhine." The concluding meeting was in the form of a supper, the speaker for the event being Prof. F. H. Soward.

Officers for the year: Honorary president, Alex Charters, Arts '38; vice-president, Jim Colbert, Arts '38; secretary, Fronia Snyder, Arts '38; treasurer, K. Momose, Arts '39.

the japanese students' club

The purpose of this club is to promote intellectual and social intercourse among the Japanese students and between them and students of other races represented on the campus.

An energetic and able Scienceman as president, a willing executive, the largest membership in the club's history, and the changing tenor of Japanese students, have all contributed to the successful fulfilment of the annual ambitious programme.

During the past summer and earlier, outstanding members of this club have been largely instrumental in the formation of the Japanese Canadian Citizens' League, whose prime purpose is to make better citizens out of Canadians of Japanese origin. Also, work toward the Brock Memorial Fund was carried on into the summer.

With the opening of the fall session, the club has put much time and energy in trying to create better relationships with other groups on the campus. To this end, the club did its share in establishing the "International Party" as, what is hoped, an annual tradition.

Our monthly social-educational meetings have featured topics of current interest. Professor Angus gave an address on "Impressions of Europe," and Hon. H. Nemichi on "Modern-day Japan and the Far East."

The annual debate with the Japanese Students' Club of the University of Washington has become one of the major activities of the club. Three debaters and their friends travelled northward to return the invasion of five of our members into Seattle last year.

The celebration of the Girls' Doll Festival, a picturesque custom of old Japan, revived on the campus last year, is to be continued.

Professor H. F. Angus and Hon. Ko Ishii are honorary members of the club. Members of the executive were as follows: President, Roger Obata; vice-president, A. S. Takimoto; recording secretary, G. T. Tamaki; corresponding secretary, Kimiyo Kagetsu; treasurer, H. W. Iwasaki; social convenors, Irene Uchida and K. T. Shoyama.

la canadienne

La Canadienne has enjoyed a most successful year in bringing together, informally, students interested in French. This session the club welcomed many new members, who have displayed much enthusiasm in its activities. We were again fortunate in having as our honorary president, Dr. Dallas, whose interests and suggestions have been a great aid in planning the programmes of the club. Among those who have kindly lent their homes for the meetings of La Canadienne are Madame Darlington, Dr. Dallas and Dr. Clark, who gave at his home a delightful talk on French music, illustrating it with numerous phonograph records. Especially enjoyable were those soirees when Le Cercle Francais and La Canadienne met together. One of those meetings was the occasion of a most interesting address by Dr. Tipping; and another, that of a charming talk by Miss Margaret Large, as well as the presentation by Le Cercle Francais of a French play. In addition, La Canadienne together with Le Cercle Francais had the pleasure of sponsoring the presentation on the campus of two French plays, acted by the members of the Alliance Francaise and of the Comite France-Canada.

The executive for the year has been: President, Elizabeth Houston; vice-president, Joan Carter; secretary, Evelyn Prisk; treasurer, Kitty Bladen.

le cercle francais

During '36-'37 this young society made great progress in promoting interest in French culture on the campus. With the aid of a live wire executive, the club presented many interesting and varied programmes.

Under the auspices of the society, there were presented to the student body two French comedies, enacted by L'Alliance Francaise and Le Comite France-Canada. Both Monsieur Pierre Auge, French consul for Western Canada, and his wife, took an active interest in the presentation, Madame Auge directing one of the comedies. There were exchange invitations between the two French clubs of the campus, our own and La Canadienne, the occasions being an illustrated lecture by Dr. D. Dallas and Dr. W. Tipping, and selections of French music as outlined by Dr. A. F. B. Clark.

Brimming over with ambition, the members chose and presented a two-act comedy, "L'Homme qui epousa une femme muette." The cast included Norman Beattie, Stella Bridgman, Clymene Dickie, Irene Eedy and Sadie Makinnen.

Officers are: Honorary president, Dr. W. Tipping; president, Clymene Dickie; vice-president, Peggy Jones; secretary-treasurer, Irene Eedy.

letters club

Cecil Day-Lewis' Communistic propaganda, an interpretation of Gertrude Stein, and Ezra Pound's Oriental Studies, give a broad view of the wide range of subjects hotly discussed by the Letters Club at its meetings this year.

