Fonds Description

Guided Independent Study fonds. - 1972-1987.

3.2 m of published texts.

89 audio cassette tapes.

Administrative History

Guided Independent Study was first established in 1973 as Credit and Independent Study, offering university courses by correspondence. The name was changed to Guided Independent Study in 1977; since 1986 it has also been known as UBC Access. Its functions remain the same: to offer credit and non-credit courses to students outside the Lower Mainland by correspondence. The department has always been closely associated with the Centre for Continuing Education.

Scope and Content

Fonds consists of course manuals, work-books, and audio cassette tapes issued by Guided Independent Study to students. They are arranged by course number, and then by year of publication; in many cases, there are several editions issued over the years for each course. Manuals and audio-tapes are listed and stored separately.

Notes

File list available.

Title based on contents of the fonds.

The fonds was acquired in several accessions, the most recent being in February 1994.

Inventories available.

Other records dealing with the University's continuing education programmes may be found in the Department of University Extension fonds and the Centre for Continuing Education fonds.
