1.35 m of textual records.

Biographical Sketch

Wilson Duff (1925-1976) attended the University of British Columbia and graduated with a B.A. in 1949 and later received an M.A. in Anthropology from the University of Washington in 1951. Duff was the curator of Anthropology at the B.C. Provincial Museum (1950-1965), and later an associate professor/professor of anthropology at UBC. He was also on the Vancouver Museum planning committee and a consultant to study the National Museum of Man in Ottawa. He served as the Vice President of the B.C. Museums Association from 1962-1963, and was later the President of the association from 1963-1965. Duff's publications made significant contributions to the study of Indigenous cultures and museums' development around the province. Duff's other contributions to the First Nations communities include his membership in the provincial Indian Advisory Committee. He also acted as an unofficial advisor to several of the First Nations organizations of the province. In particular, he held a role as the advisor to one band, the Kitwancool and testified in the White and Bob case in Nanaimo and the Nisga'a case related to land claim issues. Duff also conducted a great deal of work on the histories and territories of B.C. tribes and has exceptionally detailed materials in the Tsimshian, Haida, Kwakiutl and Athapasha groups.

Scope and Content

The fonds consists of articles, reports and government publications that were amassed by Duff and are related to land claims, government papers, treaties and matters related to First Nations communities. Included are records on councils, associations and committees, including meeting minutes, documents, educational materials, and media associated materials such as bulletins, First Nations newspapers, newsletters, and brochures of organizations.

Notes

Title based on the content of the fonds.

The term "Indian" is now outdated and is considered by many Indigenous Peoples to be offensive. However, it is retained in some places in this inventory to reflect historical naming conventions.