An enthusiastic group of members has made possible very interesting meetings, as well as several innovations, the most important of which has been a joint meeting each term with the Art Club. The first of these, arranged through the hospitality of Prof. Ira Dilworth, had as its topic for the evening "Leonardo da Vinci, the Renaissance figure." The second joint meeting was entertained by Dr. A. F. B. Clark, who presented a varied programme of modern music.

Another result of enthusiastic membership was the provocative Literary Page published in the Ubysey at the beginning of the spring term. The members' own work again appeared at the Original Contributions meeting held in January, when helpful criticism of the literature submitted was given by all those present. Albert Lake carried off the laurel wreath as Poet Laureate, and Sam Roddan won the award for Prose Laureate.

A joint meeting with the Graduate Letters Club was held at the University, at which members from both clubs treated the subject of the contemporary short story from the English and the American point of view.

The presence of Prof. Thorleif Larsen once more as honorary president, an enthusiastic membership and the kindness of many friends of the Letters Club has produced results which may be termed highly successful.

The executive for '36-'37 has been: Honorary president, Prof. Larsen; president, Albert C. Lake; secretary-treasurer, Betty Street; archivist, Shinobu Higashi.

literary forum

As part of the programme for this year, the Literary Forum continued its policy of giving practice in impromptu speaking. Meetings were held at which each member spoke briefly on an unprepared subject. In addition, a new departure has been made by devoting some meetings to prepared debates.

Literary Forum has debated against two other organizations during the active season. On February 25, two women from the University of Washington opposed Forum members on the question of relative contributions to world peace by the British Empire and the United States. A week later, a debate was held with the Parliamentary Forum, on the desirability of a government controlled national radio hook-up.

The year's executive: President, Kae Farquhar, Arts '37; vice-president, Rosetta Martindale, Arts '37; secretary, Mary Rendell, Arts '38; publicity, Cynthia MacLean, Arts '38.

mathematics club

The purpose of the Mathematics Club is to encourage an interest among the students in mathematical and allied subjects. The membership is limited to twenty-five undergraduates who are honouring or majoring in mathematics.

Meetings are held every second week, and papers are given by professors and graduates as well as by the members. Among the papers presented were the following: "English Mathematicians," "Hypergeometric Series," "Some Theories in Projective Geometry," "Mechanical Integration," and "Galois' Theory of Groups."

The club regrets the death of its vice-president, Mr. Ronald Kenwick. He was a faithful member, and will be greatly missed in the activities of the club. Miss Phyllis Shaw filled the position on the executive for the remainder of the year.

The other members of the executive were: Honorary president, Dean Buchanan; honorary vice-presidents, Dr. F. S. Nowlan, Mr. F. J. Brand, Mr. W. H. Gage, Mr. L. Richardson; president, Mr. W. English; secretary-treasurer, Miss A. Hamilton.

m. e. club

The Mechanical Engineering Club was originally formed with the object of giving the members some practice in public speaking. The bi-monthly meetings of this session have fulfilled this aim with subjects ranging from casket making to steam heating.

The advantages of affiliation with some engineering association were fully discussed in an early meeting. Due to the aggressive interest of our secretary, Donald Hogg, a full application has been sent to the American Association of Mechanical Engineers, and the Club should be affiliated with this society before April.

The new head of the Mechanical and Electrical departments, Dr. H. J. Macleod, has taken advantage of the club to meet its members personally, and his friendly interest was shown in an informal discussion of our work and progress.

Executive: Honorary president, F. W. Vernon; president, H. F. Alexander; secretary-treasurer, J. D. Hogg.

menorah society

During the past year the bi-monthly meetings of the Menorah Society have consisted of a number of discussions concerning current Jewish problems.

Rabbi Zlotnick addressed the first meeting on the topic of "The Youth Federation." Our three subsequent meetings were devoted to discussions on the book, "The Intelligent Man's Guide to Jew-baiting," by Sachs of the London School of Economics. Three of our own members, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Nemetz, and Mr. Leslie Allen presented the book to us in shortened form and led the discussion. Early in November a party was held to welcome the new members to the club.

The speakers for the spring term were Mrs. D. G. Steeves, M.L.A., on "Facism in Canada"; Mr. Hymie Koshevoy on "Sports," and Dr. J. E. Morsh on "Bootleg Psychology."

The executive for the year 1936-37 has been as follows: President, Betty Moscovich; vice-president, Janice Grossman; secretary, Herbert Fisher; treasurer, Lester Sugarman; press correspondent, Doris Tobin.

monro pre-medical club

The Monro Pre-Medical Club was founded March 2, 1933, in honour of the late Dr. A. S. Monro, by whose will the University received $80,000 for medical research. Since there was not then, and is not yet, any faculty of medicine on this campus, it was hoped that the club would serve to promote the educational interests of all students engaged in pre-medical work and acquaint them with the requirements for admission to the leading medical universities.

The president for the year 1936-37, Elmer Jones, was elected to office at the close of the preceding year, while the remaining officers were elected at the first meeting of the club this session on September 29, 1936. The officers elected were: Vice-president, Jim Vance; secretary, Marion Reid; treasurer, Malcolm Brown.

At the request of the members, letters were written to the Faculty of Medicine at various universities to obtain information concerning the requirements for registration. This having been kindly forwarded us is now on file.

Only one speaker has been present at the meetings this term—Dr. Hatfield, who is head of the T. B. Preventorium in Vancouver. He gave an interesting address, illustrated with slides, concerning the spread and prevention of T. B. throughout British Columbia.

Before Christmas, a survey was made of the mental hospital at Essondale. The group was personally conducted around the institution by Dr. Burns.

A second survey, that of the General Hospital, was made in smaller groups of six and seven. After inspecting the buildings, the members were permitted to watch the performance of any operations or autopsies which were in progress at the time.

It is to be hoped that many of these pre-medical students will return to this University for research when Dr. Monro's gift is instituted as a research fund.

physics club

The Physics Club is organized to give an opportunity for its members and anyone who may be interested, to hear papers on miscellaneous scientific subjects. These lectures are given either by outside speakers or by students doing advanced work at the University. The papers are seldom of a technical nature, and are usually accompanied with slides and with laboratory demonstrations. Two outside speakers this term were Dr. McKellar and Dr. C. S. Beals, both from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria, B. C.

The executive for this year was as follows: Honorary president, Dr. T. C. Hebb; honorary vice-president, Dr. G. M. Shrum; president, S. Kusuaka; vice-president, D. C. MacPhail; secretary-treasurer, A. Covington.

psychology club

A new experiment was carried out this year in the Psychology Club which resulted in considerable success. Instead of the method of the past whereby one person presented a comprehensive paper dealing with a certain subject, this year three or four members treated the same topic from different aspects in short ten-minute addresses, providing fertile field for many animated discussions.

The first meeting of the fall term, at the home of Dr. Pilcher took the form of an "Ice-breaker," at which psychological games were played, and at this meeting it was decided that the central theme for the next four or five meetings would be "Adjustment." During the fall term the phases of this theme discussed were: (1) "The Pre-marital Adjustment of University Students"; (2) "The Economic Factor and Adjustment in Marriage"; (3) "The Inter-racial Factor and Adjustment in Marriage"; which subjects were dealt with by student or faculty members of the club.

In the spring term, the central theme, "Adjustment," was carried over for the first two meetings. At the annual banquet, held at the Gables Inn, which took the form of the first meeting of this term, the subject dealt with was "The Psychology of Adjustment in Mixed Religious Marriages." Here again there was a divergence from the usual procedure, in which two religious leaders in Vancouver were present to treat the topic from their particular point of view; Rabbi Cass, representing the non-Christian Jewish group, and the Rev. W. J. Minto Swan, representing the Church of England. Students presented the United Church and the Roman Catholic Church points of view.

The subject of "Important Psychological Factors for a Successful Marriage" was discussed at some length at the second meeting of the spring term. The two concluding meetings dealt with the topics, "Vocational Guidance," and "Hypnotic Demonstrations." The final meeting of the year took the form of an informal social preceded by the regular annual meeting of the club, during which the new officers for the year were elected.

It has been one of the most successful years in the history of the club. The meetings have never been better attended, and few in the past have created more interest or discussion, and it seems only fair to say that the Psychology Club has now taken its place among the leading clubs on the campus by virtue of the high quality and standard which have characterized its activities during the past academic year.

The officers for the past year were: Honorary president, Dr. J. W. Pilcher; official critic, Dr. J. Morsh; president, Chris. J. Loat, B.A.; vice-president, Dorothy Peterson; secretary-treasurer, Phyllis Black; members of the executive, Margaret Collins, Millard Alexander, Dorothy L. Brown.

radio club

After a year's inactivity, the Radio Club was reorganized in October. Officers were elected, and it was decided to install an amateur radio transmitting station. A suitable location was found in a storage room above the Thermodynamics Laboratory in the Mechanical Building.

The club as yet owns very little equipment, but the engineering staff of a local broadcasting station—CJOR—has very kindly offered to donate some used equipment. This year, two members of the club kindly loaned sufficient equipment to build a station. F. Nanson, Arts '40, loaned the club his short wave receiver, and L. Gray, Science '38, loaned his transmitter. The equipment was in operation during the spring term, and was used for both code and radiophone communication on the 3.5 and 14 Mc. bands with a power input of about 75 watts. The Dominion Government granted an operating licence and an appropriate call signal—VE5UR.

In the spring term technical papers were presented by Wilbert Smith, an Electrical graduate from U. B. C., and chief engineer at CJOR. The officers were as follows: President, L. Gray, Science '38; secretary, J. Hill, Science '39, and treasurer F. Jamieson, Science '40.

student christian movement

The Student Christian Movement is an independent University organization, unhampered by formula or creed, which exists for the purpose of bringing together students of varying opinions who are seeking to find the meaning of Christianity and its implications in life.

With reference to this purpose during the past year the S. C. M. has sponsored ten weekly study groups, in which over 125 students have participated. These have been supplemented by several prayer and action fellowships. It has brought a number of outstanding speakers to the campus, including Dr. Visser t'Hooft, Dr. Stanley Jones, Miss Muriel Lester and Prof. King Gordon. In addition, the Movement sent delegates to three conferences: nine to the Pacific Area Conference in California; one to the Central Area Conference in Ontario, and twenty-seven to the Northwest Canada-America Conference in Washington. As one of its service projects the S. C. M. took the lead in organizing the student-controlled boarding house at Salisbury Lodge. The final activity for the year will be the Twelfth Annual Spring Camp at Gambier Island April 23-30.

The S. C. M. of U. B. C. is a unit of the Student Christian Movement of Canada and the World Student Christian Federation.

The officers are: Honorary president, Dr. L. S. Klinck; honorary vice-president, Dean M. L. Bollert; chairman of advisory board, Mr. W. H. Malkin; president, George Nicolson; vice-presidents, Sam Roddan and Norah Sibley; secretary, Eleanor Leith; treasurer, Arthur Wirick; general secretary, Bob McMaster.

university association of the b. c. teachers' federation

This spring the school teachers attending University organized what promises to be one of the most successful and beneficial groups on the campus. A branch of the parent B. C. T. F. was formed to enable the teachers to retain a close connection with their professional organization and to improve the academic standing of members of their profession. Mr. Charlesworth, secretary of the B. C. T. F., assisted at the organization meeting.

The teachers secured a franchise on the membership vote, and also representation at the Teachers' Annual Convention held in Vancouver from March 29 to April 1. They have also instituted an exchange to facilitate teachers attending winter sessions at U. B. C. This group, in conjunction with the Summer School Association, will be of value and interest to all teachers and student-teachers on the campus.

The club held a most enjoyable dance at the end of February.

The executive is: President, John Wood, Arts '39; vice-president, Jack Wright, Arts '38; secretary, Miss Margaret Windt, Arts '40; committee, George Cormack, Arts '37; Miss Betty Lamb, Arts '39.

The primary organizers were: George Cormack, Bill Mouat and John Wood.

varsity christian union

"... a fellowship of students drawn from all faculties on the campus, who, knowing Jesus Christ as Saviour, desire in University to make Christianity significant and vital..." so reads the preamble to the club's programme. In order to help realize this desire, study, discussion and prayer groups, open meetings and conferences form a major part of the club's activities.

The visit of Stacey Woods, general secretary of the L. U. C. F. last term, and the meetings where he addressed students here and at the inter-university conference in Bellingham, were outstanding in the club's experience.

This term, study groups based upon "A Student Looks at the Parables" and "The World Mission of Christianity" have proved an undoubted success. The V. C. U. looks forward to its final activity of the term when it leads a student conference drawn from University of Washington, Oregon State, Bellingham Normal and U. B. C. at Bellingham on April 24 and 25.

Executive: President, R. Melville; vice-president, Phyllis Trafford; secretary, Edna Howard; treasurer, A. Karsgaard; publicity, R. McAllister.

the year

Twenty-two years after the first undernourished childhood weeks of the University of British Columbia—Session 1936-37. Big names, big news, excitement, stirring events shaping, whither away no one is quite sure. An upset world, stuttering forward, stubbing its toe on Ethiopia and Fascism, party patronage, pulp magazines, strikes, war talk.

How will the class of '37 remember it? By swing music and Mrs. Simpson, who will doubtless exude for their grandchildren as fresh an aura as did Lily Langtry and the military two-step for us. "Cone With the Wind" was the big-selling book of the year; "Organ-Grinder's Swing" was a tune played; "Dodsworth," "Camille," "San Francisco," were pictures of what we might call "The Period."

Vancouver had completed her Jubilee summer, and a new city hall blocked itself starkly against the Fairview skyline. Snowfall was phenomenal in January and February. The Jooss Ballet, Nelson Eddy, Martha Graham, John Charles Thomas passed through. Loyalist Spaniards stirred a turbulent mass meeting at the Auditorium to financial sympathy with the falling government. Ludwig Lewisohn spoke in the Hotel.

The eligible co-ed featured slim lines, wide skirts, flowers in her hair, sandals and jewelled clips at formals and major functions. Callow undergraduates battled through the academic haze in draped striped suits, tweed sports coats with belted backs, pleated flannels and slacks in small checks.

International news was devoted largely to Spain and the British Royal Family. New enthusiasm built up for the third king within a year, and his queen. Edward had confronted Baldwin's government with the dreadful problem of industrial decay in Wales and the Midlands. Italy and Germany played their sinister role in Spain while hot-blooded enthusiasts from every nation streamed to the support of the popular government. Armed camps restored themselves on the old footing.

Joan Crawford and Simone Simone, Louise Rainer and Myrna Loy, Merle Oberon and Claudette Colbert continued to command a vast and unquestioning public. Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Human Relations, Voices of Experience, Community Sings, Quizz programmes, thrived without shame. Canadian Radio Commission underwent startling changes. Maxwell Anderson's literary prolificity was noteworthy. Two productions of "Hamlet" played together in New York. Shakespeare came to the screen.

Dance music included "I've Got You Under My Skin," "It's De-Lovely," and "When My Dream Boat Comes Home," and was distinguished neither by brilliance nor great originality of sentiment.

On the campus there were as yet no signs of a student union building nor a stadium. A student peace petition from McGill, its objective the abolition of conscription in Canada, gained 450 signatures. A pineapple machine, installed in the cafeteria, failed on account of the dubious authenticity of the nickels paid into it. Council's pass system, bent but sound after its brush with University administrators, was accepted. A new Dean of Science came from Manitoba. Films destined for the screen libraries of posterity showed privately in the Auditorium—productions by Pabst, Eisenstein, Rene Clair. Senior "A" basketball and English rugby put in immensely successful seasons. There was a Victoria invasion.

In all, it was a lively and thorough session. Much happened about us that was significant, probably more that was not. From close distance it is difficult to judge. From a vantage point more remote, perhaps the year was one rich in portent. At any rate, we enjoyed it.

No ghosts haunt here where man has never been;
No dreams of startled woodsmen going home.

An endless silent loneliness that breaks
Off branches, snaps the twigs from leafless boughs,
Alone lives here with me, while overhead
Remote tree tops swing creaking in the breeze
Like cargo winches or loose cable wires,
Or roaring in a sudden gust of wind
Like surf on distant shores. Up there the sun
As sifted sand through fingers drops in streams
Through needled patchwork in silent stealth.

The Grecian herdsman knew a kindred spirit
In every knotted trunk and lichen rock;
Little people dwell in every English copse;
But here among our trees lives but one thing,
Silence, a catlike lurking beast of prey,
Creeps off the boughs and curls about the trunks.

fear

I am afraid, afraid of many things, but mostly of loneliness, the darkness and no one there.

I see them every day on my way to work and they turn and look and I feel their eyes and sometimes I want to turn and run to them and pull them close to me and then to hold them back and gaze at their strength; at their head, hair, eyes, the soft brown tinges on their cheeks, their mouth and I want to feel the play of muscles and touch their rough faces. But there was one . . . He was on a corner selling newspapers. His voice was deep from the continual calling, but it wasn't harsh or bitter. I went up and bought a paper from him and he looked at me. His eyes were soft and warm, but it was his mouth that my eyes saw. Lips that were meant to sing the only song, this the one of procreation. I stared at him, too long I suppose, for he suddenly blushed and turned away to his work.

I came back next day, but he had changed his corner and I have never seen him again.

I am not afraid to confess it (there is no shame in it), I am still afraid of loneliness and the long nights and their awful emptiness and no one, no one there.

The University Book Store

The Book Store, which occupies a room in the Auditorium Building, was established for the convenience of the students, and has effected a considerable saving to the students in time and money. It is prepared to supply all the text books required for the various courses offered in the University, also such articles as note books, loose-leaf sheets, fountain pens, drawing paper and instruments.

grade one

I was eight when I started to school. I didn't go before because I had scarlet fever and spent a long time in the hospital where I grew up suddenly and became very wise. My mother took me the first day and explained to the teacher.

He is a little older than the other pupils you have Mrs Wright but he will be a good boy.

Mrs Wright was tall and stiff. Her hair was done up in a great ball and pulled tight from her forehead. It made her face look very small and sad. She had lovely hands and I watched them as she wrote my name on the list, then she smiled and said. We will take good care of him and I am sure John will pay attention, Oh yes he will make a fine scholar. For a moment her hand rested gently on my shoulder. Mother went quickly away.

The room was warm and smelled of fresh plasticine and paste. A little chalk box was overflowing with tiny scissors. I sat quiet in my seat and felt very lonely. A girl came in with a jug of water and tended a withered geranium. A bell rang and we all went out and kicked a soft football around. They said this was recess. Then they lined us up in rows and we marched into our rooms. One teacher stood at the door and made sure we took off our caps. Mrs. Wright played the piano. A strange pleasant feeling ran through me. It was grand music and I knew I would like marching.

Then we were all seated again and Mrs. Wright stood up very straight and told us a story. I began to think about all the stories I had heard in the hospital. This one was about a king who could not sleep. There was once a fierce and warlike young king who seemed to possess everything that the heart of man could wish. He was very rich and very powerful and he had a great army. But in spite of all his wealth and his strength he was the unhappiest man in his kingdom. At night he could not sleep. He summoned to his court the most famous doctors in the world but none of them was able to cure him of his sickness. At last he said that he would give half of his kingdom to any person who could make him sleep but he added that if anyone failed to cure him they would be imprisoned.

Everybody was sitting up straight and listening hard to the story. Mrs. Wright just seemed to change into someone else.

One evening, she said, a pretty shepherdess came to his palace and said that she could heal him. But the king looked at her sadly and told her to return home. He said, you can not possibly succeed where all the wisest of doctors have failed.

No, I cannot go away, said the little shepherdess, until I have done my work—until I have tried to save you.

Well, before you try, said the king, tell me what your remedy is. Some simple thing that your mother taught you?

grade one (continued)

Yes, she replied, it is something my mother taught me. Here it is, and leading the king to an open window she pointed up to heaven.

What, you have come to mock me, said the king.

No, said the little shepherdess, I have come to teach you to pray.

Just then the devil got into me and I knew I was going to laugh. Mrs. Wright saw that something was going to happen and she coughed and looked very fierce at me.

We will finish the story this afternoon, she said. I knew I was to blame and felt cheap and old.

And now we are going to play a game—— I didn't want to play any game but we all stood up. This is a breathing game, she said severely, but with love. I could see Mrs. Wright loved her duties and I was sad I bothered her. She showed us what to do, then she took a long pole from behind the door and pulled the windows down.

Are you ready? Breathe she would cry, everybody breathe——

And each of us would take a deep breath of the morning air and hold it in.

Then she would say, exhale, and all of us would let out the morning air making a large and sorrowful sigh. We did this six times and then I forgot about my regrets and made a false groan saying aaaaaaaaah making everybody laugh and she looked at me sternly and said,

Ready, are you ready again?

Then

Inhale she would cry.

Then,

Exhale

Again I made a false groan. This time the other boys got some courage and began to groan so that the room was filled with misery. Mrs. Wright tried to silence us gently yet severely and I felt sorry for her and stopped. She clapped her hands and stood up very tall and said that the game was over. Take your seats. For a moment all you could hear was the breathing. Then Mrs. Wright started to tell us about the pencils and paper which we would need but the bell rang and everybody jumped up. Take your places again boys and girls. We will leave in rows. My row was last and I was the last boy to leave.

She touched my shoulder gently with her hand as I slipped past her and smiled sadly. I ran home quickly to mother and told her I never wanted to go back to school again.

I was in my place at one o'clock but I don't remember much else. They have torn down the old school building and Mrs Wright is dead and all of us are changed but somehow everything is the same and Mrs Wright is there and so is the school and every last one of us breathing the morning air.

quiet rain

When quiet rain drops softly through the dark,
And peacefully shines the street,
And everything is moist and gray and dim,
I think of some retreat
Far from the weary, wistful ways of men—
Gray stone and spacious halls
Serenely stand, and in the distance trill
Faint crystal waterfalls.

she walked down the road

She walked down the lonely road,
And no man cared,
The leaves stood still in the air,
The sun flashed on her straggling hair,
Hers was a weary load
That no soul shared.

The quiet held the dusty road,
And on she fared,
The clouds stood gray in the skies,
The shade softened her staring eyes,
She walked down the lonely road
And no man cared.

in a mist-rapt sea and gesture.

In mirror'd surface—
Shell-encrusted, sea-smelling
Sea-weedy green
In broken light and half-shades
Shimmer,
Five piles.

And the faint throb of passing phantom craft,
The seagulls muffled cry,
The hush before the breaking of the buds,
And early spring beside the sea.

for your autograph

With winged words you bade me play—

Yes, bright winged words for thee,

But these are weak as the deer at bay,

And light as the wings of the bee.

With armed words you'd have me fight—

With armed words for thee,

But these are faint as the leaden sight,

Yea, fickle as waves of the sea.

O, have me toil with mightier things—

Say, beauteous deeds for thee,

If these in later years will bring

Some pleasant thought of me.

And with these deeds, I'll rear a dream—

A dream that ne'er need end—

Strong memories which you'll ever deem

True image of a friend.

she was waiting for me

She was waiting for me. She stood, one hand on hip, one knee bent, under the strong, white, overhead light. Her dress was plain, tight, virgin white. Her black hair, tightly pulled back over the high, proud brow, streamed icily and her shoulders were marble white. She was an Ionian pillar of ice. All brilliant highlights and revealing black shadows. I moved closer. She held out her hand. I took it and she pulled me closer still. Not closer to a pillar of ice now, but closer to the fierce silverness of a magnesium flame. Her hand left mine and moved slowly and relentlessly up my bare arm. Not cold, not feverish, not moist, a hand symbolic of all that is woman, and cool and sensitive, and restrained yet caressing. I looked into her eyes. They were shadowed over by her brows, but the tips of her lashes were silver black in the strong down-beating light. The eyes were black and black-shadowed, but yet the silver flame was in them. Her hand tightened on my arm. The flame flared past my eyes and murmured in my ears. My arm tightened under her hand but she did not loosen her fingers. The flame-roar surged into my blood, into my hands, into my lips. The carbon-black shadows of her crumbled under the flaming whiteness and blew with flashes of crimson past my eyes, into her cheeks, into her lips. Crimson and Silver. And Gold.

Wistaria sleeps on a sunlit wall,
Heavily sprawled at length;
A cataract of jasmine stars
Pours from an arbor down;
In the shadows of a lily-laden pool
Fish like flames dart to and fro—
All this is mine. Mine, too,
The gaiety of maples
And the mystery of cedars—
For they are there
And the gate is always open.

When this rich life ye leave (the prophet saith)
As entered ye the world, so naked go to death:
Possessions—all that moth and rust corrupt—
Must be abandoned with your final breath.

With broom, brush, duster and O'Cedar oil
I hear with anything but heartfelt glee
That the next world of treasures shall be free?
